Ex-Bricklayer's Daughter
Now 'Her Serene Highness'

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

MONACO (UP)—Grace Kelly murmured "oui" with tears in her eyes today and became the wife and princess of a monarch so shy he gave her his kingdom without a kiss.

In the ancient crimson throne room of a castle on the cliffs above the Mediterranean, she sat beside Prince Rainier III and gravely took her solemn civil vows of marriage under the laws of his state and tradition of his dynasty.

She blinked her shining eyes and clasped her hands while Judge Marcel Portanier said in French: "Mademoiselle Grace Patricia Kelly, do you take as your husband His Serene Highness, My Lord Prince Rainier III, here present."

Her chiseled thin tipped up and she murmured "oui." The judge turned then to Rainier whose fingers fidgeted tensely in his lap.

"Oui," the prince replied in a low but steady voice. At that moment (2 a.m. Victoria time) the bricklayer's daughter from Philadelphia who became first lady of Hollywood ascended to old world royalty with tilted rank and realm.

"I pronounce Your Serene Highness united by the bonds of marriage," said the judge in the first usage of Grace Kelly's royal title. The newlyweds stole a shy glance at each other from the gilded chairs where they sat beside each other before the scarlet-canopied throne.

But Rainier did not seal it with a kiss. This was a solemn state occasion, a civil ceremony, and he chose to keep a regal atmosphere.

Thursday they wed under religious laws of the church, and only after the cathedral ceremony do they begin their life together.

Tomorrow's ceremony also may be kissless. "It's seldom done and often not in Catholic ceremonies," Grace explained tremulously after today's formalities were completed.

"I doubt that we'll do it tomorrow either." She still was having trouble swallowing back the tears. "I'm kind of numb," she said.

138 TITLES When she learned she had 138 titles, she gasped. "Oh, no!" she said, scanning a list of names offered her. "I've never seen them all in one place before. She lifted her first glass of champagne after the marriage with United Press correspondents.

FLUORIDES? YES—AND NO

TORONTO (CP)—It's "guess-which-water-is-fluoridated" week here.

Delegates to the Canadian Restaurant Association convention are challenged by the Health League of Canada to distinguish between two vats of drinking water.

One of the vats contains fluorides. First day of the test, these were the results:

Teen-Agers Stage Walk-Out

School Principal, Teachers Defied

NANAIMO—Close to 250 Nanaimo High School students left their classrooms in a protest action today and refused to return until promised a hearing by the District 68 School Board.

They complained of lack of co-operation by the school staff in school activities such as sports and band operation.

Led by Brian Kayne, spokesman, they left their classrooms at 10:30 a.m. Ordered by J. B. Litch, principal, to return to their classes, they refused until three trustees came to the school and promised a hearing at a school board meeting to-night at 7:30.

Mr. Litch told the Times the students leading the demonstration do not represent the majority of the student body. (The school has 600 students.)

BEHIND IN WORK

"They said they would like to see changes made in the conduct of extra-curricular activities, but instead of going through normal channels they staged a demonstration," he said.

Some of these students are behind scholastically, and others had been urged recently to improve their work," he said. "They have asked for an investigation of extra-curricular activities, and I would welcome the fullest check possible."

Mr. Litch has been at the school for 24 years, most of them as principal.

For 30 minutes the students stood in the school grounds in defiance of orders to return to classes. They did not move when Mr. Litch told them they would accomplish their objective faster by returning to classes.

School board chairman Jack Rayer, and trustees Mrs. W. E. Ricker and Matthew Martin, called at the school grounds in person. Mr. Rayer said the board of trustees would give a group of from three to five students a hearing at the regular meeting of the board this evening.

In addition to other complaints, the students said some had been asked to leave school, and others had been "restricted" in their work.

BOO PRINCIPAL They disagreed when Mr. Litch said "my office door is always open," and they booed when he said "we always have been interested in extra-curricular activities."

Students said that only recently a party of 20 of them came to Victoria to see provincial authorities regarding their complaints about the school.

Spokesman Brian Kayne said that after they had left Nanaimo someone "at the school" had telephoned Victoria to say they were coming, and that as a result they were able to see no one.

Kayne said the principal had been "trying to get me out of the school."

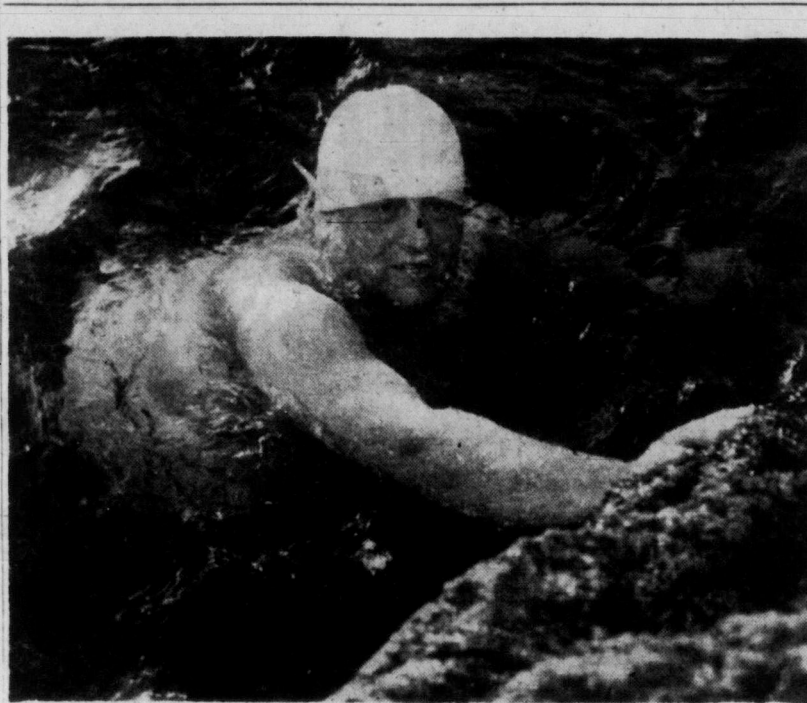

"I've gone to his office several times to protest lack of co-operation, and was not listened to," he said. "What I amounted to was him putting me in a chair and calling me names."

Witnesses said about 100 students left the school in a body, and others came in smaller groups as words of the demonstration spread. Over the grounds was a banner reading: "Students of Nanaimo High Protest Lack of Co-Operation."

Campney Wants Report (See Page 14)

OTTAWA (CP)—Defence Minister Campney has asked for a report on the carrying of arms by American troops at Mount Hope, Ont. Tuesday, following crash of a U.S. Air Force Globemaster.

Big Ben Quits Strait Try After 4 Hours in Water

By AB KENT

Big Ben Laughren's first try to swim to Port Angeles ended at 10:17 this morning when he pulled himself from shimmering, dead-calm water 2½ miles south of Discovery Island.

It was the season's first swim attempt on the Strait and was halted because an expected ebb tide failed to materialize.

The swimming cook was in the water four hours, 25 minutes from the time he shoved off Gonzales Point at 5:52 a.m., and struggled most of the distance in tideless, 43-degree water.

A conference between Laughren, trainer Ove Witt and navigator Bill Teller was to decide this afternoon whether a second try would be launched "possibly Sunday or Monday."

Teller had counted on a strong ebb tide to carry Laughren away from Gonzales Point, around the south tip of Trial Island and down the Strait of Juan de Fuca toward Angeles Point.

It never materialized.

Rather than tire the swimmer unnecessarily by making the attempt into a long practice swim, his managers decided to forego the marathon.

There was no possible chance of getting across the 18.3-mile body of water today, according to Teller's calculations.

"Ben needs a couple of days' rest anyway," said Witt, adding, Continued on Page 30

COPIES OF SWIM CHART ARE STILL AVAILABLE

Copies of the Juan de Fuca gridded swim chart which appeared in the Times during the swimming season in 1955 may be obtained free from the downtown office, Broad Street, or at Times circulation, 2631 Douglas Street. The chart is helpful in following radio reports of swimmers.

PREMIER OPPOSED

City Businessmen Hail U.K. Lottery

Britain's national savings lot who wins, but the rest starve," tery plan met with mixed reaction in Victoria today.

Premier Bennett and Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi, a minister of the church as well as the Crown, expressed disapproval of the gambling aspects of the lottery, while most business and financial men contacted thought it "a good idea."

Premier Bennett said, "I'm a great supporter of savings, but I'm not in favor of gambling."

Mr. Gagliardi, a strong opponent of lotteries and gambling, said "that's strictly for the English. I'm 100 per cent against gambling."

"These lotteries—they are good for one person, the one who wins, but the rest starve," said Mr. Gagliardi. "I just can't see it..."

The British plan, announced by Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan, calls for the government to issue bonds of small denominations.

Draws would be made on the savings bond serial numbers, with the usual rate of interest being shared by the lottery winners.

RISK INTEREST Bondholders would risk only the interest on their savings.

James Thow, manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, Government Street, said: "I think it's a wonderful thing. It will certainly help to stem inflation in Britain."

Mr. Thow said such a plan would take the place of Irish Sweepstake lotteries, and could apply "with equal force" in Canada.

He said such a scheme in operation in this country "would assist in holding down any inflationary trends in our economy."

F. E. Winslow, investment dealer, said: "It is a good thing for England, with its inflation troubles, but I will reserve judgment on the merits of its application in Canada."

G. F. Dunn, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, also thought the British plan "a good idea."

He said it would serve as a legal outlet "for those people who are going to gamble and buy sweepstake tickets no matter what the law says."

"I am satisfied that gambling will be carried on regardless of the law," said Mr. Dunn, "and it seems common sense to gratify the public desire to gamble, and at the same time, cure Britain's serious inflation problems."

Wheat Holdings Up

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's stocks of wheat March 31 totaled 751,620,000 bushels, the second highest in history and a rise of 130,000,000 bushels over last year's holdings.

Anti-Reds Arrested By Security Guards

WIRE BRIEFS

Four Jets Crash

LONDON (AP)—Three RAF jets and a United States Air Force jet crashed within 12 hours of each other in Britain.

One pilot was killed and two, including the American, were missing. The fourth bailed out safely.

Cominform Buried

MOSCOW (UP)—Pravda buried the Cominform today with praise for its past and a suggestion that its demise would facilitate united action between Communists and Socialists.

The Communist party newspaper carried a 700-word official statement on page three announcing the termination of the international Communist bureau because it had "exhausted its function."

British Pound Gains

LONDON (Reuters)—The pound sterling today rose to its highest rate in terms of dollar value ($2.81 1-16) since August, 1954, in dealings between London and New York. The rate at that time was $2.81½.

Montreal Bank Held Up

MONTREAL (CP)—A lone, gun-wielding bandit today held up a downtown branch of the Banque Canadienne Nationale, escaping with about $5,000, police said.

'Cease Fire' Pact Ready

JERUSALEM (UP)—An Israeli foreign office spokesman said today he believed an Israeli-Egyptian cease fire would be announced tonight or Thursday. Foreign office spokesman Michael Elitzur said formal agreement to the cease fire request has been in the hands of United Nations secretary-general Dag Hammarskjöld for several days.

Railway Decision Soon

MONTREAL (BUP)—The nation's two major railroads, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National, stated jointly today that the recommended wage increases and fringe benefits would cost them $80,000,000 a year and would "so damage the competitive position of the railways as to make itself defeating."

But they said no final decision would be made for "a few days."

FIRECRACKER EXPLODES

During the wait at the station, an explosion sent police running down an alley nearby. It was a firecracker.

On the way to the hotel, some spectators waved papers and flags. Two students stood on the sidewalk with a banner declaring: "We Want Grace Kelly."

There were one or two scuffles among the crowds along the route but no serious incidents. British police have imposed every possible security measure to protect the Soviet leaders while they are here. There has been considerable agitation against their visit, particularly among refugees from eastern Europe.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

HELP US NOW, O Lord, in the reading of this newspaper, to render sound judgment on the news of this day. Let the good news of the unselfish service of many lead us to emulate them. And let us have faith so the news of evil tidings will not depress us. We thank Thee for the agencies which seek to know and publish the truth, however faltering. May Thy blessing be with those who bear this great responsibility; through Jesus Christ, our Lord. Amen.

VICTORIAN AT 'THE WEDDING'

Weeping, Cheering On Monaco Streets

By NORMA MACDONALD

MONACO—The scene in this story-book principality of Monaco is one of indescribable beauty. The streets are filled with cheering, happy people. It is the biggest moment in their lives—past, present and future—and they are making the most of it. Their beloved prince has taken unto himself a wife.

"There will be babies," a little old woman says, with tears streaming down her seamed and wrinkled face and melting into the strings of her gay bonnet.

"Babies," echoed a dashing young man with an equally attractive woman on his arm. He grabbed the little old lady by the arm and, as a threesome, they danced off into the crowd.

To the Monagueses the "babies" are very important for if Prince Rainier and Princess Grace do not have children then, according to a 1918 treaty, Monaco becomes French.

ATTRACTED THOUSANDS

That is why this marriage is such a big event in Monaco.

The civil ceremony today and all the entertainment surrounding it may have attracted thousands of tourists but it has been planned for Prince Rainier's Monaguese subjects—and for them alone. The people know it and while they are considerate to visitors, as hosts and hostesses would be, they are pre-occupied with their own affairs and their own participation in the week long celebrations that end with the religious ceremony on Thursday.

Actually the couple are married now according to law, but for the church they will not be wed "in the eyes of God" until the church rites.

I'm told there was no special reason why both civil and religious ceremonies could not have been held the same day, as they often are, but because this marriage is of such significance to Monaco, they were planned for the two days.

I watched the wedding-evening ceremonies, which included a lavish display of fireworks in the harbor, from my hotel room

Broadcasting Probe Will Open April 30

OTTAWA (CP)—The royal commission on broadcasting will open its public hearings April 30, chairman R. M. Fowler announced today.

Hearings will be held throughout Canada during May June and September.

Ike's Veto Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives today upheld President Eisenhower's veto of the catchall farm bill. A motion to override the veto was defeated 211 to 202, far short of the two-thirds majority needed to send the bill back to the White House.

IN PARLIAMENT

Long Debate Ends As Budget Approved

(From Times News Services)

After a last-minute flurry of Opposition criticisms and suggestions, the House has approved the 1956-57 federal budget outlined March 20 by Finance Minister Harris.

The budget, which aims at ending the current fiscal year with a $113,000,000 surplus and offers only certain sales and excise tax changes worth about $12,000,000, was in effect given approval Tuesday night by a vote of 140 to 69.

The three Opposition parties and the two Independent members in the House at the time—Ross, Thatcher (Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) and Raoul Poulin (Beauce)—opposed the Liberals.

The vote, ending the eight-day budget debate, left the House free to begin consideration today of legislation ratifying the trade agreement between Canada and Russia, signed here Feb. 29.

The three-year pact, under which Russia agreed to buy at least 44,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat within the treaty's span, must be ratified within 90 days of its signing.

As the budget debate closed, members came up with several suggestions and criticisms.

Davie Fulton (PC, Kamloops) and G. H. Castleden (CCF, Yorkton) led criticism of government policy which they said is allowing American control of the Canadian economy to grow.

Mr. Fulton said he finds no quarrel with the need for outside capital investments to help develop Canadian industry and natural resources.

However, control of these sections of the economy should remain in Canadian hands, not pass to American interests.

He called on the government to take immediate specific steps to halt the trend, steps that would be within Canadian jurisdiction and proper to Canadian political integrity and independence.

"We wish to see action taken so that the development of Canada can remain under Canadian control and be carried on in the interests of Canada generally," Mr. Fulton said.

Sabotage Canadian Development

A. B. Patterson (SC, Fraser Valley) in turn criticized their disapproval of growing American investment in Canada.

This anti-American attitude, he said, might have the effect of sabotaging Canadian development. If Canadians were hesitant in investing their money and the government refused to adopt policies to ensure proper development, "then we should be prepared to welcome foreign capital into Canada."

Jean-Paul St. Laurent, son of the prime minister, took the opportunity of making his maiden speech. He was elected member for Temiscouata in a by-election last September.

He made no attempt to reply to a speech earlier this session by J. Wilfrid Dufresne (PC, Quebec West), who described the young Mr. St. Laurent as a spoiled child who won election with "childish sayings" about his influence with his father. Jean-Paul dismissed Mr. Dufresne's remarks as "garbage."

Transport Minister George Marler said Tuesday the government is considering financial aid for a west coast marine rescue service.

The British Columbia Towboat Owners' Association was in danger of being disbanded and asked Ottawa for assistance, Marler said.

Some representations made by the association last October already have been put into effect, and others have been passed on to other government departments.

Marler said his department had updated and improved the association's radio communication, but he pointed out that the defence department was responsible for co-ordinating rescue and search operations.

The government has lost interest in brain-washing experiments, Defence Minister Ralph Campney said Tuesday.

Some of the experiments were conducted at McGill University, Campney said in reply to a question by Davie Fulton (PC-Kamloops), but they were not followed up.

"The experiments demonstrated conclusively that purely by mental suggestion people can be reduced to a certain state of mind that you could get them to accept anything and

REPORTERS MISTAKEN FOR RUSSIANS

Some Cheered, Some Jeered— But Most Londoners Just Stared

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—I drove through London streets today with Nikita Khrushchev and Marshal Bulganin, and shared their boos and cheers. The crowd thought our shiny black automobile, travelling in the official convoy from Victoria station to Claridge's Hotel, carried Russian notable secret police.

Instead, we were just reporters. Our car was the seventh in the convoy. If we had been Russians, we wouldn't have known what to make of our reception. Some cheered, some waved, most just stared.

Occasionally there were boos. One small group on the sidewalk near Victoria station chanted rhythmically: "Down with communism, down with communism."

As Bulganin, leading the way, came out of the station he looked Mostly it was a triumph of British phlegm. The crowd seemed curious rather than hostile.

The angriest man we saw was Brig. Terence Clarke, a Conservative member of Parliament. He got caught in the crowd outside Claridge's.

"Hey," he cried. "I've got to get to the House of Commons. This is just an ordinary day for us." Finally he had to make a detour to get through the crowd.

The first view the Russians had of London after getting off the train and leaving the station would have fitted any preconceived notions they may have had from reading Pravda.

As Bulganin, leading the way, came out of the station he looked up at a gloomy, five-story factory building on a street called Hudson's place. Off to the right was the skeleton structure of a new office building, a depressing sight.

It was hardly the most auspicious place to discover London's bourgeois charms.

But Bulganin and Khrushchev had no time to stand and stare. Their attention was quickly caught by Soviet officials and their wives, laden with flowers, about 20 yards to their left.

The welcoming party chanted "Zdrastvuite" which we were told means "May you be healthy." One of the women was allowed through the police lines to present a bouquet. After a few moments, we drove off.

tain countries wore black armbands and fasted in protest against the visitors.

Eden today received a spoon with a 10-foot long handle from the British League of Empire Loyalists. A league official said the group was acting on the proverb: "Who supps with the devil should use a long spoon."

No flags or bunting broke the drabness of the station but a red Soviet flag with yellow hammer and sickle was displayed outside the hotel. A Union Jack flew on either side of it.

Crowds waiting near Claridge's were handed leaflets by Latvian refugees. They said: "Be on the alert against Bulganin and Khrushchev. Treachery hides behind their smiles."

At Portsmouth, there were no cheers as the Russian cruiser carrying the Soviet leaders slid slowly to her moorings.

MONTREAL (BUP)—Union spokesmen for some 150,000 railroad employees today "submerged" their objections to a federal conciliation board's report that offered them less than they sought in a new contract with the nation's railroads.

Frank H. Hall, chairman of a 110-man negotiating committee acting for 17 unions, told federal labor minister Milton Gregg the non-operating employees—who do not run the trains—would go along with the board's suggestions.

There was no immediate reaction from the companies. Hall said after making the committee's stand known late Tuesday, however, that it was not satisfied. He said the report was accepted "to avoid conflict and bring about stability in the industry."

Labor Blasts Findings of Quebec Probe

Report Labelled Work of Theorists

OTTAWA (BUP)—The country's most powerful labor bloc today blasted proposals contained in the recent report of the Quebec royal commission on constitutional questions.

Claude Jodoin, French-Canadian head of the 600,000-member Trades and Labor Congress, and Donald Macdonald, secretary-treasurer of the 400,000-strong Canadian Congress of Labor, issued a joint statement terming the royal commission's report "a revolutionary document."

Federal officials recently expressed the opinion that Premier Maurice Duplessis might make use of the report during the coming provincial election campaign, but then would probably quietly shelve it.

"It proposes nothing less than the handing over of the whole of social security and the whole of direct taxation to the provinces," the joint labor statement said.

Other excerpts from the two-page statement:

"The effect of (its) proposals on the people of Canada, and especially on the people of Quebec, would be disastrous, and it is the workers of Canada, and still more of Quebec, who would suffer most."

"It could set Quebec at loggerheads with the Dominion and all other provinces, and produce in other provinces a terrible misunderstanding of Quebec, its people, its problems and its needs."

"Our painfully acquired national unity could be destroyed by it and social progress set back half a century."

"The congresses think it imperative to say plainly that this report is the voice not of the common people of Quebec but of a handful of theorists who know nothing of the needs of the people, and apparently care less."

$13 Million Cement Plant For Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Societe Anonyme des Chaux et Ciments de Lafarge et du Teil, large cement-manufacturing company with headquarters in Paris, announced today a Canadian subsidiary has been established here.

The new company is Lafarge Cement of North America Ltd. Lafarge Cement has acquired 50 acres on suburban Lulu Island and will shortly begin to build a $13,000,000 cement-manufacturing plant on the site, the company said.

About 120 men will be employed when the plant goes into operation in 15 months.

'Death Curve' in Fraser Valley Takes Third Life Within Week

(From The Canadian Press)

HOPE—Victim of the second traffic accident in little more than a week on the same curve on the trans-Canada highway near here has been identified as Roy Edward Gosling, 30, of Abbotsford.

He died about midnight Tuesday when a car, believed travelling in an easterly direction, apparently went out of control and crashed into the mountain side.

RCMP said Mrs. Hugh Fitzsimmons, a passenger in Gosling's car, suffered only minor injuries for which she was treated at the accident scene.

The crash occurred at the same spot where newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. William de Geer of Vancouver met death April 7 at the start of their honeymoon. Their car spun across the other side of the road and plunged over a 200-foot embankment to railway tracks below where it exploded and burned.

POLICE EXPANSION STARTS
VANCOUVER—Five senior appointments will be made on the Vancouver police force soon, chief George Archer said here Tuesday night.

The chief, appointed Oct. 31 to succeed dismissed Walter Mulligan, said the force is holding examinations for the posts of four staff inspectors, a new rank.

The position of staff counselor, also a new rank, will be advertised shortly, he said.

Chief Archer said the new appointments will mean there will be a senior officer on duty at all times.

NELSON MAN DROWNS

NELSON—A Nelson sportsman and businessman, Albert Leonard Gustafson, 46, is presumed to have drowned Tuesday when he slipped from a log while fishing at the mouth of Sitkum Creek, nine miles east of here, and disappeared.

Mr. Gustafson was fishing alongside Donald McIvor of Nelson at the time. Mr. McIvor said he saw him fall into the water, struggle against the combined currents of the creek and Kootenay Lake, then disappear.

FINGERS AMPUTATED

NEW WESTMINSTER—John Nolan, 29-year-old veneer plant worker, lost four fingers Tuesday in an industrial accident. Officials of Pacific Veneer and Plywood said the mishap occurred during gluing operations.

GULLS FORCE CHANGE

VANCOUVER—Fear that hovering seagulls would be an aircraft hazard forced a change in location for a proposed garbage dump here.

The dump was originally planned for Dismore Island a short distance from Vancouver International airport on Sea Island. Airport officials asked that plans be changed because of the air hazard created by thousands of seagulls.

A new location now is being sought.

HOSPITAL DROPS $57,658

VANCOUVER—The General Hospital had a $57,658 deficit in 1955, mainly because of wage increases to hospital employees, the 55th annual meeting was told Tuesday.

Chairman A. L. Wright said the hospital will be the largest in Canada, with 1,800 beds, on completion of three new buildings.

RECORD CIVIC BUDGET

PENTICTON—City council has approved a record budget of $1,960,000 and a gross mill rate of 48.97, including school tax.

GAVE WINE TO CHILD

VANCOUVER—Police Monday were considering charges against a man who got a three-year-old girl intoxicated.

Police said the girl was not molested.

ASSIGNED TO FORMOSA

VANCOUVER—Robert Fraser Mitchell, 47-year-old chemical engineer with Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co., leaves today by air for Formosa as the first Canadian technician to assist the Chinese Nationalist government in recent years.

Mr. Mitchell, under a scheme sponsored by the United States government, will be on loan to the Nationalists to supervise the construction of a plant to make fertilizer from ammonia.

CREEKS OVERFLOW

CASTLEGAR—Two swollen creeks are reported causing trouble in the Castlegar and nearby Kinnaid areas.

Bloomer Creek, normally carried by underground pipeline to the Columbia river, has backed up and is threatening an apartment house and side streets.

At Kinnaid, runoff water has flooded the garbage dump.

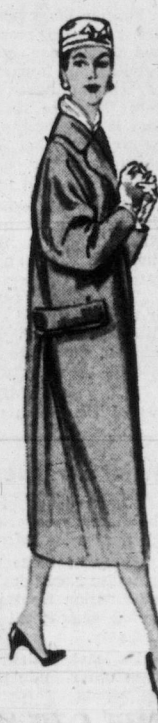

RANCHERS PROTEST

FORT ST. JOHN—Ranchers through the Peace River country have complained to Lands Minister Ray Williston that survey charges on land bought or leased from the Crown are too high.

The ranchers said the vendor, as in private transactions, should have the land surveyed before disposing of it.

TEEN-AGE KILLERS KNOW FATE MONDAY

WINNIPEG (BUP)—A spokesman for the Manitoba Court of Appeal said today that judgment will be delivered Monday morning in Winnipeg in the appeal of three Montreal district teen-agers against their death sentence for the murder of a Roman Catholic priest.

The three were convicted last November 16 at Brandon, Man., of the murder of the Rev. Father Alfred Quirion, 44.

Emery to Lecture At Art Gallery

An illustrated lecture, "Contemporary British Painting," will be given by Anthony Emery, Thursday evening, at the Art Gallery. Familiar to many gallery-goers for the lively and amusing "Anthology" series which he organized last year for the art gallery's evening programs, Mr. Emery has since that time become well known to television viewers for his authoritative commentaries over C.B.U.T. on various Vancouver art exhibitions. The present lecture was delivered earlier this month at the Vancouver Art Gallery.

Russian Smiles in Britain

MESSRS. BULGANIN AND Khrushchev have arrived in Britain smiling. They have good reason to smile. The world news of late has been tailored to suit them perfectly.

Iceland gives United States troops notice to get out. Ceylon rejects a government favorable to Britain and the West, installing in its place a government which favors neutralism in the world struggle and threatens to establish a republic, within or without the Commonwealth.

The French and West German Governments are quarreling again, the former apparently willing to postpone German reunification indefinitely in order to secure a disarmament agreement with Russia; the latter insisting angrily that reunification must come first and preparing to deal directly with Russia.

France removes its troops from the NATO line in Europe to fight a large-scale revolt in North Africa. Russia has leap-frogged the ancient barrier in the Dardanelles and is installed as a major power in the Middle East while its chief client, Egypt, threatens to launch a war with Russian arms.

No wonder the travelling salesmen of communism are all smiles. They have plenty of trouble at home but they know that the world struggle has been going their way much more successfully under the new tactics than under the old.

Perhaps Messrs. Bulganin and Khrushchev have read a survey conducted by correspondents of The New York Times in all the free countries of Europe. Its findings should please them.

Briefly, The Times correspondents, talking privately with the leaders of free Europe, find a growing lack of confidence in American leadership. This is hardly remarkable when the American Government is being vigorously denounced at home not only by its enemies but many of its friends.

Since Russia's supreme policy, executed under varying disguises, is to split the United States from its allies, the obvious weakening of American leadership abroad must deeply gratify the Russian leaders as they contribute their rays of synthetic sunshine to England's April weather.

Veto on the U.S. Farm Bill

PRESIDENT EISENHOWER HAS performed an act of high political courage in vetoing the U. S. farm bill.

Beyond that he has proved that he is taking over the reins of leadership again. The man who rendered the decision virtually killing a piece of election year agriculture legislation is no prisoner of a figurative wheelchair. He is a man strong enough to make a great political gamble in support of his principles.

There is a bare possibility that Congress might over-ride the President, but the possibility is remote. A two-thirds congressional majority would be required to set aside the Eisenhower veto. No such action is foreseen.

In effect the President has rejected the establishment of rigid farm price support at 90 per cent of parity. That does not mean that farmers will be without assistance. Flexibility is preserved, but Mr. Eisenhower has announced that at least 82½ per cent of parity will be maintained for wheat, corn, cotton, rice and peanuts. Further aid will be given milk producers and government assistance will be furnished for perishable farm commodities.

The measure of Mr. Eisenhower's political fortitude is evident when the current farm revolt is considered. The midwest farm states gave Mr. Harry S. Truman the support he needed to win in 1948. These are the same regions most affected by the proposed farm bill—the voters to

It has become a commonplace to say that the new Russian tactics have not been matched by any comparable change in the tactics of the West. Everybody knows that. And most people in the West will agree with The New York Times when it says that "military defence is not enough... and must be supplemented with bold and imaginative political and economic measures that will offer the free nations, especially the new underdeveloped countries, a better road to self-realization and prosperity than communist slavery."

Such words, though true and more urgent than ever, are rapidly turning into mere platitudes, as the Russians hope.

The foundation of the free world's safety and the charter of its defensive alliance is the North Atlantic Treaty. When it was drafted the immediate need was purely military defence against the threat of a Russian invasion of Europe. But some of the draughtsmen saw the need for other measures and, largely under Canadian pressure, inserted a clause pledging the signatories to co-operate economically and thus to create a business as well as a defence community.

Unfortunately that clause has been almost forgotten. Its main objective, the expansion of international trade by the gradual reduction of tariffs, has been stalled.

So long as Russia's overt policies of aggression drove the free nations together, willy-nilly, for protection Western policy might perhaps be considered adequate. It is not adequate when Russian policies (though not its objectives) have been drastically changed and the grand alliance is under an entirely new kind of strain.

Since the United States inevitably is the leader of the alliance, new leadership, if it is to come at all, must come from Washington. But Washington is obsessed with a presidential election and when President Eisenhower moves forward gingerly with an enlarged foreign aid program—one essential element in a stronger foreign policy—he encounters the hostility of the politicians whose eyes are on the home constituencies and the taxpayers.

So there are Russian smiles in England now that April's there.

whom Democrats, particularly Senator Estes Kefauver, have been making large promises and for whom the farm bill was tailored.

The veto leaves one big political question unresolved: Can Mr. Eisenhower persuade the farmers of the virtues in the flexible program he supports? He has insisted on flexibility. He will not be bound to a rigid system which could only produce surpluses when surpluses are unmanageable at the present time.

One other point is in sharp focus. The President, in using his veto, has rejected a law which would also have provided the soil bank he wants. That feature was built into the bill for the specific purpose of attracting presidential support. He now asks Congress to pass an independent soil bank bill not later than this fall for application next year.

The chief executive's decision becomes an immediate political issue. It remains for the voters to decide whether he shall be credited and rewarded for taking a firm stand on the issue, or suffer severely, perhaps critically as far as politics are concerned, by giving this answer to the farm revolt.

In Canada the incident will be noted with deep interest. Quite apart from any influence it may have on U.S. surpluses so damaging to this country in world markets, the use of high, fixed supports on farm products has been suggested by Conservatives. Little more is expected from Conservative quarters on that subject.

Reading Maketh a Full Man

IT IS REFRESHING TO READ that Victoria librarians and book-shops report no decrease—indeed, an increase—in reading, despite the advent of television sets in many homes. The circulation and sale of books are rising in this community, apparently at a rate greater than the increase in population.

The explanation given is that programs seen on the television screen provide an incentive for the viewer to get a book or two and read more fully on the topic. A TV portrayal of the sinking of the Titanic, for instance, inspired many persons to delve into the recently published book for the extended report.

If this interpretation is correct—and the cynic's observation that a lot of TV sets must be on wobbly stands requiring a book to prop them is wrong—then television must be credited with an important cultural assist.

While Britain reports a similar TV-inspired resort to libraries, it is not known how widespread this movement may be. The question of time inevitably intrudes. Where do people find the leisure not only to watch television but also to read? Do the books cut into the screen-watching time, and if so will the stimulus to consult still more books be thereby decreased?

Obviously much research must still be done, but at the present time the outlook is promising. Householders may yet find themselves called to the telephone on an evening to have a solicitous voice ask them: "This is a TV survey; what book are you reading right now?" from which the popularity of last week's programs may be gauged.

The Invasion of Britain

Chips

BY DAVID BROCK

DEAR parents and teachers, please refer to the March 31 issue of the Newsletter of the Harvard Foundation for Advanced Study and Research, and you will discover great news. To wit: "Professor B. F. Skinner (of the Department of Psychology) is well-known on a project to test whether arithmetic can be learned rapidly if mechanized. One important gain may be that the learning can be made self-pacing."

How's that for good old Automation? A machine that teaches arithmetic. I can hardly wait.

It was mathematics that made late high school and early college distasteful to me. (Distasteful... what a mild and misleading little watered-down word.) Compulsory maths, turned me from quite a good student to quite a bad one. If I had entered college with a loud and energetic cry of joy, I'd almost certainly have ended up as a professor of English. Possibly quite a good one... depends on what you want your children to get out of me, I suppose.

BUT college would never hire a man with my scholastic record. If I had only had an arithmetic-teaching machine, I'd not be sitting in my garden writing Chips this morning. I'd be sitting in an office at some machine of a college, marking April exam papers. Perhaps I'm just as glad Professor Skinner had not got down to business in my time. But I'd like one of his engines for my kids.

There is more news from the Department of Psychology at Harvard, too. I'm not sure whether to call it good news or bad news or what. I think you'd call it appropriate news. There is a new magazine which will print book reviews covering "the entire field of psychology," and it is called Contemporary Psychology, and its editor is none other than, so help me, Professor Boring.

Wedding in Monaco

THIS is the first time I have burst into print about the nuptials at Monte Carlo. I must be just about unique, as I stroll along in the Bois de Bologne with my independent air. If there's anything I like about old Dave (and there is), it is his decent reticence and restraint. Not that I mumble. It's just that my answer to quite a few current affairs is good old Dead Silence. However, I wouldn't like you to think I was being snooty about the wedding bells, so I will emit a few dignified bars of wedding music on my bassoon. Nothing loud. Nothing like all that trouble in The Ancient Mariner, where "the wedding guest, he beat his breast, for he hears the loud buffoon." Fear not, fear not, thou wedding guest.

ONE of my feelings about the wedding is this: since I have not paid to get in, I have only a very small right to grumble about the arrangements. Another feeling is this: while a few of the arrangements are a trifle bizarre (such as having a man hang upside down from a helicopter to make the joyful day more impressive, and to give the man himself a new slant on things), their bizarre effect need not invite a general lido-off or amnesty in the matter of elementary manners among us foreigners.

The wedding may suit the people of Monaco better than it would suit (let us say) a chap whose life has been rather sheltered by Eton, Sandhurst, and the Brigade of Guards. There are times when, in a waking nightmare after reading the latest press reports, I'm convinced the wedding is mainly devoted to proving that P. T. Barnum is not yet wholly dead. But if the circus atmosphere involves a certain amount of blarney and garishness, and even surprises some of us into laughter, I still don't think this excuses the indecency of some of our more-or-less-English-speaking publications.

I'M not being stuffy. Coo over the wedding if you like, or laugh if you like, or groan, or yawn, or mutter impatiently. But if you consider the bride and groom fair game, keep the game fair. For example, a Canadian MP complained to a committee of Parliament that nobody could read any international news these days, what with all the news being confined to the fuss in Monte Carlo, and this grumble is fair enough, but when he added that the marriage probably won't last more than a year anyhow, this is plain damned rude. The Honorable but Ungallant Member probably realizes instinctively that a civilization which worships film stars is nothing but a bunch of hicks... if so, he is only too right. But that's no excuse for boorish talk from himself.

A SPORTS writer in Vancouver unloaded the opinion that any vulgar, ity in a special correspondent is justified when the victims are rich. (To do him credit, I have seen him being uncoth to quite reasonably poor people as well, so we mustn't take his theory too seriously.) He also felt that a reader who objects to semi-dirty jokes about a lady is a reader who objects to all wit and humor. Well, that provides a nice theory for anyone who wants to make semi-dirty jokes about a lady. I still say we sound like a bunch of hicks. Two bunches: the movie-worshippers, and the barnyard wits. Both bunches think themselves frightfully sophisticated. It is a common failing among hicks.

As Our Readers See It

Not Only 'On Highway 101'

Why should motorcyclists be permitted to roar around without their motors being muffled? By-laws compel motorists to muffle theirs.

The motorcyclists also seem to have unlimited privilege to exceed the speed limits. The traffic officers could greatly swell the funds of the department by fines if they were to check the speeders passing Beacon Hill Park up Douglas Street—15-mile zone.

Another imposition I feel is the hideous noise and dust created by motorcyclists racing around Beacon Hill Park on Sunday mornings for three hours.

Surely by-laws are being violated with impunity.

LONG SUFFERING.

Not So Effective Living

The article on social welfare re the unmarried mothers really stirred me. The source of the trouble is that mankind are lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God; (then people clamour for open Sunday.)

Secondly there are too many mothers working, their children left in someone else's care. No one else can care for the children like their mother. Sometimes it would be better if business men did not employ mothers of young children, and older ones too, for that matter.

Then I blame the schools. The report is that the number of wayward children is not only increasing yearly but that they are also younger. These effective living courses aren't very effective, are they?

Parents know best when their children are ready to receive this information, and I for one consider it my sacred privilege to impart this information to my children when they themselves indicate they are ready to receive it. In fact it is something they learn through happy every-day living and with the spiritual aspect constantly before them. Only a Christian teacher can do this.

If you say some children do not get this training at home and learn it in street language then I say "Instruct those children and their parents privately."

The courses can't be very effective or there would be an improvement in the situation. I firmly believe parents' permission should be given before a child attends these lectures.

What Do They Bring?

Numerous people have had unspeakably terrible experiences in Europe during the war.

Many of these people were brought up under Nazi domination and education and Russian treatment, some in concentration camps; all being influenced accordingly.

In leaving their countries for ours, these unfortunate people bring these influences with them in their habits and customs, weird practices such as hypnotism, and their lifelines.

It is obvious that many of these people are not well. We are not satisfactorily equipped to care for them adequately, nor are we trained to understand their customs or to protect ourselves against hypnotic influences which feel can be definitely harmful when used by unscrupulous people and amateurs as it is being used often now.

Only expert physicians should be allowed to make use of hypnotism and they should have full knowledge and appreciation of the value of such, of the influence of the experiences of the patients' past life and a good idea of the patient's future influences.

(It would be interesting to know if hypnotism is a weapon used by Communists to cause confusion among our people and to alter their ideas.)

Would it not be better to leave these soul-thirsty sick people in their own countries amongst familiar surroundings, language and customs and help them more easily to build satisfactory lives there, in the country they know? To bring them to unfamiliar territory to earn a living, competing with our own people, is likely to cause trouble both to them and to our own people.

(Miss) G. SNIDER

Gorge and Sewage

We on the Gorge waters have been so happy about the clean-the-Gorge program. Saanich has installed a sewer system at tremendous cost to the taxpayer. At Wilkinson Road Mental Home a sewage disposal unit has been built, also at our expense.

Now Mr. Kersey has had property rezoned for a motel which might drain septic tanks into Colquitz River and thence to the Gorge.

Can nothing be done about this?

ANXIOUS.

Elections and TV

POLITICAL activity across Canada this spring has shifted into high gear in many areas, with four provincial elections likely to be run off. There will be an election in Saskatchewan just as soon as weather conditions permit, in June, according to word received here by the CCF. Quebec expects Premier Maurice Duplessis to seek a new mandate also in June. New Brunswick is expected to hold its vote this spring, and also in the Maritimes, Nova Scotia is producing sounds that herald the approach of a trip to the provincial polls.

Possibility

The Manitoba Legislature generated so much excitement during its recent session that federal members heard repercussions on the floor of the Commons, particularly on the question of campaign donations by Manitoba breweries. Federal members from that province began worrying over the possibility that Premier Campbell might call a snap vote as the most effective answer to his critics.

"What's brewing in Manitoba?" was a question that brought wry smiles to the features of Manitoba members at Ottawa. Majority here predict, however, that the province's Liberal government will ride out the storms this year and take the time to strengthen their organization for the coming battle in the prairie arena.

Federal Field

In the federal field the election machinery is being polished and oiled and put into shape. Prime Minister St. Laurent has been saving his energies for the severe test that lies ahead. He will have his two senior cabinet ministers, Mr. Howe and Mr. Gardiner, at his side for the contest. The Liberals have been determining the impact of certain issues and the popularity of the parties, by surveys across the country. The federal election is almost certain for the month of June, 1957.

Television

New feature of the coming elections will be television. In the last general election the political parties mutually agreed not to make use of the medium, then just beginning to make its appearance in Canadian homes. In the 1957 election politicians are going to have to learn how to make use of TV. As more or less test runs the four national parties have embarked on the preparation of a series of TV programs for the weeks ahead. None are overjoyed at the prospect. It is a new, untried and relatively unknown medium. What effect it will have on the voter is something that has the politicians worried and not a little alarmed.

First

The Liberals launched the new series of political telecasts Monday. Finance Minister Harris was chosen to take the plunge. He went before the cameras to talk about the budget. The Liberals decided to have Mr. Harris asked questions concerning the budget by a professional broadcaster, Ned Conlon of Montreal. He was to remain in the background as much as possible. Under the rules for the TV shows, agreed upon by all parties, the broadcasts are limited to 10 minutes. Both dramatization and "gimmicks" are ruled out.

Conservatives

Opposition Leader Drew will lead off the TV shows for the Conservatives on April 30. He will be interviewed by a personality who will share the stage with him, possibly a newspaper editor. Meanwhile the politicians are eagerly accepting tips from telecasters on how to make the best appearance before the television cameras. All are well aware that nothing can be more deadly than a politician making a long dull speech. And in this case if the audience becomes tired it is not captive, all the members of the audience have to do is flick a switch.

Denial

CBC chairman A. Davidson Dunton has flatly denied Opposition Leader Drew's charge that the Broadcasting Corporation was importing American programs and selling them to Canadian advertisers for less than cost. Not so said Mr. Dunton. Obviously Mr. Drew was thinking of evidence given the parliamentary committee on broadcasting some time ago. But Mr. Dunton's testimony concerned Canadian-produced shows. He said it could happen that CBC shows might be sold to Canadian advertisers at less than the cost of putting the show together and on the air.

Menacing

The present rulers of Russia, by degrading Stalin posthumously and switching their tactics in international affairs, have demonstrated complete self-confidence in the strength of their position at home and abroad. External Affairs Minister Pearson told the parliamentary committee on external affairs recently. He said that while the Russian challenge had changed in character he was personally convinced it remained strong and in some respects "more dangerous" than that provided by the "more naked" policy of Stalin.

Blueprint

Khrushchev appeared to be dominant in the triumvirate now in control in Russia, Mr. Pearson told the parliamentary external affairs committee. He did not know if Mr. Khrushchev would establish himself as dictator but Mr. Pearson would not "wager more than even money that ultimately there may come a single Russian ruler." He said it was in the tradition of both Russia and the Communist party.

He added that he was not sure but what Khrushchev's speech on Feb. 21 in Moscow was not as important a blueprint of policy as had been Hitler's book Mein Kampf. It was Mr. Pearson's first public comment on developments affecting the leadership of the Communist party inside Russia at the 20th Communist Party Congress.

Replacing the Rabbit

LONDON—In Australia there is a well-known story about two farmers trying to cope with the terrible rabbit situation they have in that part of the world. One of them says: "By crickey! I'd like to lay my hands on the bloke who brought the first rabbit to Australia." "No," said the other, "the one I'd like to get hold of is the bloke who brought the second rabbit."

The speed at which these little fellows can multiply has brought about a situation in England that is not without its humor. As you've no doubt heard, the intentional spreading of the killing myxomatosis disease, plus much time and money spent by the Ministry of Agriculture, has virtually wiped out this country's rabbit population.

That made the farmers happy and the Chancellor of the Exchequer was happy too because it meant millions of pounds of added wealth to the nation through crops saved from the nibblers.

But there were some people who were not happy. They were the humanitarians, the lovers of our four-footed, furred and winged friends. They felt it was a jolly bad show to kill the rabbits off by introducing disease among them. So what have they been up to? They've been buying wild rabbits and quietly slipping them into the fields and meadows—in pairs. In due course there are offspring who come home from school one day and say, "Mummy, I've learnt to multiply." And here we go again. The rabbits once more are spreading like wildfire.

This has greatly annoyed the farmers and has peeved the Ministry of Agriculture. While the ministry knock themselves out getting rid of rabbits, these well-meaning busybodies are doing their best to increase the population. And the ministry's hands are tied. There is no law against letting rabbits loose.

So—Parliament is now rushing through a bill that will prohibit "the selling, buying, conveying and turning loose of live wild rabbits."

A BOOK that is having a big success here is I Looked Right, by Elizabeth Denham. It is being much talked about, is regarded as the best thing of its type since the story (later filmed) of secret agent Odette Churchill. Judging by the book, the adventures of Elizabeth Denham, working as a British agent in German-occupied France, were so hair raising that the publishers were accused of cooking up a story and peddling it as truth. It now comes out that it all did happen—to a shy, retiring Lady Elizabeth Clarke who was willing to let the publishers have her story provided publicity did not descend upon her.

A good title—I Looked Right. Its significance: She was caught by the Germans when she looked right as she was about to cross a French street. Such a little thing can let down the best of spies. In England, where cars drive left, she was accustomed to checking on traffic coming from the right, so she did it automatically instead of looking the other way as people do in France, Canada and other driving-on-the-right countries.

By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Addiction to Drugs

Dr. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

A woman asks me why her brother has become addicted to morphine. As so commonly happens, it has ruined him, morally, financially, and in every way. Today he has only one idea, and that is to get morphine somewhere, somehow. To get the money he will lie or steal or hold up people.

Before he started on the drug he was a gentle, kindly, friendly man, but with a great tendency to nervousness and jitteriness and fear such as runs in his family. Two of his uncles, who were very much like him, also so craved relief from nervousness that they became alcoholics. A brother who has always been a heavy smoker says that the only thing that saved him from being an alcoholic was his inability to hold the stuff down. Whenever a doctor gave him a sedative, he soon was asking for larger and larger doses of it. He was constantly craving something that would quiet his nerves.

Unfortunately, one time when the now addicted man had a neuralgia in his face he was given morphine, and this made him feel so wonderful that he immediately started begging for more. When his doctor refused to give it, he found a peddler and soon he was "hooked."

On several occasions the family have put the man into a hospital, and have got him off the drug, but always he has gone back to it. The question the family now asks is, "Is an addict to narcotics ever completely cured?" Many are gotten off, but I think all of them remain in danger because, when anything goes wrong with them, their nerves get so upset they crave relief, and then they want morphine.

SAME WITH ALCOHOL

As any old chain smoker knows, when he may have quit six months before, he is still in danger of going back, because of his tremendous craving for a smoke. The old alcoholic has similar difficulties. Even after years of being on the wagon, if he loses a big order, or if his wife falls ill, or if he loses his job, or anything goes wrong, immediately there comes the craving for something which will bring oblivion.

The greatest difficulty with persons who become addicted to some drug is that they have been born with a peculiar type of nervous system that demands quieting. This type of nervous system responds in a special way to drugs. Often, also, the victim is not a well-adjusted person: He cannot meet people comfortably; he says he feels like a stranger and a misfit in this world, and he cannot stand up easily to its buffets.

A great difficulty with addicts to any drug is that often they start on a cure half-heartedly. Thus, every doctor knows that the addict who comes in for treatment may have a few tubes of morphine tablets hidden in the lining of his coat, just in case the going gets rough. Similarly, the man who has promised his wife that he will quit drinking may have a couple of fifths of whiskey hidden in back of the clothes in his closet.

As a young physician, I learned how impossible it is to cure anyone who is not very anxious to be cured. It is hard enough to cure a man who very much wants to get well. Many a wife has asked me to try to cure her husband against his will, and I have said, "No it can't be done." I seldom make any effort to convince an addict to any drug that he should go in for a cure. As the Alcoholics Anonymous group say, "Wait until he comes begging for help."

MUST STAY SIX MONTHS

In Lexington, Kentucky, is the great United States Public Health Hospital for addicts. My friends, Drs. Vogel and Isbell and others there have been doing a wonderful work not only in helping addicts but in doing research work on addiction and on new substitutes for morphine. The patients are well cared for and kindly treated. The doctors can get a patient off morphine in a few days, but they like to keep him with them for at least six months until his nervous system is in good enough shape so that, when out in the world again, he may be able to stand on his own two feet and resist temptation. If he goes out too soon he is very likely to slip back into habituation.

I remember one of the patients in Lexington saying to me, "Doctor, the first time you play with morphine it may take six months to get 'hooked'; but after you are cured, if you play with it again you are likely to be 'hooked' in a couple of days." The other day a woman said, "When my brother comes back from Lexington, should we of the family keep constantly watching and snooping to try to keep him out of danger?" My impression is that they shouldn't. They will do better to be kind and friendly and then hope for the best. If he decides to go back to the drug they will not be able to keep him from it. If he slips again they must remember it is not because he is a bad man; it is simply because he is a weak and nervous ill man. In almost every case of habituation to drugs I see, I can get a history of mental disease of some kind in the family. Habituation to drugs (including alcohol) is commonly an equivalent of psychosis.

CITY'S WEATHER RECORD
Sunshine, 1956 420.2 hrs.
Last year 378.4 hrs.
Precip. to date 7.85 ins.
Last year 10.49 ins.

SYNOPSIS—British Columbia's weather fell into one of two distinct categories Tuesday night. In the southeast a weakening high pressure ridge kept skies clear. In the northwest a current of cooler moist air gave cloud and showers.

At the moment the moist current seems to be gaining ground. It is likely that there will be an increase in cloud in southeastern parts of the province Thursday and temperatures there will not be as high as those of today. However, precipitation if any will be light.

Little change is expected in the north with cool cloudy weather expected to continue. However, since there appears to be no well-developed storm within range only scattered showers are looked for.

Mother-Love

Best for Babies

Chisholm Warns

WINNIPEG (CP)—New-born babies kept in "glass cases" in hospitals are heading for instability and neurosis, Dr. Brock Chisholm, former director general of the World Health Organization, said Tuesday.

"We foster neurosis from the day a child is born when we put a baby in a glass-walled nursery, handing it over to its mother just for feeding," he said in an interview. Dr. Chisholm is in Winnipeg after addressing a United Nations Association meeting Monday night.

He said the proper place for a baby is in its mother's arms. "Nearly every new hospital has glass cases for the babies, with everything nice and sterile. We are thinking about bacteria instead of about the child and its mother."

Early Dwarf Tulips Make Show

The warm days of April have brought a wealth of spring flowers into bloom.

Besides the hundreds of varieties of daffodils which are now reaching their zenith, some of the dwarf tulips are coming into flower.

The smallest kinds of these are known as "species" tulips, and while not so showy as the later tall kinds, they are exquisitely beautiful. This year we have three species in flower in our garden at the same time.

Tulipa tarda is the tiniest, a creamy gold miniature, probably has been held back by previous cold; T. kaufmanniana, yellowish with petals rose on the exterior, and T. clusiana being hurried along by the warm days. The latter is the tallest of the three on nine-inch stems, having slender buds opening white with a blue base.

There are dozens of other early flowering species tulips available, and many of them may be seen at the forthcoming annual show of the Vancouver Island Rock and Alpine Garden Society.

This show may be enjoyed on Friday and Saturday of this week in the Crystal Garden, since our climate gives greater and the wide variety of plants scope for this type of garden being shown never fails to astonish and delight those who attend. Rock gardens are assuming find many ideas to use in either a prominent place in Victoria large or small gardens.

ARMY'S CHOW WINS MAJOR CULINARY PRIZE

TORONTO (CP)—Soldiers may call it chow, but army food Tuesday proved good enough to win a major award at the culinary arts competition and food show of the Canadian Restaurant Association's annual convention.

The Royal Canadian Army Service Corps, Camp Borden, Ont., took first place for the best practical display. Army cooks competed with leading chefs and cooks from across Canada.

Newfoundland Cabinet's Suit Against Newspaper Withdrawn

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—A $150,000 libel suit brought by the 11 members of Newfoundland's cabinet against the editors and publishers of The Evening Telegram was withdrawn Tuesday after the Supreme Court ruled it too general.

Mr. Justice H. A. Winter said "where a libel consists of an aspersion of one individual alone an action taken by a group of people is inconsistent." He said the door is open for individual ministers who feel they have been libelled to seek separate damages.

J. B. McEvoy, counsel for the government, withdrew the charge after being offered the alternative of having the case dismissed.

NO ONE IDENTIFIED

Robert Furlong, counsel for the newspaper, said no action could be taken for defamation by a class, no innuendo had been drawn to identify any plaintiff, and the statement of claim was "fundamentally bad" because it said nothing about defamatory words published by The Telegram applying to the plaintiffs or any one of them.

Mr. McEvoy said the tone of two stories carried by The Evening Telegram last Nov. 17 and 19 was defamatory to the cabinet as a whole because it had mentioned individual members and had not identified them. The stories concerned statements about Germaine Plante, a Montreal waitress since convicted of blackmail here and of attempting to procure in Montreal. Mr. McEvoy said the stories alleged illegal practices in Newfoundland and that the government was aware of them.

Mr. Justice Winter said he was in sympathy with the cabinet, but had to make his decision on laws that said actions of this nature had to be made by individuals.

MANITOBA WILL LET MINORS DRINK AT HOME

WINNIPEG (CP)—The law amendments committee decided Tuesday that it should be legal for a parent to give an offspring over 18 a drink of liquor in a residence.

At present minors under 21 are not allowed to drink legally anywhere in Manitoba.

'HAVE TRIED TO CATCH THEM'

Graveyard Lights Mystify Coloradans

SILVER CLIFF, Colo. (AP)—All the elements of a ghost story are present in this southern Colorado mining town's old graveyard.

Nearly half of Silver Cliff's 217 residents claim to have seen eerie blue lights dancing furiously among the tombstones nearly every night recently.

"Some of us have tried to catch them," reported Ray Dewall, publisher of the West Mountain Tribune at Westcliffe, one mile west of here. "But as we approached, they suddenly would disappear, only to show up farther ahead in some other part of the cemetery."

Dewall said the lights, described as about the size of baseballs, appear very bright. As for possible explanations:

Weapons to Korea

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Tatoo news agency, run by the Chinese Nationalist interior ministry, today said Soviet Russia is shipping huge amounts of light and heavy weapons to North Korea through Manchuria. The agency claims underground contacts on the mainland.

Reflection from stars was dismissed. Dewall says the eerie lights have been seen on cloudy, overcast nights.

Reflection from mercury vapor street lights in Westcliffe is improbable because "we've had those street lights for over two years, and nobody has seen the lights before."

Radioactive ores? Nope. Miners have brought geiger counters into the cemetery, but the dials showed no reaction. "Our ghosts," said Dewall, "are right up to date. They carry their own lights."

ROME TELLS ALL —IN 25 WORDS

ROME (AP)—The Rome English-language paper Daily American today covered the Grace Kelly wedding in 25 words:

"From combined dispatches: 'MONTE CARLO, April 18—American actress Grace Kelly and Prince Rainier III of Monaco married here today. 'Nobody stole the wedding ring.'"

... KELLY

ent Wilbur Landrey and two other formally dressed reporters in the living room bar of the prince's private apartment. Grace entered three minutes late for today's ceremony, her eyes large with nervousness. She was solemn and shy but lovely in a head-hugging, off-face cloche hat and high-necked dress of rosy beige. A slender bow of ribbon was tied under her chin. She sat bolt upright with her feet primly placed side by side.

NERVOUS GESTURE

Rainier in morning coat was much more nervous than she. He rested his left forefinger under his mustache and sat tensely as Portanier began reading.

In mid-reading of the Code of Napoleon, Rainier ran his finger inside a collar which suddenly seemed to have become intolerably tight. His eyes strayed to the frescoed ceiling.

Then it was over. The marriage register was passed to the still-seated newlyweds. Grace signed first. In painstakingly neat script she wrote "Grace Patricia Kelly."

Rainier signed and then members of their families stepped before the throne and signed their names as witnesses.

The starched diplomats among the 120 guests filed stiffly into the palace's blue room to meet the ruler and his princess in the names of their governments.

Tonight the royal couple were to be guests at the opera before Rainier returns to his bachelor villa to await tomorrow's religious ceremony.

JETS WHINE SALUTE

Just as the ceremony ended, two jet fighters swept low over the harbor out of a leaden and sunless sky in a shrieking salute to the newly married couple.

With the formalities completed, the new princess and her husband went together to the flower-framed balcony of the palace, where she waved to her cheering subjects in the courtyard. The prince beamed proudly on.

It was their first appearance before the populace as a married couple.

REGAL WAVE

She waved her left hand in slow regal dignity, reminiscent of the British royal gesture. Rainier waved his right hand abruptly, with far less royal grace than his bride.

For almost a minute, they stood behind the flowers.

"Viva grimaldi," an old man in the crowd cried. Then Rainier took his wife's elbow and guided her back inside.

There, Grace's mother, dressed in powder blue, sat on a couch while the men drank and talked, and Grace stared happily into space.

Never, Mrs. Kelly said, could she have dreamed all this would happen.

"The events of the last three months are scarcely believable," Mrs. Kelly said. "And everything has gone so beautifully here."

TORN BY EMOTIONS

In her royal apartment later, Grace was a girl who didn't know whether to laugh or cry. "I can't believe it's happening to me," she said.

But in the next breath she was laughing.

"I'm halfway married," she told bridesmaid Sally Richardson, her former roommate, who was one of some 30 guests who

Monaco Laws Snafu Canadian's Romance

MONTE CARLO (Reuters)—The Rainier-Kelly wedding has brought romance to a Canadian journalist, Bob Ross of Ottawa, and a Danish interpreter here—but, despite the sympathy of the ruling prince, they cannot marry in this tiny principality.

Monaco law forbids foreigners to marry here unless they have been living in the principality for six months. Ross asked the palace chaplain, Rev. Francis Tucker, to intervene.

"Father Tucker got the prince on our side, but Mayor Robert Boisson was adamant—no residence qualification, no wedding bells."

speaking for Askey's, Dennis Denmark in May to get married."

went to her private apartment to toast the marriage in champagne.

Then she slipped down on the sofa between her mother and the wife of her brother John. Nearby, her father, bluff John B. Kelly, sipped his champagne. "Well," he said, "it's halfway over now."

RAINIER "NICE BOY"

"The prince seems like a nice boy. If he's as nice as my other two in-laws, he'll be all right."

"He's a nice boy. I call him Ray."

Kelly revealed that a civil contract of marriage was signed between the two families. But he said it was up to the prince to disclose its terms.

The course of true love had not run smoothly the last few days, especially for the prince. What with jewels being stolen from his guests; the ill feeling between two wedding guests, portly ex-king Farouk of Egypt and the Egyptian ambassador to France; and the difficulties with news photographers assigned to the wedding.

But today the worst was over.

"I keep thinking I'm going to wake up and find I'm on Stage 16," Grace murmured to a friend on her wedding eve as they watched a fireworks display from the castle battlement.

HOLLYWOOD'S MOST COSTLY CREATION

Lace Lovebirds Adorn Back Of Grace's Five-Skirted Gown

MONTE CARLO (UP)—Princess Grace Kelly will wear Hollywood's most costly wedding creation, a five-skirted lace and taffeta gown with two lace lovebirds sewn on the back, at Thursday's religious ceremony.

Probably only Doris Duke could afford the gown, which took 35 milliners, bead-makers, seamstresses, embroiderers and dyers nearly two months to make. It was given to Miss Kelly by her MGM studio.

ROSE BEIGE SUIT

At today's civil ceremony she wore a suit of hand-made rose beige lace embroidered in a floral pattern. The suit featured a full skirt, short jacket and high neck.

Her shoes were of the same rose beige with lace medallions on the toes. A rose beige cloche crowned her classic blonde hair pulled back into a French twist. The bridesmaids complemented the color scheme with short afternoon dresses and beige again the favorite color.

The gown for tomorrow's cathedral rites was described as "supercolossal." Designer Helen Rose of Hollywood said she couldn't possibly estimate the cost.

"It frightens me to think of it," she said.

Grace will first step into a silk crepe sheath bordered with a 12-inch band of lace. Next, a hooped petticoat of tiny organza and lace ruffles. A third underskirt of ivory taffeta silk is covered with eight-inch ruffles of tulle and lace. Then a petticoat of taffeta and net and a fifth skirt, pleated in the back for a fan-shaped effect, of 25 yards of heavy taffeta.

The bodice of the gown, made of two pieces of rare rose point lace embroidered together, has a high demure neck and long sleeves.

A circular veil, designed not to hide the face, was embroidered with rose point lace and thousands of tiny pearls. Two tiny lace lovebirds were embroidered on the back of the veil.

The gown was described as "in regal style along renaissance lines." The whole dress included 25 yards of heavy taffeta (peau de soie), 25 yards of silk taffeta, 100 yards of silk net and 300 yards of lace.

The princess will carry a pearl-ered with rose point lace and embroidered prayer book covered with the same rose point lace used in the gown.

WHAT'S THE SCORE? BY Denny Boyd

Wednesday's Bargain Basement — If Paul Clarkson's nerves hold up, Vince Clark might just win this Times Vancouver Island Match Play Open Golf Championship.

This isn't a prediction, mind you, but Vince has a mobile tonic unit in the person of his brother Paul, who did the caddy-ing and the worrying Sunday when Vince defeated Dr. George Bigelow in a barn-burner of a match.

Of a nervous tempestuous, squeaky-voiced Paul died when Vince's putts refused to drop.

When Vince tied the match by winning the 18th hole, Paul accosted strangers and shook their hands out of sheer joy.

When Vince copped the duke by winning the 19th hole, Paul talked to the sky for five minutes, mopped the sweat off his brow and went home proud to the hill of what he and Vince had done.

But while the winners celebrated, there had to be losers, too.

Here was Laurie Carroll, after he had been waxed, 6 and 4, by Laurie Kerr. The happy personality that is one of the things Oak Bay members like about their assistant pro, was subdued as Laurie sat disconsolately by himself in a little tent near the first tee. Actually, he wasn't by himself. For company, he had a large black cat that perched on his knee, trading sympathy for petting.

To a passerby who asked, Laurie answered, "I got beat. I felt great, loose as a goose, but it wasn't enough."

George Andrews, who limped awkwardly around the course, playing his match in spite of a back injury, told a reporter, "Don't write any sob stuff about my back. Don't mention it. Just say I wasn't feeling very good."

Ten Second Portrait of Bert Bertoia — He is 23 years old, has curly hair and dark, handsome features (down girl). Stands 5' 8 1/2" and presently weighs 193 pounds. He says, "I haven't been doing any running but I'll get down to around 170. Has played with and against Bob Monaghan and Al Gill and in 1952, played for a Vernon team that won 29 straight games during the season, only to lose two straight in the playoffs. On arriving in Victoria, he stamped his foot lovingly on the pavement and said, "Lovely stuff. We had 180 inches of snow in Rossland this year."

When Archie Browning walked into the Shamrock dressing room Sunday, reporting to practice, Whitey Severson says, "I was stunned."

It came as a complete surprise, seeing Archie there, ready to go. But when you think back to what Archie said a couple of months ago, it is not so surprising. Archie said then, "I'd like to play in retirement this year but if the Rocks are hard up for players, I'll come out, if it's only to help Whitey."

Apparently, the news that Jack Bionda was not returning was Archie's personal signal that it was time to pay back all those scoring passes that Severson fed to Browning when they were linemates.

Bowling addicts will be relieved to hear that Ron Coulter's wrenched thumb is coming along nicely, thank you, and Ron should be able to take part in the B.C. Tenpin championships. As a result of the story of his injury, printed on these pages, Ron had several calls, offering home remedies, including one calling for a poultice of boiled vinegar and oatmeal. Ron finally settled on an ointment known in the sport world as Red Hot, passed on to him by Detective Bill Andrews, who used the same preparation to ease his aches when he was keeping goal for the Victoria Shamrocks.

VERNON, B.C. (CP)—Vernon stores have sold out of blue and white paper and ribbon as this north Okanagan Valley city pretied up to honor Chatham Maroons and get behind its own Canadians hockey team.

The Maroons were due to arrive here today in preparation for Thursday's start of their Allan Cup final against Vernon.

Blue-and-white streamers—the Vernon team colors—floated from store fronts and cars while merchants gave prominent display to signs urging their team to "Dig, Vernon, Dig."

Flags were posted in front of homes and business establishments.

A two-band parade was scheduled for today. The weather promised to be perfect for the Maroons' arrival by train.

An estimated 2,500 school children were expected to line up in the parade behind cheer leaders, bunting-covered cars and a fire truck.

Elaborate preparations were being made for various banquets to honor the visiting team, including one by Mayor Frank Becker, former president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association.

The best-of-seven series continues Saturday with a second game here. From Vernon it moves to Kelowna for a third game April 23 and to Kamloops April 25. If further games are necessary, they will be played here April 27, 28 and 30.

PORTLAND, Ore.—Irish (Pat) McMurtry, 1M, Tacoma, knocked out Matt Jackson, 17M, Salt Lake City, 17, Hartford, Conn.—Willie Pep, 13M, Hartford, outpointed Jackie Blair, 13M, Houston, Tex. (10).

"BACK ON SCHEDULE!"

"I've taken things for relief from constipation for years. Now, at 75, I'm back on schedule—regular as clock work thanks to Kellogg's All-Bran." Mr. J. W. Lowthwaite, Toronto.

Good-tasting Kellogg's All-Bran succeeds in many cases where other methods fail. All-Bran gets at the common cause of irregularity—lack of bulk in the things we eat. All-Bran is highly nutritious yet inexpensive. Delicious served with milk (hot or cold). Kellogg's—the original ready-to-eat bran cereal. For comfortable, natural regularity.

Royals Score Third Win Over Cats

MONTREAL (CP)—Montreal Royals scored three first-period goals and made them stand up Tuesday night as they downed Shawinigan Falls Cataracts 4-1 in the fourth game of their Quebec Hockey League final playoff series.

The Royals, who ended the season in second place, far behind the defending champion Cataracts, now lead the best-of-seven series three games to one.

Phil Goyette scored twice for the winners, while single goals went to Bud MacPherson and Walt Bradley. George Faulkner was Shawinigan's marksmen.

Winner of the series meets either Winnipeg Warriors or Vancouver Canucks of the Western Hockey League in a series for the Edinburgh Trophy.

Grimsby Holds Lead

LONDON (Reuters)—Grimsby Town, leader of English League division III northern soccer, Tuesday night defeated Darlington 1-0.

The touring Brazilian Club, Botafogo, defeated Burnley, first division team, 2-1 in an exhibition game.

Argos, Dutchies Plan Agreement

TORONTO (BUP)—The Toronto Argonauts of the Big Four football league will enter into a working agreement with the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen of the ORFU, it was learned today.

The Dutchmen, who won the ORFU crown last year, will send coach Harvey Johnston to Toronto this week to work out details of the pact with Argos coach Bill Swacki. It will involve Toronto having first call on K.W. talent and also an exhibition game between the two squads in Kitchener, Aug. 2.

The winner of the series will play Regina Pats in the Memorial Cup final.

Fifth game is scheduled for Montreal Thursday and should Canadiens win, a sixth contest will be played here Sunday.

The game, before 9,192 fans, threatened to break into a mass brawl at several points in the second and third periods as checks grew harder and tempers flared. With seven seconds to play in the game, the players paired off and chased each other around the rink, but the referees somehow managed to prevent any fist-throwing.

Marlies Outbrawl Junior Canadiens

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Marlboros mixed hard bumping with alert offensive work Tuesday night to defeat Junior Montreal Canadiens 3-0 and take a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Canada Memorial Cup finals.

The winner of the series will play Regina Pats in the Memorial Cup final.

Fifth game is scheduled for Montreal Thursday and should Canadiens win, a sixth contest will be played here Sunday.

Coast Loop Bats Boom Long, Loud

By United Press

The Pacific Coast League proved again Tuesday that the best thing to do with a baseball is to lose it.

In all four games it was the team that put the ball out of reach that most moved forward in the victory column.

Los Angeles and Portland put on the season's best "hit-em-where-there-ain't nobody" exhibition with a total of eight home runs. Los Angeles got five of the eight and so won the game 11-6.

In the other three games the losers had the consolation of knowing they outlived the winners. The winners needed no consolation—they had homers.

MOUNTIES LOSE
Seattle used a pair of circuit clouts to trim San Francisco 4-3. San Diego got three runs on three homers and edged Vancouver 3-2 and Sacramento got the only homer of the game with the final score reading Sacramento 3, Hollywood 2.

The Donnybrook in Los Angeles saw the Angels take a 6-1 lead, lose it and then clout enough long ones to win.

Bob Borkowski hit two homers for Portland and Ed Mickelson one but it couldn't balance round trippers by Jim Bolger, John Goryl, Joe Hannah, Gene Mauch and Steve Bilko.

In another afternoon game the defending champion Seattle Rainiers got only six hits, but two of them were very important—lone homers by Bill Glynn and Art Schult. The two runs were enough for the Rainiers to drive off a late San Francisco effort and win.

In San Diego Padre pitcher Dave Hoskins gave up nine hits to the Vancouver Mounties. But he also hit one of three San Diego home runs—all with the bases empty—and got the win.

BIRMINGHAM, England—Randy Turpin, 174, England, stopped Alessandro d'Ottavio, 182, Italy (6).

97 Unhurt As Big Plane Crash Lands

Glowing Tribute
Paid to Pilot

HAMILTON, Ont. (BUP) — The cool-headed flying skill of a U.S. air force pilot was credited today with saving the lives of 96 men and one woman aboard a U.S. Globemaster troop transport that made a forced belly-landing here late Tuesday.

The pilot, Capt. Jack Wofford, brought his 83-ton plane down at the Mount Hope RCAF station after two of the four engines failed on a flight from Lackbourne, Ohio, to Harmon Field, Nfld.

Canadian air force officials paid glowing tribute today to Wofford for his skillful landing. They pooh-poohed reports that there had been "hot" reaction to U.S. air force and army guards around the downed plane carrying guns.

Godfrey Scott, a reporter-photographer for the Toronto Globe and Mail, claimed American Lieut. T. Jones drew his pistol on him after he approached the Globemaster and took a picture of it.

"It is standard procedure for downed planes to be guarded, whether Canadian or American," an official said. "There will have to be an official investigation into the plane's trouble, and nothing should be disturbed."

Scott said that when he got to within 50 yards of the Globemaster Jones stopped him.

DREW PISTOL

"I walked away a short distance and took a picture," Scott said. "As I did, he advanced toward me and drew his pistol from its holster. He didn't point it at me."

Scott said he told Jones "put that away. You're not on American soil now," and Jones did so.

Canadian air force officials said the Americans were entitled, under the NATO agreement, to carry arms and to prevent unauthorized persons from investigating military aircraft that were forced down.

The 96 men and one woman, believed to be an army nurse, were en route to Newfoundland when the engine trouble developed just after the plane flew into Canada. The pilot first prepared to land at Simcoe, Ont., but finally decided to try a landing at Mount Hope.

The plane overshot the runway and smacked into soft mud at the end. It skidded for half a mile through the mud but the only damage was a broken left wing. Nobody aboard was hurt.

The 97 personnel from the plane were taken to an air force barracks. The RCAF said they would be flown to their destination as soon as possible.

Liberals In Saanich Gain Strength

Saanich Liberal Association heard a report that membership is showing "encouraging" gains, during a social meeting held at Liberal headquarters Tuesday night.

Over 50 members heard the membership report from chairman Ernie Watson. He said the membership is gradually nearing the goal set in the recently-opened provincial drive.

The meeting heard a report on the Liberal convention in Vancouver from Alex Derman. Refreshments were served under sponsorship of Mrs. J. M. McGee, assisted by her committee.

Meeting decided to hold the next regular meeting in conjunction with Esquimalt-Saanich federal Liberal Association, which holds its annual meeting May 16.

Two Income Tax Defaulters Fined

Fines were imposed in city police court Tuesday on two men who pleaded guilty to charges of failing to file income tax returns.

Mar Quinton Kin, 546 Cormorant, was fined $25 and $250 costs for failing to file a 1952 return, and Fred G. Sigler, 1745 Kings, $25 and $250 costs for not filing a 1954 return.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

In this exclusive photo, thought to be the only picture of Irish Nationalists raiding the Tate Art Gallery in London, from which a valuable painting was stolen April 12, a young man carries a bulky package down the steps of the gallery. Reginald J. Spencer, London editor of United Press Newspictures, had received a telephone call April 12 from an unknown man who said there would be an Irish demonstration outside the Tate Gallery. A photographer was assigned and a man approached him, pointed to the man in the photo and said, "Take that picture." The stranger disappeared but this photo resulted. The painting has since been returned.

MINISTER DISCLOSES PLANS

Sommers To Sell Life Insurance

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin is a little colder than her native town of Cherkassy in the Soviet Union's Ukraine, but to Mrs. Nadia Kosterava, 80, the cheery warmth of the people in the Pacific Northwest more than makes up for the difference in the weather.

Mrs. Kosterava was reunited here with her son, Sergei Koster, after a 35-year separation. She is one of about a dozen Russians the state department says have entered the U.S. this year under the Kremlin's new "policy of smiles."

Mrs. Kosterava already has learned one thing about Americans: "They have paid so much attention to me," she said. "And I'm only a little person. In Russia, they only pay attention to big people."

Mrs. Kosterava said immigration authorities in Moscow told her she was the first Russian immigrant to the U.S. since 1917.

Her son said: "I have been trying to get my mother out of the Soviet Union for the last 20 years."

Mrs. Kosterava, whose sparkling eyes and smooth features belie her age, was almost overcome with happiness as she stepped from the plane into the waiting arms of her son. At the end of a long embrace she turned to the plane and said: "Goodbye my sorrows, goodbye my tears."

Last year, in a final effort to leave Russia, Mrs. Kosterava said she addressed a letter to

CORNEA GRAFT FAILS TO GIVE BOY SIGHT

MILAN, Italy (Reuters)—A cornea taken from the eye of Don Carlo Gnocchi, an Italian priest who died last month, and grafted onto the eye of a 12-year-old blind boy, Silvio Colagrande, has failed to give him back his sight.

Prof. Cesare Galeazzi, the Italian eye specialist who performed the operation seven weeks ago, said Tuesday night that the grafted cornea had lost its transparency.

He said he will try another grafting operation when the boy's health allows.

50,000 Gallons Oil Threaten Water Supply

VIRIDEN, Man. (CP)—Fifty thousand gallons of crude oil swirled down a creek today toward the Assiniboine River and threatened to contaminate the water of two Manitoba cities and other smaller centres.

The oil spewed out of a break in the trans-Prairie pipeline Tuesday afternoon. The pipeline serves as a gathering system for the Viriden-Roselea oil field in southwestern Manitoba.

J. G. Cowan, deputy minister of mines and natural resources, said Tuesday night that 50,000 gallons escaped before the line flow was shut off.

He said it was not known what caused the break but it was assumed that the pipe was broken by the soil shifting brought on by frost action.

MAY PASS OVER

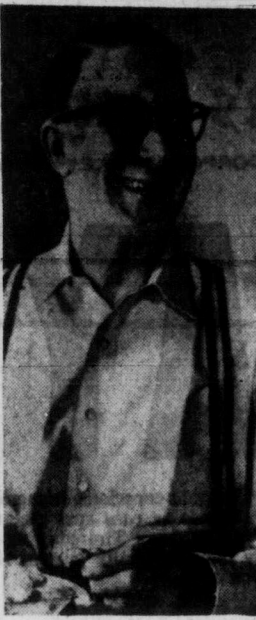

The oil swirled into Boss Hill Creek, a small stream that enters the Assiniboine a few miles northeast of Viriden, situated 200 miles west of Winnipeg.

The cities of Brandon, 60 miles east of Viriden, and Portage la Prairie get their water supply from the Assiniboine.

Mr. Cowan said it is possible the cities systems draw their supply from a low enough level to allow the oil to pass above the intakes without contaminating the supply.

He said a screen will be drawn across the top of a dam which crosses the Assiniboine at Brandon in an attempt to block—and then burn—the oil. But he held out little hope of success because the fast flow will make it difficult to contain the oil.

It was not immediately known when the oil was expected to reach Brandon.

SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER

N.J. Primary Setback For Kefauver

NEWARK, N.J. (UP)—Gov. Robert B. Meyner won a near-shutout victory over Sen. Estes Kefauver in the New Jersey primary race for 36 Democratic national convention votes, returns showed today.

With over three-fourths of the state's votes counted, Kefauver was assured of one delegate with a half-vote at the Democratic national convention next August in Chicago. He had hoped to win eight to 10 votes.

In the presidential preference voting, Kefauver ran without opposition on the democratic ballot and polled 104,474 with 3,830 of the state's 4,160 election districts reported. Adlai E. Stevenson pulled 2,850 write-in votes.

President Eisenhower was uncontested on the GOP ticket.

In the state-wide race for convention delegates, Meyner's uncommitted slate defeated Kefauver by a vote of 162,166 to 68,517 with 3,147 districts reported.

Regular organization Democrats termed the outcome a setback for Kefauver, who had campaigned strenuously in what added up to a popularity contest.

FIRST U.S. IMMIGRANT

'Petite Russian, 80, 'Symbol of Geneva'

Former Social Credit lands and forests minister R. E. Somers will return to selling life insurance in the Trail area in early May.

Mr. Somers disclosed his future plans Tuesday.

He said he will work out of Trail as agent for Monarch Life Assurance Co. Ltd., for which he worked part-time for 15 years before entering politics.

Mr. Somers' full-time occupation was as school teacher.

His family will remain in Victoria "at least until the end of the school term."

The former minister resigned from his cabinet posts at the close of the spring legislative session, following a weeks-long attack on the government for its handling of the Sturdy-Sommers case.

Mr. Somers said in resigning that he would devote his energies to fighting the slander suit he launched against Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy.

His resignation statement also contained a flat denial he had accepted bribes during his tenure as minister, and a charge that a huge conspiracy of Liberals, cut-and-get-out loggers, and The Victoria Times was spending thousands of dollars in an attempt to discredit him personally, and to destroy forest legislation.

Winnipeg Streets Named After Famous Newsmen

WINNIPEG (CP)—A number of streets in Garden City, a new suburban housing development, have been named after early Winnipeg newspapermen.

Among the streets named are: Daffoe boulevard—After the late Dr. John W. Daffoe, editor and president of the Winnipeg Free Press.

Richardson avenue—After the late R. L. Richardson, founder of the Winnipeg Tribune.

Macklin avenue—After the late E. H. Macklin, president of the Free Press.

McCurdy street—After Wesley McCurdy, former publisher of the Tribune.

SIMONDS DETAILS HIS PREPAREDNESS PLAN

Every Boy in Army —In His Own Time

Compulsory military service for every Canadian between 18 and 25 years and compulsory part-time service in civil defence were urged here today by Lieut.-Gen. Guy Simonds, one of Canada's most famous soldiers of the Second World War.

"Every young Canadian should have at least one year's military training," said the former chief of the Canadian General Staff, now retired, in an interview at the Empress Hotel.

"We do not need to copy the conscription methods of either Britain or the United States. We should develop our own system—and we should, at all costs, avoid the ugly word: conscription which has unhappy associations in Quebec."

Lived Here

The still youngish looking soldier returned to the scenes of his boyhood—he lived in Victoria from 1912 to 1919—on a lecture tour of Canada. He addressed two Canadian Club meetings at the Empress today.

He believes Canada is "woefully unprepared" either for war or for preventing war. Both manpower and industry, he says, should be organized against the danger of a thermonuclear attack.

"I do not think war is inevitable, but it is far from unlikely, and it is my conviction that we shall continue in a state of armed truce for many, many years to come."

"That, unfortunately, is the sort of world we live in, yet as a nation we are not facing up to it. There is no political leader in Canada today who will face up to the task of organizing our national manpower."

'Pussy-Footing'

"The structure of our civil defence organization is good, but there is too much pussy-footing about with volunteer services. If we were properly organized every man and woman in the country would have a card telling them what to do in a crisis."

"I would make it compulsory for every able-bodied person to take some part in civil defence work. And I would organize our industries so that they could be put on a wartime footing with as little delay as possible."

Until his appointment as chief of the General Staff, General Simonds was commandant of the Canadian Army Staff College, and prior to that, from 1946 to 1949, he was chief instructor at Britain's Imperial Defence College.

He was decorated by the governments of Canada, the United States, France, Poland, the Netherlands and Belgium for his service in the Sicilian, Northwest Europe and Scheldt campaigns.

National Survey

As a first step towards organized preparedness he recommends a national survey involving registration to determine the strength and availability of Canada's manpower.

"The organization of manpower," he said, "means allocation of the man and woman power of the nation so that we can make a really effective contribution in a crisis."

"Allocation also means the necessary training to ensure that each individual is equipped to carry out the particular role allotted to him."

"We are told that this would threaten national unity because it would be strongly resisted by French-speaking Canadians in Quebec province."

"In spite of the unhappy history of national service in that province, I do not believe the people of Quebec would resist organization if the real situation were placed before them."

Bigoted Group

"I think, too, that the reluctance on the part of French-speaking Canadians to national service is probably more the fault of what I call a bigoted group in the English-speaking population."

"This group believes that French-speaking Canadians should be molded to exactly the same form as English-speaking Canadians. If we accepted their right to be different from ourselves, I believe their resistance to national service would evaporate."

Continuing his tour of British Columbia, General Simonds leaves Victoria for Vancouver this afternoon. He will then proceed north to Prince Rupert, Prince George and Kitimat.

TOWERING SCREEN ACTOR Sterling Hayden proves he is looked up to by partner in film productions, Lindsay Parsons. The pair seek location here for movie based on early sealing industry.

SEALING DAYS STORY

Hayden Visits Here On Movie Site Hunt

Hero in fact as well as in fiction, tall, ruggedly handsome film star Sterling Hayden checked into town today in search of an authentic location for a new motion picture to be based on the sealing days here of yore.

Remembered for his performances in such outstanding motion pictures as "Asphalt Jungle" (1950); "The Star," when he appeared with Bette Davis; "So Big," with Jane Wyman; "Johnny Guitar," with Joan Crawford, and "Suddenly," with Frank Sinatra, the six-foot-four Hayden performed nobly in another theatre as well.

For gallantry in action while serving with the United States Marine Corps in Italy and Yugoslavia, he was awarded the Silver Medal, third highest military award in the United States.

The actor's latest picture, "The Come On," in which he appears with Anne-Baxter, has just been released by Allied Artists for first showing in New York.

Hayden is accompanied by his partner, Lindsay Parsons. The pair hope to produce a sea picture, "The Far Wanderer," written by Turnley Walker, who is also making the exploratory trip.

ABOARD SCHOONER

It will be filmed mostly aboard Mr. Hayden's 98-foot, 100-ton schooner Gracie S., which has visited Victoria under previous ownership annually in recent years on charters.

SOOKE SITE

The producers will investigate Sooke as a focal point of operations. They are seeking access to open water while being close to urban facilities and might consider hiring a vessel capable of housing over 100 actors and technicians if adequate shore installations cannot be found.

Mr. Hayden before becoming a movie star in 1940, serving on sailing and fishing vessels in New England. He was brought up in Gloucester, Mass., and is 40 now.

CHEERS FROM TUSCANY

California Tour Mogul Wants Share in Totem

An executive of the California State Automobile Association has purchased 10 shares in the world's tallest totem project, after reading about it in the Victoria Automobile Club publication.

Writing to George Warren, managing secretary of the Victoria club, C. H. A. Duke, manager of the California touring bureau, said: "On my many visits, having succumbed so completely to the charm of your lovely city, I feel it only fitting that I, too, be permitted to proudly claim partnership in your newest Island landmark."

Mr. Duke enclosed his personal cheque for $5.

The shareholders' list will be kept open until April 30. Shares may be obtained by mail, or at the main or Broad Street offices of the Times.

Prelate Pleads For Delinquents

'Utmost Charity' Asked For Unmarried Mothers

A plea for the "utmost charity and consideration" in dealing with unmarried mothers was voiced in Victoria today by the Anglican Archbishop of British Columbia, the Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton.

He added that the illegitimacy rate in Victoria has increased 30 per cent and noted that the delinquents came from "well-placed or Christian homes as well as from 'delinquent' homes."

Delivering his charge to the 54th session of the Diocesan Synod of British Columbia (Vancouver Island), Archbishop Sexton said:

"We are told that the majority of young girls who get into trouble are of junior high school level, and seem to come from homes where there is a record of domestic instability. 'This is not surprising. There appear to be a considerable number of parents who neither know nor care about the whereabouts of their children at any time of the day or night."

PARENTS TO BLAME

"In cases of this kind, the parents are much more blameworthy than the children."

He pointed out that "there are always a number of unlovable and physically unattractive people whose only attitude towards the case of an unmarried mother is one of severe condemnation."

He referred to Dr. Albert Schweitzer's "pity for all living things" in a plea for compassion and understanding towards unmarried mothers.

LITTLE CONCERN

The archbishop also criticized the federal government for what he termed "little official concern" for old age pensioners.

"While the federal government seems intent on increasing the salaries of many civil servants and members of the armed forces—most of whom are already well paid, if not over-paid—there seems to be little official concern for the improved welfare of those elderly citizens who in my opinion, have prior claim for generous consideration."

Later during the synod the 200 clerical and lay delegates from parishes throughout Vancouver Island will debate a resolution calling on the federal government to boost the old age pension from $40 to $55 a month.

The archbishop in his charge also touched on racial animosities, the aged and homeless, capital punishment and cruelty to children and animals.

He praised the stand of the Anglican Church in South Africa in the apartheid dispute. He pledged church co-operation with civic groups and other religious bodies in an attempt to improve the lot of the aged and homeless. And he urged that Canada should abolish capital punishment.

BARBARISM

"Capital punishment, especially by hanging is a relic of barbarism," he declared.

The archbishop noted the large amount of "shocking cruelty" to children and animals both in Canada and in the world at large.

He suggested caning for adults apprehended of treating children cruelly and urged federal action to make the humane slaughtering of animals obligatory.

GARBAGE PLAN

Elsewhere in city hall meetings, a recommendation was made Tuesday that the city consider back areas of Thetis Lake Park for a sanitary garbage fill. The plan for similar disposal in Topaz area has been unofficially abandoned due to opposition by residents there.

City engineer J. C. Garnett will investigate the Thetis Lake Park area but felt it would cost more than the Topaz site and would rule out a planned savings to finance a new garbage wharf.

Public works committee completed primary cutting of estimates Tuesday afternoon with total reduction of $125,000 accomplished. Most heavily slashed were the roads and streets depreciation repair program of the engineer.

The cost-cutting supported the recent prediction of Mayor Percy Scurrell that the Victoria mill rate will remain unchanged this year.

Speeding Fine

A young driver caught racing with another car at 55 mph of Yates Street was fined in city police court today and told a three month licence suspension would be recommended.

Barry D. Carlow, 19, 1456 Gladstone pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $35 or five days in jail.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall said he would recommend to the motor vehicles branch that a three-month suspension be imposed.

Delinquency Fight Aid Asked Here

Appointment of a juvenile probation officer for Greater Victoria was recommended to the intermunicipal committee today by city council welfare committee.

The group, chaired by Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, endorsed a letter received from Family and Children's Service which now does juvenile casework for the courts.

The FCS said the plan is backed by police and court authorities for prevention and follow-up work, held to be extra important due to a rise in juvenile delinquencies here in the last two years.

Park committee (chairman Ald. Robert Macmillan) referred to Capital District Improvement Commission, which the mayor says will be formed by the government either Friday or early next week, a letter calling for planning co-operation between municipalities and the commission. The letter was from V.I. chapter of the Architectural Institute of B.C. It urged fuller use by the municipalities of professional planners.

NIGHT GAMES

The parks committee heard a request from G. Eade, president of Victoria United Soccer, asking permission for 10 night soccer games at Royal Athletic Park, May 25 to Sept. 14. Parks department head W. H. Warren felt this would infringe on baseball schedules but he was overruled by the committee.

Charge will be 15 per cent of the gate plus cost of lighting or $70 per night plus lighting, whichever is greater.

The committee heard a delegation from Highland Games Association who asked a grant to compensate for charges for park use June 28. B.C. Tri-Services sports championships will be held in conjunction. Fearing a precedent might be set the committee refused but recommended the association ask finance committee for a grant-in-aid.

A $10 fee for Junior Baseball use of Royal Athletic Park will be dropped if council approves a recommendation passed by the committee. Doug Fleischer, chairman of the sports council spoke for the under-18 players. Charges will still be made for intercity games where an admission is charged. The committee will consider waiving an outstanding debt by the league to the city for $548.

Elsewhere in city hall meetings, a recommendation was made Tuesday that the city consider back areas of Thetis Lake Park for a sanitary garbage fill. The plan for similar disposal in Topaz area has been unofficially abandoned due to opposition by residents there.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

More adults than children attend school in Kitimat. This news was flashed to a waiting world yesterday by our Mr. Norman Cribbens, who has recently completed an expedition to that burgeoning northern community.

Mr. Cribbens takes some of the edge off the impact of his news by explaining the adults attend night school after work. But still, there is no reason why his despatch should not point the way to the shape of things to come.

It is heartening to hear about more adults than children attending school.

It will be better still when ALL adults attend school, and children don't.

It is a well known fact children do not wish to attend school.

From the time they start kicking the slates out of their cradles, children are anti-school.

Adults, on the other hand, would be deliciously happy to attend school. Why, to hear them tell it, nothing would please adults better than to attend school 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Breathes there a child who hasn't heard an adult say: "You don't know how lucky you are, having all the advantages of modern schooling. Why, when I was a boy..."

It is obvious there is a state of unbalance in life, which can only be corrected by sending the adults to school (which they say they like) and taking the children out of school (which they say they don't like).

The corollary to this would be taking the adults out of work (which they say they don't like) and putting the children into work (which they say they would like).

This way, everybody would be happy, and perhaps somebody might learn something for a change.

Only a few minor adjustments to our educational system would be necessary, such as making the desks larger (or possibly the adults smaller).

And there would be, of course, the matter of teachers. If adults are attending school, they obviously can't be teachers. This leaves the teaching profession wide open for children.

Goodness knows, we can learn a lot from the kids.

I'm already preparing for my first day at school. I've secured a small present of bubble gum for Teacher.

St. Andrews and Caledonian Society meets Thursday at 8 p.m. in K of P Hall to honor past presidents and charter members. Entertainment and dancing will conclude the event.

Monthly program of recorded music presented by Victoria Public Library will be heard Thursday at 7.30 p.m. in the library music room.

The free program will include Water Music by Handel, British Songs and Folk Songs by Quilter, Schubert's Sonata in A Minor, Concerto Grosso by Bloch.

Next program will be May 17.

Councillors P. F. Birley and J. V. Johnson of Oak Bay have been named delegates to the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities' annual general meeting at Victoria City Hall, May 30.

A request to Oak Bay council by a local firm for permission to cut driftwood on municipal beaches was refused Monday night. Municipal solicitors advised the council the beachwood is actually owned by the crown. Similar requests have been made to Saanich and Victoria councils.

Community singing will highlight a meeting of the Welsh Society at 804 Government at 8 p.m. Friday.

Members of 88th Battalion, CEF, will hold their 30th annual reunion dinner May 23 at 7 p.m. at the Glenisland Hotel. Committee in charge includes chairman W. G. Stone, vice-president Carew Martin, secretary-treasurer R. M. Mould, T. Brewer, J. Bartlett, F. Kilsby, A. G. Wagg, S. J. Coles, A. E. Coles, P. H. Walker, N. Maynard and E. W. Maynard.

Proposed by Ald. M. R. Mooney for special collection by city trucks of large items of junk from residential back yards was killed at committee level Tuesday.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Ald. Arthur Dowell took the stand that once residents were notified of such a plan, all winter-killed hedges and all basement-stored debris, would be piled on front lawns for collection.

"If you start that kind of clean-up, $1,000 is peanuts," said Ald. Edgelow. Neither alderman would support taking Ald. Mooney's plan to council for discussion.

Building permit has been issued at city hall for a $25,000 loading bay to be added to B.C. Forest Products Gorge Road plant. Farmer Construction will carry out the work.

Drug Possession Brings 6-Month Term for City Man

Six-month concurrent jail terms were imposed on Melton Essihos, Victoria, when he appeared in city police court today charged with illegal possession of drugs and uttering a forged prescription.

In imposing the minimum sentence allowed, Magistrate Henry C. Hall noted that a probation report indicated that Essihos was a sick man. However, he warned that another conviction would not likely be dealt with so lightly.

Court was told that Essihos has been under medical attention from 12 to 14 years and that a drug, Demerol, has been prescribed for a skin condition.

A member of the RCMP drug squad previously testified that Essihos obliterated wording and raised the amount of drugs prescribed for on a doctor's prescription.

He then obtained a larger amount of the drug Demerol in advance date of the prescription.

Learn Rudiments of Game And Have Inexpensive Fun

By PENNY SAVER

During the winter and fall, badminton is an indoor sport, but comes the sun, and it may move outdoors. A stretch of level land, is all you need. A lawn in the backyard is ideal. Set up the net, find your shuttlecocks and racket and have fun. For those of you who would like an extra outdoor badminton set, or who are just trying out the game, this inexpensive set I saw would suit you. In a snap-close plastic bag you'll find two rackets, a cylinder holding two shuttlecocks, and a net. There's even a rule book included for you. When you've finished playing, the set can be neatly stored in the plastic case. The complete outfit costs $3.98.

Nearly all casual or dressy necklines call for appropriate scarves this season. With your little fitted suit, you might not want to wear a blouse, but want a scarf to fill in at the throat. The answer to the accessory need is a long, taffeta scarf that extends to the waistline, where tie tabs fasten around the waistline to assure a neat line. Your scarf won't twist around or flip out, 'cause it's securely anchored. You'll want several to match the spring and summer colors. Striped, they're white with red, green, blue, grey, blue and grey, or grey and yellow stripes. You'll be surprised at the low price. They're $1 each.

In the men's departments, I've noticed something new. Thick woven ties to catch the casual, tweedy look, have a hidden charm. They're not so heavy as they look, for they're backed with taffeta. They're called Ivy loom ties, to suit the Ivy League men. Plain, flecked or striped weaves are shown in all colors, and cost $1.50.

Stretchy socks that seem to be favorites with much of Victoria's male populace have been available in solid colors, stripes, checks and a multitude of patterns, but this season there's another to add to the list. Tastefully combined colors form always liked Argyles. These are $2 a pair.

Items in today's column are available in Victoria stores, the names of which may be obtained by calling me at 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Inactivity at Middle Age Will Lead to Overweight

A woman is more likely to be overweight from middle age on. During the busy years of rearing her family she may have dropped the habit of sports. For this reason after her children are grown she may not think of afternoon of golf or walking or swimming, or of an evening of dancing. She simply has lost the habit.

It seems easier to perch oneself at a bridge table afternoon after afternoon than to start out learning to play golf. There is nothing more pleasant than a bridge game with friends but timidity about beginning some new sport or physical exercise may cause the woman to lead a very sedentary life from middle age on, just when she needs exercise most.

The lady in question may not only find that she is gaining weight but that it is distributed less attractively than in the past. Middle-aged women need some exercise. If they do not have time or money to indulge in golf or dancing lessons or horseback riding, the brisk afternoon walk costs nothing but a little effort.

Exercises at home also can replace the regular indulgence in sports although both are desirable. Stretching exercises are splendid. So are many other exercises. These do not have to be strenuous but should match the condition and capability of the individual and will add to energy, improve health and make the figure lovelier.

The diet should consist of less food calorie-wise but even more

JUNE WEDDING DATE ANNOUNCED

June 2 is the wedding date for Miss Audrey Eunice Crossman, daughter of Mrs. John Crossman, 2150 Newton Street, and the late Mr. Crossman, and Mr. Stuart Gordon Kenning, son of Dr. and Mrs. Stuart G. Kenning, 806 Dereen Place. Miss Crossman attended University of British Columbia, where she was affiliated with Alpha Delta Pi Sorority. Mr. Kenning, who is in his final year of medicine at McGill University, is a graduate of UBC with a Bachelor of Arts degree and is in the Alpha Kappa Kappa Fraternity. The ceremony will take place in St. Matthias' Church. (Photos by Van Dyck and Meyer).

B. C. BRACEWELL SAYS

In Centralization of Power Is Loss of Responsibility

The dangers in too much centralization of power in the provincial governments with resulting loss of local responsibility was pointed out by B. C. Bracewell, retired deputy minister of municipal affairs, at a joint meeting of the civic affairs group of the University Women's Club of Victoria and the civic interest group of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mr. Bracewell, whose subject was "Some Aspects of Municipal Government," also warned that there was a tendency for non-elected boards and committees to exert undue pressure on elected representatives, thus lessening the prestige of the municipal council.

He gave a comprehensive view of municipal government, under the headings: Historical, physical, local autonomy, incorporation, supervision, powers and finance. He explained the relationship between the provincial department of municipal affairs and the individual municipal councils and he stressed the need for co-operation between efficient elected and employed civic officials to ensure good civic management.

The speaker illustrated his talk with interesting anecdotes from his experience in municipal affairs. A discussion period followed. Mr. Bracewell was introduced by Miss M. Crummy and thanked by Miss E. Brett.

Orphanage Linen Shower

The annual linen shower sponsored by the ladies' committee of the B.C. Protestant Orphanage will be held on Thursday, May 3, in the home on Cook Street. The president, Mrs. Walter Holder, and the past president, Mrs. Walter Luney, will receive guests. Tea convenier is Mrs. J. Collins.

The treasurer, Mrs. J. C. Scott, assisted by Mrs. H. Dillabough, will receive cash donations and there will be a table for gifts of linen.

Tea will be served and those Mrs. W. W. Lewis, Mrs. G. Brown and Mrs. T. Woolson, attending will be shown through the home by members of the ladies' committee. A program with an organ interlude and Cmdr. Day showed films and souvenirs of Australia. Profits totaled $218.50.

18th Century Wedding Veil Worn by Bride, Grace Adams

Of interest to musical circles in Victoria is a wedding which took place in Metropolitan United Church on Saturday evening, when Miss Grace Adeline Adams, daughter of Mrs. Alfred H. Adams, 2141 Beach Drive, and the late Mr. Adams, exchanged vows with Edward William Hanning, son of Mrs. J. E. Hanning, Grosvenor Apartments, Hillside Avenue, and the late Lieut.-Col. Hanning, MC, formerly of Calgary.

Dr. F. E. H. James officiated at the ceremony in an all-white setting of stocks arranged in white baskets, with tall candelabra. Charles Palmer, church organist, played selections before the ceremony, and Pierre Timp, soloist, sang "Psalm of Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by a family friend, G. Stanley Eden. She was gown in an ivory satin dress fashioned with embroidered panel of seed pearls from neckline to hem and with seed pearl design on the net yoke. The long sleeves came to points over the hands. The regal skirt of her gown extended into a long train. From a wreath of orange blossoms cascaded a filmy helms veil of lace on train which had been worn by her great-great-grandmother in 1795. Complementing her wedding gown she wore pearl drop earrings and a double strand of seed pearls, and the groom's gift of a gold engraved bracelet. Her bridal bouquet was an all-white cascade of roses, carnations, stephanotis and lily of the valley.

Matron of honor, Mrs. T. R. Barbour, sister of the bride, wore a sunlit yellow nylon chiffon-over-taffeta dress with swathed diamante bodice and coatee, a mauve tulle coronet with matching gloves, and bouquet of mauve stocks and yellow jonquils. Three bridesmaids, Miss Joan Hanning, sister of the groom, Miss Lillian Conway and Miss Orsa-Marie Douglas, were gown in identical in powder blue nylon chiffon-over-taffeta dresses with off-shoulder necklines. They wore matching coronets of blue seed pearls with blue accessories, and carried pink and white colonial bouquets. They wore pearl jewelry and the bride's gifts, silver engraved bracelets.

Best man was Ross Sturgeon, while ushers were Terence R. Barbour, Lloyd Main, Harold Bryant and Douglas Robinson. George W. Robinson proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Spring flowers decorated the lounge and marked the bride's table, where a three-tier wedding

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Ben Barker (MOTHER OF 3)

Even the most contented babies get a bit out of sorts from time to time. And even the most patient mothers sometimes get impatient trying to determine just what it is baby wants. But the wise mother makes an effort to hide her irritation . . . puts her friendliest face forward. Attitudes are easily transmitted, and more often than not, this "applied psychology" succeeds in bringing both mother and baby around to a happier frame of mind.

Good eating habits start with you. Introducing a variety of foods early is not only nutritionally desirable, but teaches baby the delights of many tastes, different textures . . . helps prevent "picky" eating in later years.

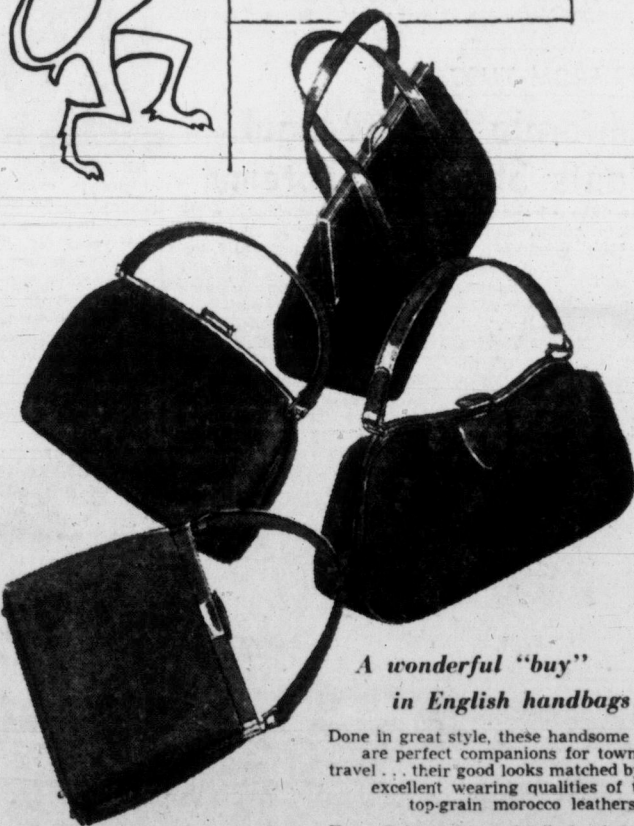

Variety galore is in store for your little one with Gerber Strained Foods—all specially prepared for the likes of tykes. There are 37 Fruits, Vegetables, Meats, Dinners, Soups and Desserts—with mild, naturally good flavors, eye-appealing colors and the heavenly smooth texture that feels pleasant on baby's tongue. Easy as can be to vary baby's menus.

Fun fare. A "cost-nothing" toy that's grand for baby's play pen. Fill a couple of small, plastic vegetable bags with strips of brightly-colored cellophane. Secure tops with string, and tie between bars. Swell for punching, squeezing or just gazing at.

Two taste surprises for your pride and joy: Gerber Strained Garden Vegetables and Gerber Strained Sweet Potatoes are two unusually pleasant taste treats that are remarkable for their high iron and Vitamin A content. Both are pureed to a nice-on-the-tongue texture that offer important vegetable goodness in a milder more palatable form. Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods Limited, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Entertains for Bride-Elect

Mrs. Rod Justice was hostess at her Quadra street home recently when she entertained guests at a miscellaneous shower for Miss Nancy Levander of Port Alberni, whose marriage to Mr. K. D. Mawle takes place next month. Pink rosebuds and heather in corsage were presented to the bride-elect, while the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. F. J. Mawle received pink carnations. A large flower basket held the many gifts. Pink hyacinths and heather and pink candles centred the lace-cloth-covered refreshment table. Guests were Mrs. D. Alexander, Mrs. J. Clark, Mrs. H. Greenwood, Mrs. J. Greenwood, Mrs. J. Hughes, Mrs. B. Main, Mrs. B. Martingale, Mrs. B. Owens, Mrs. A. Pendray, Mrs. T. Todd, Mrs. H. Tyson, Misses Ruth Tyson, Joan Tyson, Shirley Main and Barbara Main.

To Honor Sunny Wyatt

Miss Sunny Wyatt was surprised with a luncheon in her honor recently at the Princess Mary restaurant, when her co-workers at the Bank of Commerce, main branch, gathered to present her with a group gift of a crystal flower bowl. She also received a corsage of red roses. Present were Mrs. K. W. Nicholls, Mrs. D. Truscott, Mrs. John Woods, Misses Caroline Breitschmid, Moira Burnett, Violet Rheumer, Jean Campbell, Joan Lanning and Andre Lindsay.

Miss Wyatt was also honored this afternoon when Mrs. George Masters entertained at the tea hour. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Percy Scurrah, Mrs. Hugh Chisholm, Mrs. Donald Cox and Mrs. Douglas Marshall. Assisting in serving were Miss Nan Baxter, Miss Lou Ann Traunweiser, Miss Marion Carter and Miss Barbara Courtney.

Mediterranean Cruise

Lt.-Col. and Mrs. A. W. Hunt will leave Victoria on Sunday for New York from where they will sail on the Ss. Guest From Ottawa

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. S. Bumpus, 2276 Beach Drive, entertained their son-in-law, Mr. R. H. Lowe, of Ottawa, for several days.

At the Yacht Club

Members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club and their friends will gather in the clubhouse on Saturday for an informal dance commencing at 8 p.m. Mr. Don McNeill is in charge.

A Surprise Shower

A multi-colored treasure chest topped with wedding bells and backed with plum blossoms, tulips and daffodils held gifts for bride-elect Miss Audrey Baker at a cup-and-saucer shower held for her Sunday afternoon by Miss Diane Watkins at her home, 2528 Beach Drive. Little Andrea Taylor presented the guest of honor with a corsage of red roses. The bride's mother, Mrs. A. H. Baker, received pink carnations, and her sister, Miss Doris Baker, who will be junior-bridesmaid, received daffodils and hyacinth. Miss Joan Smithson presided at the tea table which was covered with an ecru lace cloth and centred with a large shower cake in a mist of blue tulle. Wedding bells and flowers decorated the cake, which was topped with a miniature bride and groom. Lighted blue candles in silver holders flanked the cake. Invited guests were Mrs. J. A. Taylor, Mrs. M. E. Watkin, Mrs. F. W. Watkin, Misses Beverley Tocher, Pat Hurly, Sally Gardom, Doris Pittendrigh, Elizabeth Forbes, Margaret Duke, Jill Denny, Dorothy Hunt, Lynne Elford, Maurine Squires, Sandra Parkinson and Valerie Watkin.

Old Art of Ceramics A Modern-Day Wonder

Mrs. Dai McLeod molds a bit of clay to form an ash tray. Surrounding her are vases, figurines and a "lazy Susan" she has created in her home studio.

By KITT DIXON

I looked at an ugly lump of clay and the gleaming ceramic planter lamp and marvelled!

It's true the fashioning of clay into beautiful shapes is an age-old art, but it is nonetheless amazing that a lamp of such modernistic styling should be the product of something so common as clay. In this day and age, such a product should be the result of years of scientific research . . . for advertising purposes if nothing else.

But this "manufacturer" doesn't want to advertise her ceramic lamp, nor any of her wares.

Mrs. Dai McLeod creates modern ceramic pieces for the sheer pleasure they bring her as an artist, and her friends as the recipients.

The small studio in the basement of her Pentland Road home is full of figurines, "lazy Susan" sets, vases, fruit bowls and ash trays that she and her six pupils have made, or are in the process of making.

Were her studio a shop, one suitable only for darker colors.

would hesitate to look for prices, she must match her glaze with the clay.

Every glazed surface is a deep, vivid hue or a clear, pure pastel. Colors are pure and they gleam like the finest crystal.

"That's because I never stint when applying the glaze, and I use the finest I can buy," says Mrs. McLeod, who feels it is the glaze that gives an article quality.

An interesting note about glazes . . . they never look their true color when in liquid form. For example, a bottle of foliage green glaze is a light rust shade. Not until the liquid is painted and fired on the clay is the true shade revealed.

"This fact lends a note of wonder to the craft," says Mrs. McLeod. "Because I never know just what effect I'm going to get."

Three coats of the liquid are necessary for opaque glazes, two for a clear glaze.

Most of the clay Mrs. McLeod uses is white clay, imported from the United States. She will sometimes use local red clay, but this is

YWCA Secretary Appointed To Gold Coast Position

TORONTO (CP)—Estelle Amaron of Montreal and Toronto, in YWCA world service work for 30 years, has been appointed general secretary of the Gold Coast YWCA in British West Africa.

The Canadian YWCA said Miss Amaron, general secretary for the last five years of the Sierra Leone "Y" in Freetown, takes over her new post next January.

A physical education graduate of McGill University, she went to Rangoon, Burma, in 1926 as girls' work secretary, later becoming general secretary. After 10 years in Burma, she went to Colombo, Ceylon, as general area secretary. During the Second World War she was with the British YWCA war-service staff in England, Italy, Egypt and southeast Asia. She returned to Burma in 1946 for post-war reconstruction work, leaving for Sierra Leone after training Burmese to administer their own "Y" affairs.

In Sierra Leone she also trained a native staff and has made the "Y" there almost self-supporting, the Canadian YWCA said.

Leaving Sierra Leone in June, before taking up her new post.

ESTELLE AMARON

Miss Amaron will report to the world YWCA executive in Geneva and return to Canada on furlough before taking up her new post.

ABSENCE OF B.C. FACILITIES FOR DISTURBED CHILDREN

NANAIMO (CP)—Absence of facilities in B.C. to help emotionally-disturbed children was discussed here during the weekend at a regional conference of the Canadian Federation of University Women's Clubs.

Delegates suggested there should be more foster homes and adequately trained staff for child guidance clinics.

"The need for early prevention among pre-delinquents has economic merit," said Mrs. Helen Walden of New Westminster.

She cited a case of a boy who, since the age of five and now 18, had cost the province about $10,000 and now is serving a sentence in Oakalla.

Chairman of the conference was Mrs. John Tully, and Mrs. E. McGowan, president of the Nanaimo club, was host.

Bosses Receive Credits At Annual Breakfast

More than 70 members of the Victoria Credit Women's Breakfast Club and their bosses sat down to the annual "bosses" breakfast this morning in McEwen's dining room.

The club president, Mrs. Beryl McDonald, presided and seated with her at the head table were her boss, J. D. Wilson; Miss Georgie McKay and J. L. Muirhead; Mrs. Esther Harwood and J. D. Gillis; Miss Jean Pitt and B. McKenzie; Mrs. Brownie Wilson and J. Davis; Mrs. Joyce King and H. Benn; Mrs. Belva Brooks and Ray Whellans; Mrs. Tess Lawrence and B. Tolson; Miss Lucille McBurney and A. B. Lea, and the guest speaker, Mrs. H. G. Ellis.

Other special guests were W. M. Williams, president of the Credit Granters' Association; Percy Knowles, Oliver Prentice and Bert Matthews.

Theme of the gathering was "Credit to the Bosses," and the credits were as follows: Extra five minutes at coffee, 27%; overlooking tardiness, 23%; for that cheery morning smile, 22%; closing one eye to blunders, 18%; odd hour off, 7%, and for that hoped-for raise, 3%.

Miss McKay proposed the toast to the bosses and Mr. Williams responded.

The guest speaker was introduced by Miss Florence McDougall. Mrs. Ellis, a welfare officer with the Red Cross overseas during the war, gave an interesting and humorous talk on her experiences in hospitals and small mobile units behind the lines in western Europe during the last war.

She was thanked by Miss Maureen Macfarlane.

Good Milk Drink Tops For Hit Parade Party

Probably like us, you home-makers think you've heard of hit parade songs just once too often, and wonder why your teenagers never seem to tire of them. Yet no matter how often the top ten are played, the youngsters love to get together... to repeat the oldies (last month's that is) and catch up with the newest (for "being" in the know is of prime importance for a teenager). There are always the juke boxes, of course, but wouldn't you rather have them expending their excess energy in your own rumpus room? We think you would, so we suggest an easy way to let them whirl the popular platters, enjoy their favorite fare and let loose on their unceasing line of chatter—at home.

At such a party, or anytime for that matter, the hit parade of the menu is of utmost concern to the hollow-legged teenager, so we've lined up three milk drinks in their honor. Much as they like to sip away at soft drinks, we think they'll welcome a switch to these frothy concoctions, not only appealing to look at but mighty good to eat as well. And we say eating advisedly, for, as you know, milk is a food, either combined with other ingredients or by itself. It's the dairy food that's known as its protein, calcium, riboflavin and vitamin A content... needed at any stage of the game but especially in the pre-20 period. Since milk is a pep-giver for you just the same as it is for the youngsters whooping it up in the basement, why don't you settle down upstairs to a party milk drink of your own... perhaps a Pink Peppermint Lady? The youngsters will love this dream of a pink milk drink with its frothy meringue topping and cherry garnish... or you could add crushed peppermint candy instead. Another sure-fire winner, Caramel Nog, is one where the sauce can be made ahead of time... for a final blending with cream and milk, egg yolks and whites, salt and nutmeg... and a sprinkling of the same spice on top for trim. Or make up a chocolate-ginger sauce and serve Cocoa-Ginger Shakes. Just mix the sauce and milk then top with whipped cream and chopped preserved ginger... real cool!

PINK PEPPERMINT LADY

One cup sugar, 4 cups milk, 1 teaspoon peppermint extract, 4 egg whites, red food coloring (optional), red cocktail cherries or green minted cherries (optional).

Combine ½ cup sugar in 2 cups milk and heat until all the sugar is dissolved. Add the remaining 2 cups milk and chill. Add peppermint extract and tint the mixture a pale pink. Pour into glasses leaving room for topping. Beat egg whites until stiff; then gradually beat in remaining sugar and tint pink.

The smoothest of milk drinks, this pink-tinted perfection is called a Pink Peppermint Lady. Pop on a stemmed cherry or sprinkle with crushed peppermint candy to top it off.

Pile meringue high in each glass and garnish with a cherry. Serve with sipper spoons or straws. (Makes 4 large servings.)

CARAMEL NOG

Half cup sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 3 eggs, separated, 3 cups chilled milk, ½ cup light cream, dash of salt, ½ teaspoon nutmeg.

Place 6 tablespoons of the sugar in a pan, dissolve, and caramelize until golden brown. Slowly add the boiling water and stir until the caramel is dissolved. Chill. Just before serving, beat the egg yolks until thick and pale lemon in color. Beat egg whites, adding the remaining 2 tablespoons sugar. Combine the chilled caramel syrup with the milk and cream. Fold egg whites into yolks, and stir in the milk mixture, salt, and nutmeg. Serve with nutmeg sprinkled on top of each glass. (Makes 6 servings.)

King's Daughters Plan Daffodil Tea

As they have done annually for well over 50 years, the Victoria District King's Daughters will salute the spring with its annual daffodil tea next Saturday at the home of Mrs. A. M. Kirk, 2850 Beach Drive, from 3 to 5 p.m. Masses of golden daffodils will decorate the rooms.

Mrs. A. Nugent is general convener. Tea will be served and there will also be a stall of genuine home cooking.

Presiding at the head table will be Mrs. P. R. Scurrah, Mrs. E. Tomlin, Miss Kathleen K. Agnew and Mrs. H. W. Davey.

Mrs. Kirk, hostess to the order, with Mrs. C. F. Lawrence, district president, and Miss Jessie Gordon, vice-president, will welcome the guests.

The willows bus will be found convenient for transportation.

PTA NEWS

Craigflower — Mrs. A. Gray presided at meeting of Craigflower PTA and reported on the provincial convention in Kamloops. Plans to provide the graduating class with pins were approved. In addition to the picnic usually arranged for this class, it was decided to extend plans to include grades six and seven, as they will be leaving Craigflower School to attend the new Junior High next year. Guest speaker, W. A. Scoones, Family and Children's Services, spoke on the work of the agency.

Gordon Head — Dr. Harold Johns will open a bazaar and tea Friday evening at 7 p.m. in the new Gordon Head School. The affair will be held by the Gordon Head PTA, and will feature home cooking, candy, aprons, sewing, parcel post and miscellaneous other stalls.

Mrs. Scurrah Lauds Work With Retarded Children

"There is nothing more important than helping little children, particularly those born without the mental or physical capabilities their friends have," Mrs. P. B. Scurrah told members of the Greater Victoria Association for Retarded Children and their guests at a tea sponsored by that association recently in the Douglas Room at the Hudson's Bay.

Daffodil Motif At Tea Party

Crystal vases of daffodils and greenery on the tea tables gave a springtime effect to the Legion auditorium on Blanshard Street, for a recent tea sponsored by the Ladies' Auxiliary to Britannia Branch.

President, Mrs. I. Horrod, welcomed guests; Mrs. D. McCulloch was in charge of door tickets; Mrs. F. E. Kamann and Mrs. E. Winters, flower stall; Mrs. S. J. Mayzes, Jr., home cooking, and Mrs. M. Mayzes, chicken dinner.

Tea arrangements were in charge of Mrs. S. McCuaig, assisted by Mrs. P. R. Cairns, Mrs. M. Mayzes, Mrs. O. Lewis, Mrs. A. Michaelenko and Mrs. D. M. Smith. A sum of over $40 was realized.

THERE'LL BE DISPUTES

Chetwynd Has Bets On 40 Stetsons, $6

Railways Minister Ralph Chetwynd hopes to be the proud possessor of 40 Stetson hats and $6 by suppertime on June 11.

The hats and the $6 are wagers the railways minister made with friends on the completion date of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway's southern extension.

Months ago, Mr. Chetwynd said the first train would travel the southern extension between North Vancouver and its present terminus at Squamish, on June 11, leaving from North Vancouver at 4:15 p.m.

His friends thought he was far too optimistic.

But Mr. Chetwynd felt secure enough in his forecast to wager 40 Stetsons (at $20 per) and the $6 that the first train would roll over newly-laid rails around Howe Sound on June 11.

The wagers may find some cause for dispute.

The train Mr. Chetwynd will ride will be a work train. It will haul a load of gravel ballast, and Mr. Chetwynd will be forced to ride in the engine cab, wearing a tin hat for protection.

Official opening of the $10,000,000 southern extension, with all pomp and ceremony, won't take place until some time between July 15 and July 20.

"But the train I'll ride will be the first train to travel from one end to the other," said Mr. Chetwynd, who is also a member of the PGE's construction committee.

What will he do with 40 hats?

"Well, I think I'll give one to Art Laing to talk through," said Mr. Chetwynd, who explained that Mr. Laing, leader of the

Brothel Operations Described in Court

TORONTO (CP)—A 64-year-old former miner from Timmins, Ont., Tuesday testified that Steve Feron provided the money to pay a fine resulting from a bawdy-house conviction against the miner's wife.

He testified during the fifth day of the trial of Feron, Linus Coghlin and Charles and William Ingwer, who face a total of 127 charges of keeping a common bawdy house. The crown seeks to prove they operated 81 brothels in the downtown Jarvis street district.

Fred (Pop) Davidson said he arrived in Toronto in 1944 and for five years was a guard at Malton airport. He said Charles Ingwer asked him in 1949 to operate a brothel rent-free with a commission of 15 per cent on 11 rooms to rent.

When his wife was arrested, he said, he went to Feron. Feron telephoned "all the magistrates he could think of" but Mrs. Davidson stayed in a jail overnight.

GAVE HIM MONEY

Said Davidson: "She came up on trial and was fined $50. I paid the fine but Mr. Feron gave me the money."

He said he was employed variously as a house manager, a

City's Lease Killed But Garage Stays

Home Oil garage at Fisgard and Douglas will be allowed to continue in operation temporarily despite cessation of a lease from the city for its site.

Finance committee was told Monday that buyer Edward Mallek who assumes ownership May 23 will sublet the garage until such time as a proposed new store building is ready for construction.

The property, recently transferred to Mr. Mallek for about $75,000, includes a depth of 50 feet of the lot behind the garage now used for parking by city vehicles and employees' cars.

NEW AREA NEEDED

The committee felt some new parking area will be required for the city vehicles but indicated the employees who park there will have to find other accommodation themselves.

The property adjoins an area used by city firemen for drill purposes. The committee will investigate for a new parking area in order that the remainder of the open space won't become too cramped by cars to permit fire drills.

General government estimates were cut by the committee by $5,570 then added to by $21,000, and ended up with a total of $14,700 increase over last year due to increased salaries and superannuation costs. More cutting is possible by council later.

Mayor Percy Scurrell described as wasteful the outlay to patch up old city buildings. Repairs were authorized for city hall and market building roofs, but an estimated expenditure of $1,200 to paint the city hall was turned down.

"Paint is the only thing that's holding it together," said comptroller Dennis A. Young. Discussed was possibility of buying a microfilm camera and projector to reduce the volume of old records stored in the hall and now classed as a fire hazard.

CHINESE PACK—A first class knotting session was held recently and several passed their test for first and second star. The boys were allotted their work for the Scoutmaster. The Chinese, Third Victoria and Elks Own Packs will meet at headquarters at 7 p.m. Thursday to practise the parts in their act.

THIRD VICTORIA PACK—At the meeting Tuesday, Akela Winnie Bennett invested Ruth Richards as a leader. Gerry Loudon, Tom Bowlware and Alex Bunnell were invested as Wolf Cubs. Scouts Doug Whyllie and Ray Lang were presented with their Cub instructor's badge. Michael Bloom and Gary Bell joined as new chums.

TILICUM "A" PACK—District cubmaster Phyllis Sheffield invested Mary Smith as a leader. Ken Dennis, Bruce Johnston and Don Smith were invested as Wolf Cubs.

VIEW ROYAL PACKS—The two packs practised for their main scheme in the Scoutmaster. Bert Williams and Peter Howell instructed them in the work. Word has come by wire that a 13-year-old scout, his legs withered by polio, hobbled 20 miles on crutches to earn his final merit badge to qualify him for the eagle award. Joel Shaeffer admitted he was a "little tired" when his 13½-hour ordeal was over. A scoutmaster made the hike with him to see that he did not overexert himself and jeopardize his health.

All scouts and cubs are reminded to be at the Memorial Arena on Sunday, April 22, at 1:30 p.m. for the dress rehearsal for the Scoutmaster. Those in the march past will fall in between the arena and the curling club building.

Hundreds See Jet Travel At 1,000 MPH
PALMDALE, Calif. (AP)—The Lockheed F-104A Jet Star Fighter—described as a missile with a man in it—has flown more than 1,000 miles an hour.

Several hundred persons, including the largest gathering of aviation writers of its kind on record, witnessed the achievement Monday. It was the fastest an aircraft ever has flown before a civilian audience.

The exact speed of the plane remains a secret.

OUT OUR WAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy.

Andy, who is a prize, not a person, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive as prize, for the main question, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" or a 26-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia." Prizes for the secondary question will be an "American People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trails" plus "Andy's Everyday Encyclopedia."

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times, Victoria.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of The American Peoples Encyclopedia to Bill Eisenlord, aged 13, of Tucson, Ariz., for his question:

What Are the Everglades?

The Everglades are over in the southeast corner of the United States. There a big finger separates the Atlantic Ocean from the Gulf of Mexico. It is a peninsula of low-lying land and the sea has trespassed upon it many times. There are still some 30,000 lakes resting in hollows down to the old sea bed. In some areas the sea still merges with the land to form marshes. The Everglades is one of these marshy areas in, of course, the state of Florida.

There was a time when the Everglades were much bigger. Then it was discovered that the marshy land could be drained. A number of canals were cut from the sea to Lake Okechobee. They drained off the water and left tracts of new land high and dry.

In 1947 it was decided that part of the original Everglades should be preserved in its original state. An area of 2,000 square miles was set aside as a national park. The Everglades National Park is second in size only to Yellowstone National Park.

The area is far south in tropical regions. Part of it is swamp land covered only with sturdy sawgrass. Parts are overgrown with dense foliage of great beauty. There is tropical timber and on the fertile islands between the bayous oaks, palms and pines thrive together. But the most common tree of the Everglades is the beautiful cypress.

The cypress is a relative of the old and stately sequoia. It is an evergreen of fine, delicate foliage. It grows knee-deep in the waters of the swamps and the bayous. Often its tall branches are draped in misty Spanish moss—a frothy relative of the pineapple.

Tropical flowers thrive in the warm climate. Thomas Edison spent many of his later years searching for orchids in the tall tropical trees of the Everglades. Some 25 different kinds of orchids thrive in this tropical wonderland. Some plants are hundreds of years old, bearing thousands of blossoms. They add their patches of vivid color high in the dense green foliage of the trees. Certain areas of the park are favorite nesting grounds of the elegant, snowy egret.

In the southwest section giant mangroves grow 60 to 100 feet tall. At low tide, oysters may be seen clinging to their roots. And here the giant sea turtles often come ashore. These monsters of the deep return to the land only to lay their eggs.

To the north of the park the Seminole Indians have made their homes. They farm on the rich islands, fish in the streams and hunt for birds and deer in the forested areas. These Indians are glad to act as guides and pole you in their boats through the wonderland of the Everglades. But certain parts of the Everglades are so wild and overgrown that they have never yet been explored.

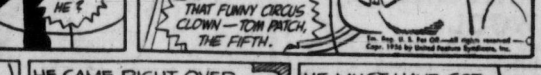

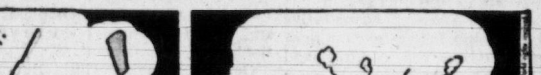

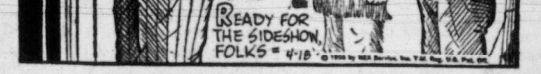

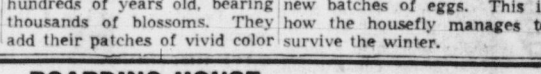

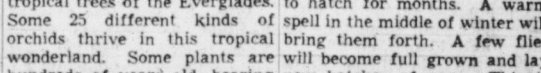

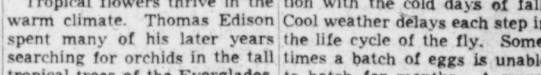

Andy sends a year's subscription to Treasure Trails to Quentin Steinberg, age 10, of Seattle, Wash., for his question: What is the life cycle of the housefly?

If the weather is warm and the garbage plentiful a housefly may become full grown in less than two weeks.

Housefly lays from 500 to 2,000 eggs at a time. She places them in damp manure or garbage piles. The eggs hatch into small white maggots in a few days. For about five days these repulsive fellows stuff themselves with food. Then they go into the pupa state and rest for another five days. Next they hatch into full-grown flies. Half of the brood of eggs will be females, all ready to start another generation of pesky flies.

If she isn't swatted, sprayed or eaten by a bat, bird or frog, the fly can live through the whole summer. Nature puts a stop to her amazing multiplication with the cold days of fall. Cool weather delays each step in the life cycle of the fly. Sometimes a batch of eggs is unable to hatch for months. A warm spell in the middle of winter will bring them forth. A few flies will become full grown and lay new batches of eggs. This is how the housefly manages to survive the winter.

BOARDING HOUSE

U.K. Government Draw 'Gambling,' Says Clergy

LONDON (Reuters)—Two British church leaders Tuesday night attacked as "indefensible" and "unfortunate" the Conservative government's offer of big money prizes for people holding government bonds.

The chance of prizes was offered Tuesday in the annual budget message of Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan. See page 22.

The government says buying the bonds would not be gambling since no matter what happened, the purchaser would retain the value of his original investment.

But Dr. Donald Soper, an outspoken Methodist leader, declared: "I believe it is indefensible for any government to take gambling into its system."

Rev. J. Clark Gibson, secretary of the churches committee on gambling, said: "As the prizes are distributed by chance, the deal therefore becomes a gamble, because the gains of the few are at the loss of the whole body of investors whether they want to gamble or not."

ITALIAN MONROE—Italy's answer to Marilyn Monroe, actress Rosalinda Neri, displays her charms as she poses for the photographer in New York. Miss Neri, who arrived in the U.S. several weeks ago for a visit, is scheduled to return home next week.

WISP HERE, WISP THERE

YORK, England (AP)—Chorus girls in the touring revue "Fancy Pants" threatened a strike over a shortage of what's in the title of the show, and they don't mean "fancy."

Posing in the nude, they said, was no part of the bargain when they signed on with the troupe.

Show manager Eric Williams conceded this, but told reporters:

"Out here in the provinces the audiences won't come to the theatre unless you give them nudes."

For the time being, Williams and the girls compromised on a wisp here and a wisp there.

Million-to-One Jackpot Chance In British Draw

Bond Lottery Odds Beat Football Pools

LONDON (CP)—Chances of hitting the £1,000 jackpot in Britain's proposed new savings plan work out to nearly 1,000,000 to 1. Mathematical minds, studying the "can't lose" premium bond scheme announced by Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan in his budget speech Tuesday, give those odds against an individual investor winning one of the big prizes in the state-run draws, scheduled to be held quarterly.

They figured the odds on the basis of the amount which will be available in the pool, accruing from the four-per-cent interest on the £1 stakes.

The treasury concedes the calculation to be about right, but notes that the chance of winning a big prize on the football pools, which attract some 7,000,000 speculators weekly, is twice as remote. The odds there are about 2,000,000 to 1.

TAX-FREE PRIZE

The scheme works like this: You invest a pound in a bond. It draws no interest, and you can get it back when you wish. If you let it stand, it will qualify after a period for prizes in a quarterly draw, the maximum tax-free dividend being £1,000.

Similar bond-loan plans have been operated in Sweden, Belgium, Germany, Norway and Italy. Sweden claims to have been first in the field with an anti-inflationary loan in 1918.

The British counterpart may not start working until 1957. Experts have not yet started work on the detailed arrangements, and postal authorities will have to find offices and recruit staff to handle the draws.

Advised that interest in the scheme had been expressed in Canada, the official said that superficially there will be nothing to prevent Canadians from buying premium bonds, since they can buy national savings certificates.

MONEY TRANSFER HITCH

The hitch is the difficulty of transferring capital from Britain to dollar countries. For this reason the plan is likely to be most attractive to Canadians with a special reason for visiting Britain—British war brides, emigrants and the like.

Canadians who want to come back for a visit may well be drawn by the idea of having a "nest egg" awaiting them in Britain. Alternatively, winnings could be used to pay their way over, since payment in sterling can be arranged by travel agencies.

And some day it may be easy for Canadians to transfer money from Britain to Canada.

"Our aim is to remove these barriers, and we are always working toward that objective," the treasury official said.

Double Scotch

LONDON (Reuters)—A Labor member of Parliament suggested Tuesday that Britain double the price of Scotch whisky exported to the United States because it was "only a snob drink." Labor MP Richard R. Stokes said Scotch whisky exports to the U.S. only accounted for 2½ per cent of the 300,000,000 gallons of whisky a year drunk there.

MODERN MARCO POLO—Movie producer Dino de Laurentiis has announced in Rome he wants to make a movie star out of Ernest Hemingway. If plans work out he plans to take the 56-year-old author-adventurer to Red China where he served as a war correspondent in 1942. "What we want to do is retrace the Journey Marco Polo made to China nearly 700 years ago," the producer said.

Won't Be Fingerprinted

LONDON (AP)—Moscow radio Tuesday night said a group of Soviet war veterans have rejected an invitation to visit the United States rather than submit to being fingerprinted for U.S. visas. The broadcast said the veterans were to be the guests of their American opposites at the 11th anniversary of the linking up of the two armies at the Elbe river.

OLDEST GRAD COLLECTS

OGUNQUIT, Maine (AP)—Harvard's oldest graduate has outlived his insurance policy at the age of 96, and has collected. He is Lieut.-Cmdr. John W. Baker (ret.), a graduate of Harvard Medical School in 1881.

ARTISTIC PERFORMANCE

Jockey Boots Home $64,000 Winner

NEW YORK (UP)—A 35-year-old jockey with a passion for art won the top prize of $64,000 on a television program Tuesday night.

Bill Pearson, of Pasadena, Calif., breezed into the big money by identifying six great paintings, the artists who painted them and one teacher with whom each of the artists studied.

Mrs. Ida Mae Sherburne, 76, of Nicholasville, Ky., who last week answered the $16,000 question on her chosen subject of horse racing, chose last night to take the $16,000 she has won. She had the option of taking the money or trying for the $32,000 question.

The paintings, artists and teachers Pearson identified were:

1. Erasmus, by Hans Holbein
2. Pope Innocent X, by Velazquez, who studied with Herrera.
3. Madame Charpentier and her children, by Renoir, who studied with Couture.
4. Charles I, by Van Dyck, who studied with Rubens.
5. The Wyndham Sisters, by John Singer Sargent, who studied with Carolus-Duran.
6. Don Manuel Osario de Zuniga, by Goya, who studied with his father and with Jose Luzan Martinez.

Car Driver Fined, Licence Lifted

Fine of $35 or five days in jail and a licence suspension was imposed in city police court Tuesday on William E. Hook, 1711 Davie, when he pleaded guilty to a careless driving charge.

Hook was involved in a two-car collision at Bay and Shelbourne when he failed to stop for a stop sign on Bay, March 5, police said.

Total damages were $225.

Charlottetown, capital of Prince Edward Island, was so named in 1768 in honor of Queen Charlotte, consort of George III.

A FAMOUS PLAYERS THEATRE

It's his birthday, but it's your present!

The birthday—The Bank of Nova Scotia's

Personal Security Program now 2 years old!

The present—P.S.P. broadens coverage to bring its benefits to even more Canadians!

TWO YEARS AGO, the fellow who couldn't save a nickel, whose bank book was flatter than a sliced dime discovered PSP—and told other Canadians about it. Since then, more and more Canadians have come to The Bank of Nova Scotia to take advantage of this exclusive program that makes saving so much easier, surer, more regular.

You just decide to make a small monthly instalment in your PSP account. And here's the real pay-off. There's a guarantee. If you were to die the beneficiary would get the full amount of your savings-goal—even if you'd only made one payment.

And now, PSP broadens its scope. The age limit for participants in the program goes up from 46 to 51. Learn all about this easier way to save; ask at your nearest BNS branch.

I'm only 2 years old, but already I've made a lot of friends!

A young man of school worked in his father's business. His father suggested he open a PSP account for $1,000. Payments of $20 monthly, have reached $500. When he graduates his PSP savings will buy him a partnership in his father's business.

A homeowner who wanted more insurance plus funds to retire the second mortgage on his house, took out a PSP account for $1,000. He paid after making a few payments. With the insurance on his PSP account his widow was able to pay the mortgage in full.

Two young service station operators with limited capital opened PSP accounts for $1,000 each, naming each other as beneficiaries, to give themselves some protection, and also to save towards buying new stations. Already, there is $480 in each account.

An eleven-year old schoolboy with a paper route is paying $5 monthly into a $250 PSP account. He figures on helping his widowed mother to put him through school. He has since opened another account of $100, as a start towards funds for University.

A widow who goes out to work was constantly worried by the apparent impossibility of providing sufficient funds to educate her 11-year old son. Friends told her about PSP. She is now its strong supporter, since savings by monthly instalments solves her problem.

An immigrant husband and wife, who arrived 2 years ago from Germany, decided that a systematic savings represented their only hope of financing a trip to see their parents. They chose a $1,000 PSP account, paying $20 monthly, and their objective is in sight.

SAN FRANCISCO REMEMBERS 'QUAKE

452 Died 50 Years Ago Today City Burned 3 Days, 2 Nights

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A five-day festival of progress began today at 5:12 a.m.—exactly half a century after the start of the worst disaster ever to strike an American city.

It was at that minute on April 18, 1906, that a great earthquake shook the city of San Francisco. Even before the tremors subsided tongues of flame began finishing the destruction that the quake had begun.

The fire raged for three days and two nights, and when it was over the heart of the Queen City of the west was in ruins.

Today, 50 years afterward, San Francisco is celebrating its rebirth. Survivors of the disaster gathered at 5:12 a.m. at the Market Street landmark, Lotta's Fountain, to hear an invocation and lay a wreath in memory of the 452 persons who lost their lives.

BIG PARADE
A round of luncheons and banquets were scheduled for the next four days and the celebration will be climaxed Sunday by a huge parade.

Even to a world familiar with mass destruction—the bombing raids of the Second World War —the extent of the San Francisco disaster of 1906 is impressive. The total loss was estimated at nearly $500,000,000. The quake and fire wiped out 508 blocks and destroyed 28,000 buildings. Close to 200,000 persons were left homeless.

The earthquake came from the San Andreas fault, a 270-mile crack in the earth's structure running along the coast of California and passing the Golden Gate a few miles out to sea. Massive tension mounted along the fault line until the breaking point came.

CARUSO THERE
Enrico Caruso, the great Italian tenor, had sung in "Carmen" at the Opera House the night before. It was his first—and last—visit to San Francisco.

"I wake up about 5 o'clock feeling my bed rocking as though I am in a ship on the ocean," Caruso wrote later, "and for the moment I think I am dreaming that I am crossing the water on my way to my beautiful country."

"And so I take no notice for the moment, and then, as the rocking continues, I get up and go to the window, raise the shade and look out. And what I see makes me tremble with fear. I see the buildings toppling over, big pieces of masonry falling and from the street below I hear the cries and screams of men and women and children."

The shock brought thousands of people streaming into streets. Many were killed by falling cornices but the early hour undoubtedly kept the death toll lower than it might have been if the streets were crowded.

STREETS SUNK
Flimsy frame buildings collapsed, streets sunk five feet in some places and cable car tracks were torn from their beds and twisted like snakes. Most ominous of all, however, were the flickering flames that began to curl out of the rubble.

Since water mains had been fractured by the shock, firemen had to dynamite buildings and start backfires in their efforts to halt the flames. Martial law was declared. Refugees fled westward to Golden Gate Park and swarmed in all types of boats across the bay to Oakland.

Wary firemen finally lined up at Van Ness Avenue for a last stand. Backfires built along the east side of that wide thoroughfare proved the turning point in the battle. The fire stopped at Van Ness Avenue.

Creek Flood Drowns Two Curious Boys

EDMONTON (CP)—A tiny creek with a violent spring temper claimed the lives of two seven-year-old boys Tuesday—the first victims of the 1956 flood season in western Canada.

Police said Peter Burmeister and Herman Henning were drowned in Mill Creek which runs through the south side of Edmonton.

While two companions watched, the Burmeister boy slipped down the bank of the swiftly-flowing stream. The Henning lad grabbed his companion's hand and then both fell forward into the water.

The four boys, on their way home from school, went to watch the rushing current of the creek, said by old-timers to be at its highest in half a century.

The body of young Henning was found three hours after the incident. Hundreds of searchers continued to look for the body of the other youngster.

Sex Deviate Jailed
NANAIMO (CP)—A five-year penitentiary term plus a period of "preventive detention" was imposed on a convicted sex deviate who attacked a 12-year-old boy here Tuesday.

Judge Arnold L. Hanna said Donald R. Ladret, 27, of Union Bay, came within the definition of a criminal sexual psychopath.

Action Started To Regain Jehovah Boy

TORONTO (BUP)—A lawyer for the Jehovah's Witnesses religious sect said today he had filed an application for a writ of habeas corpus asking for the release of seven-year-old Paul Leatherdale from custody of the St. Thomas Children's Aid Society.

Glen How, legal expert with the Watch Tower Tract and Bible Society, said the case would be heard in a Toronto court today.

The case stems from the accidental shooting last Tuesday of young Paul, son of a Fingal district farmer who is a Jehovah's Witness.

The father, Alvin Leatherdale, refused to allow doctors in St. Thomas to give his son a blood transfusion, although doctors said he needed one to survive.

The boy was shot in the stomach by his nine-year-old brother, Ray, when they were playing with an automatic pistol they found in their farm home.

The father objected to the transfusion on religious grounds.

However, a St. Thomas magistrate issued a court order making the boy a ward of the Children's Aid Society. That cleared the way for blood transfusions, given last Wednesday night. The child has been slowly recovering but his condition was reported still serious.

New Type of River Boat Developed by Russians

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet river fleet ministry has announced it has developed a "winged boat" which skims along at about 37 miles an hour with its hull 10 feet above the water surface.

Two Die in Fire
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Flames roared through the St. George hotel today, killing two guests, injuring 22 others and driving others through windows and down ladders into the early morning darkness.

Carl Kruger, head of the arson squad, said he has "reason to believe" the fire was set.

Will Buy U.S. Wheat
NEW DELHI (AP)—New Delhi and Washington have reached an advanced stage in informal talks for the purchase by India of 1,000,000 tons of surplus American wheat, valued at more than $60,000,000, Indian sources said today.

BURNABY (CP)—Thieves escaped with a small arsenal from a north Burnaby sporting goods store Tuesday night. Stolen were two rifles, a shotgun, two air pistols, eight boxes of .22-calibre ammunition, and $70 in cash.

Soviets Enlarge Submarine Fleet

BONN (AP)—The Soviet Union is increasing its fleet of 400 submarines by about 85 new underwater craft a year, U.S. Admiral Jerauld Wright said today.

The supreme Allied commander, Atlantic, told a press conference: "There is no reason to believe that they (the Russian submarines) are not first-class ships. They are all fully manned. None is in mothballs."

There are more than 1,000 launches in Lake Nipigon in the Thunder Bay area of northwestern Ontario.

NOTICE
Sealed tenders will be received by the Deputy Minister of Lands not later than 12 o'clock noon, April 25, 1956, to supply, maintain and operate one rotary wing aircraft (helicopter) in Topographic Survey work for the Survey and Mapping Branch during June, July, August and September of the summer of 1956.

Tenders should be based upon specifications available from the Topographic Division, Survey and Mapping Branch, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C.

Tenders must be submitted in an envelope marked "Tender for Survey and Mapping Branch Helicopter Contract." The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

WILL TRY AGAIN
Said Ben, glistening and dripping with grease and water in the strong sunlight aboard Teller's schooner Black Dog:

"I'll be ready to go when they decide the next good tide."

Laughren weighed 24 pounds before entering the water. He has trained up to six hours a day regularly since the new year began, and was in excellent condition when he climbed aboard the Black Dog.

The tide he needed should have taken him within a few miles of Ediz Hook. The flood tide was figured to take him in from there.

Any progress he made was due to his own 28-34 strokes a minute and a slight tide spurt on the fringe of a back-eddy encountered about 8 a.m.

Teller employed a unique system for spotting tidal fluctuation. Fifteen-year-old Ron Page, Fisherman's Wharf, dropped bright yellow plastic gill net floats ahead of the Black Dog in line with the course and spaced about 200 yards apart.

Navigational "takes" were judged by their drift. Floats were reset every half hour.

Swim spectator Bert Thomas, last year's south-north victory over the Strait, arrived in an outboard runabout at 8:40 on a day's fishing outing with his wife, Marion, from Port Angeles.

He said he would make his next try to swim from Seattle to Tacoma, his home, May 11, then come back to Victoria for an attempt to swim to Port Angeles.

MORE NEWSPRINT
MONTREAL (CP)—Canadian newsprint production climbed to 6,190,647 tons in 1955 from 5,984,207 tons for the previous year, as the industry operated at 102.1 per cent of rated capacity.

How to Shrink Your Swollen, Painful Piles without ointments, pile pipes or suppositories

Here is a nice, clean, easy way to shrink or reduce swollen, painful piles without the inconvenience of ointments, pile pipes or suppositories.
The secret is in taking just one small Hem-Roid Tablet, with water, two or three times a day. By effective INTERNAL action this mild but gently persistent medicine eases constipation, helps break up and smoothly pass off hardened intestinal waste, relieves itching, soreness and pain, helps shrink piles and permits them to heal. NEW STRIDE from JOHNSON'S WAX
A self-polishing floor wax that...Protects like Paste Wax!

SPILL ON IT, SPLASH ON IT, PUNISH IT — JUST AN EASY ONCE-OVER RESTORES THE LUSTRE, WITHOUT RE-WAXING!

JOHNSON'S STRIDE takes it like paste wax. Now from the Johnson's Wax Laboratories comes Stride—an entirely new kind of liquid self-polishing wax that actually protects like paste wax. It contains the hardest, brightest, longest-lasting waxes known! Just spread Stride on—it dries to the same kind of rich, mellow lustre paste wax gives. And from then on, spills wipe away without a trace, even if left for hours. A little buffing erases scuff marks when they begin to show. Your usual damp mopping actually brightens the lustre. You wax less often—that's why Stride is the most economical floor wax you can use! There never was a self-polishing wax like Stride before. Try it! See the difference!

Giant Grizzly Kills Two In Alaska

Bodies Recovered
At Grim Scene

TAZLINA GLACIER LODGE, Alaska (AP)—A giant grizzly bear, disturbed in hibernation, Monday charged from a cave and killed two hunters. The accident occurred near Snowshoe Lake at Mile 130 on the Glenn highway.

According to territorial police the dead men are Everett A. Kendall, 53, and Lloyd L. Pennington, 56, a registered guide. The giant grizzly bear apparently charged from the cave and mauled Pennington before he could fire a shot.

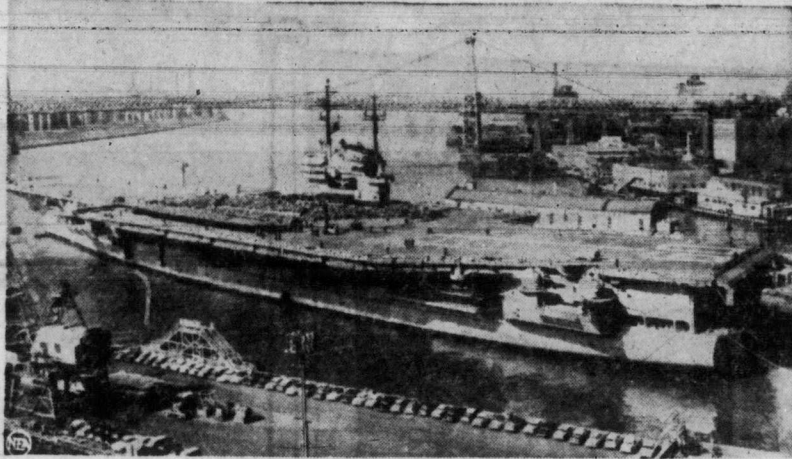

Kendall was apparently able to fire at least one shot at the bear before the giant grizzly turned on him and killed him.

A trail of blood led from the scene of the tragedy into the woods, indicating that the wounded grizzly had fled from the cave area.

According to Whitey Faesler, another registered guide in this area, Pennington had sighted the grizzly just outside the cave while flying over the area several days ago. Realizing that the bear was coming to an end of his winter hibernation, he decided to trap the bear in the cave before he abandoned it for the summer.

Kendall joined Pennington on the expedition. They landed their light plane near the cave. Faesler said that apparently the two men walked up to the cave entrance to peer in and that suddenly the grizzly charged them.

Both of the badly mauled bodies were brought to Tazlina Glacier Lodge by a party of 10 men Tuesday.

WORLD'S LARGEST BATTLESHIP COMMISSIONED

With officers and men thronging its flight deck, the aircraft carrier USS Saratoga sails past the Williamsburg Bridge Saturday after joining the navy officially in commissioning ceremonies at the New York Naval Shipyard. The 60,000-ton vessel is a sister ship of the USS Forrester. They are the world's largest battleships and are now both part of the active U.S. fleet.

'Mystery Rifleman' Testifies at Trial

VANCOUVER (CP)—A "mystery rifleman" seen Dec. 7, 1955, at the scene of the gun-slaying of Constable Gordon Sinclair, told his story in British Columbia Supreme Court Tuesday.

Gordon Goll testified he left his house near the slaying scene, carrying a hunting rifle which he had borrowed and was returning.

He was testifying at the trial of Joseph Gordon and James Carey. A previous witness said he had seen a "mystery rifleman "walk past his car shortly before shot rang out.

Goll said he saw a parked convertible with a man and woman inside, and described how he saw two men walking near the slaying scene.

The parked convertible went past him "at a high rate of speed," he said and later he noticed another car, parked on the wrong side of the road.

"I noticed the headlights were on and the driver's door was open. A policeman was lying on the ground, his cap on the sidewalk. His head was in the gutter."

MORAL ISSUE SEEN

Ottawa Skeptical Of State-Draw Idea

OTTAWA (BUP)—Canadian officials viewed Britain's proposed savings draw with some scepticism today. Most were surprised. Some had doubts whether the plan would boost savings, while others said there was a moral issue involved.

The savings draw, in which lucky bond holders could win as much as $2,800, was announced by Chancellor of the Exchequer Harold Macmillan in his anti-inflation budget yesterday.

The government here has long frowned on any form of state lotteries as a means of raising money and lowering taxes. One official pointed out that the British plan was open to abuse because the public could buy bonds just before a draw and then cash them immediately after.

In Montreal, the tabloid Herald headlined an editorial on the British budget "Britain Recruits Fickle Goddess."

"As far as Britain is concerned the main thing which recruiting of the goddess chance into the bond-selling service indicates is the present government's grim determination to re-establish the nation's finances on a sound foundation," the Herald said. "The fight is proving a long and hard one—hard for taxpayers

PIN-WORMS MAY BE A FAMILY AFFAIR

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms... only parasites that medical experts say infect one out of every three persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it. First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—killing Pin-Worms quickly and easily. Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge... the small, easy-to-take tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. STUART SPEECH STILL BURNS

Liberals Used Ambassador As 'Tool', Fulton Charges

OTTAWA (BUP)—Conservative and CCF party spokesmen said today they would continue to urge the government for official comment on U.S. Ambassador R. Douglas Stuart's speech in which he took "emotional" criticism of American investment in Canada to task.

External Affairs Minister Lester B. Pearson came under direct pressure Tuesday to make a public statement. One Liberal—Tom Goode of Burnaby-Richmond, a Vancouver riding—joined in the opposition demands.

Conservative party sources said they would raise the issue again when the House met today. Their opening will come during the daily question period. E. Davie Fulton (PC, Kamloops) took advantage of the wide-open budget debate to deliver the Tories' most scathing attack yet on Stuart's Vancouver Canadian Club speech Monday.

The theme of Stuart's controversial speech, in which he indirectly rapped Tory Leader George Drew, was that too much emotionalism and not enough logic highlighted Canadian criticism of U.S. investment

Grace 'Numb' After Rites

Ex-Bricklayer's Daughter
Now 'Her Serene Highness'

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

MONACO (UP)—Grace Kelly murmured "oui" with tears in her eyes today and became the wife and princess of a monarch so shy he gave her his kingdom without a kiss.

In the ancient crimson throne room of a castle on the cliffs above the Mediterranean, she sat beside Prince Rainier III and gravely took her solemn civil vows of marriage under the laws of his state and tradition of his dynasty.

She blinked her shining eyes and clasped her hands while Judge Marcel Portanier said in French: "Mademoiselle Grace Patricia Kelly, do you take as your husband His Serene Highness, My Lord Prince Rainier III, here present."

Her chiseled chin tipped up and she murmured "oui."

The judge turned then to Rainier whose fingers fidgeted tensely in his lap.

"Oui," the prince replied in a low but steady voice.

At that moment (2 a.m. Victoria time) the bricklayer's daughter from Philadelphia who became first lady of Hollywood ascended to old world royalty with titled rank and realm.

"I pronounce Your Serene Highness united by the bonds of marriage," said the judge in the first usage of Grace Kelly's royal title.

The newlyweds stole a shy

Teen-Agers Stage Walk-Out

School Principal, Teachers Defied

NANAIMO—Close to 250 Nanaimo High School students left their classrooms in a protest action today and refused to return until promised a hearing by the District 68 School Board.

They complained of lack of co-operation by the school staff in school activities such as sports and band operation.

Led by Brian Kayne, spokesman, they left their classrooms at 10:30 a.m. Ordered by J. B. Litch, principal, to return to their classes, they refused until three trustees came to the school and promised a hearing at a school board meeting to-night at 7:30.

Mr. Litch told the Times the students leading the demonstration do not represent the majority of the student body. (The school has 600 students.)

BEHIND IN WORK

"They said they would like to see changes made in the conduct of extra-curricular activities, but instead of going through normal channels they staged a demonstration," he said.

"Some of these students are behind scholastically, and others had been urged recently to improve their work," he said.

They have asked for an investigation of extra-curricular activities, and I would welcome the fullest check possible."

Mr. Litch has been at the school for 24 years, most of them as principal.

For 30 minutes the students stood in the school grounds in defiance of orders to return to classes. They did not move when Mr. Litch told them they would accomplish their objective faster by returning to classes.

School board chairman Jack Rayer, and trustees Mrs. W. E. Ricker and Matthew Martin, called at the school grounds in person. Mr. Rayer said the board of trustees would give a group of from three to five students a hearing at the regular meeting of the board this evening.

In addition to other complaints, the students said some had been asked to leave school, and others had been "restricted" in their work.

BOO PRINCIPAL

They disagreed when Mr. Litch said "my office door is always open," and they booed when he said "we always have been interested in extra-curricular activities."

Students said that only recently a party of 20 of them came to Victoria to see provincial authorities regarding their complaints about the school.

Spokesman Brian Kayne said that after they had left Nanaimo someone "at the school" had telephoned Victoria to say they were coming, and that as a result they were able to see no one.

Kayne said the principal had been "trying to get me out of the school."

"I've gone to his office several times to protest lack of co-operation, and was not listened to," he said. "What it amounted to was him putting me in a chair and calling me names."

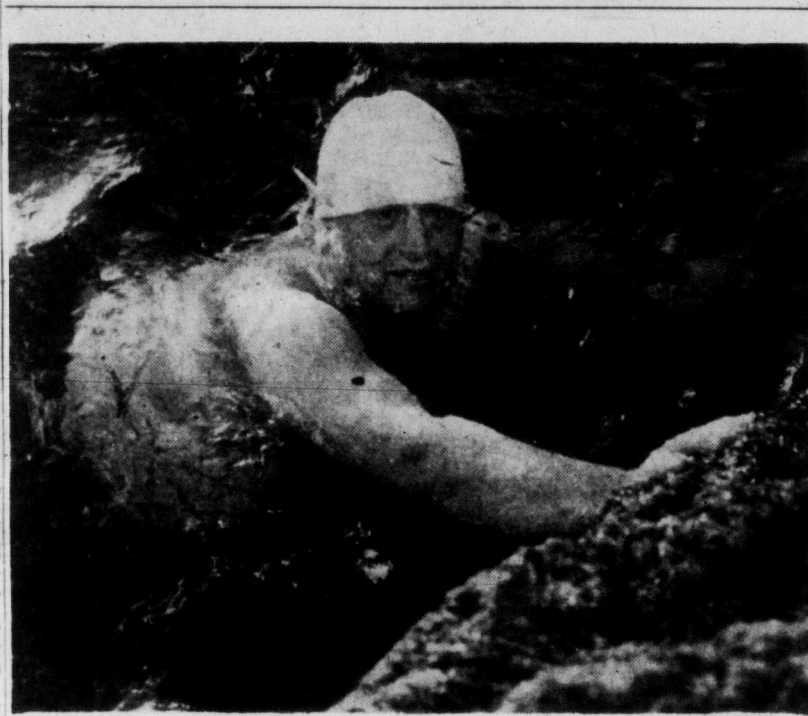

Witnesses said about 100 students left the school in a body, and others came in smaller groups as word of the demonstration spread. Over the grounds was a banner reading: "Students of Nanaimo High Protest Lack of Co-Operation."

Mixed London Welcome For Communist Leaders

Big Ben Quits Strait Try After 4 Hours in Water

By AB KENT

Big Ben Laughren's first try to swim to Port Angeles ended at 10:17 this morning when he pulled himself from shimmering, dead-calm water 2½ miles south of Discovery Island.

It was the season's first swim attempt on the Strait and was halted because an expected ebb tide failed to materialize.

The swimming cook was in the water four hours, 25 minutes from the time he shoved off Gonzales Point at 5:52 a.m., and struggled most of the distance in tideless, 43-degree water.

A conference between Laughren, trainer Ove Witt and navigator Bill Tellier was to decide this afternoon whether a second try would be launched "possibly Sunday or Monday."

Tellier had counted on a strong ebb tide to carry Laughren away from Gonzales Point, around the south tip of Trial Island and down the Strait of Juan de Fuca toward Angeles Point.

It never materialized.

Rather than tire the swimmer unnecessarily by making the attempt into a long practice swim, his managers decided to forego the marathon.

There was no possible chance of getting across the 18.3-mile body of water today, according to Tellier's calculations.

"Ben needs a couple of days' rest anyway," said Witt, adding.

KING COLE ATTACKERS GIVEN SIX MONTHS' JAIL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Judge Ralph Parker today convicted three white citizens' council members of attacking Negro singer Nat King Cole and ordered them jailed for maximum terms of 180 days for assault.

Parker sentenced a fourth white man, Jesse Mabry, 43, associate editor of a citizens' council publication, to 180 days for conspiring to commit a breach of the peace and disorderly conduct.

At the same time, Parker commended the conduct of Cole "at the scene of the difficulty and since then."

"He has displayed an understanding of our customs and traditions," Parker said. He noted Cole is a Montgomery, Ala., native and added that the entertainer "conducted himself in a way to earn respect of his white friends."

Used 't' be th' tides that defeated Strait contenders. Now it's lack of 'em. 'Pears nothin' kin stop them swimmers.

Anti-Reds Arrested By Security Guards

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev arrived by train in London today to mixed cheers and boos from a crowd under close police surveillance.

Despite some taunting banners and scores of anti-Communist pamphlets handed out to the crowd, the attitude of most spectators was good-natured curiosity.

Four persons were arrested by London police carrying out super-security arrangements protecting the Soviet leaders.

Taken into custody was Jacques Sallebert, London correspondent of the French national radio and television service.

He was arrested at Claridge Hotel by a suspicious policeman. He was held for an hour and released on bail to appear Thursday on charges of obstruction.

Nicholas Tolstoy, 20-year-old schoolteacher, John Jordan, 32, and Leslie Margaret Green, 30, were arrested outside Victoria station where the Russians arrived. They were charged with using insulting words and behavior.

The Communist party newspaper carried a 700-word official statement on page three announcing the termination of the international Communist bureau because it had "exhausted its function."

IMPORTANT TALKS

After Prime Minister Eden greeted the visitors at Victoria station, Bulganin delivered a statement calling for better East-West relations and "wider, reciprocal economic ties" with Britain.

The Russian leaders landed this morning from the cruiser Ordzhonikidze "at the south coast naval base of Portsmouth for a 10-day visit."

Eden expressed the hope that his "important conversations" with the visitors would help improve Anglo-Soviet relations and world peace.

Bulganin then reached into an inside pocket and read his statement in Russian. A Russian interpreter translated and the group then moved off to Claridge Hotel, one of London's swankiest, where Bulganin and Khrushchev will stay.

FIRECRACKER EXPLODES.

During the wait at the station, an explosion sent police running down an alley nearby. It was a firecracker.

On the way to the hotel, some spectators waved papers and flags. Two students stood on the sidewalk with a banner declaring: "We Want Grace Kelly."

There were one or two scuffles among the crowds along the route but no serious incidents. British police have imposed every possible security measure to protect the Soviet leaders while they are here. There has been considerable agitation against their visit, particularly among refugees from eastern Europe.

In Coventry today, many of the city's exiles from Iron Curies.

RAILWAY DECISION SOON

MONTREAL (UP)—The nation's two major railroads, the Canadian Pacific and the Canadian National, stated jointly today that wage increases and fringe benefits recommended by a conciliation board would cost them $80,000,000 a year and would "so damage the competitive position of the railways as to make itself defeating." But they said no final decision would be made for "a few days." (See page 2.)

Everest Thrills Top Antarctic—Hillary

VANCOUVER (CP)—The vast Antarctic, newest project of Sir Edmund Hillary, is not as exciting as the Himalayas, the conqueror of Mount Everest said Tuesday.

In Vancouver briefly on a round-about trip from the Southern Polar wastes to his New Zealand home, Sir Edmund is planning the first continental crossing of the Antarctic.

"We didn't do much this last trip, but we finished what we set out to do," he said. "We established our base camp at Vanshel Bay."

TO PICK MEN

In New Zealand Sir Edmund, knighted for his 1953 conquest of Mount Everest, will select men for the Antarctic assault.

The base camp, Shackleton, was named after Sir Ernest Shackleton, who made an expedition to the South Pole in 1908.

On his return from the trip into the Antarctic Sir Edmund was trapped for a month aboard the Canadian sealer Theron when it became ice-locked.

THREE YEARS

The main trip across the ice cap will take about three years, he said, mostly in mapping and

VICTORIAN AT 'THE WEDDING'

Weeping, Cheering On Monaco Streets

By NORMA MACDONALD

MONACO—The scene in this story-book principality of Monaco is one of indescribable beauty. The streets are filled with cheering, happy people. It is the biggest moment in their lives—past, present and future—and they are making the most of it. Their beloved prince has taken unto himself a wife.

"There will be babies," a little old woman says, with tears streaming down her seamed and wrinkled face and melting into the strings of her gay bonnet.

"Babies," echoed a dashing young man with an equally attractive woman on his arm. He gripped the little old lady by the arm and, as a threesome, they danced off into the crowd.

To the Monagueses the "babies" are very important. For if Prince Rainier and Princess Grace do not have children then, according to a 1918 treaty, Monaco becomes French.

ATTRACTED THOUSANDS

That is why this marriage is such a big event in Monaco.

The civil ceremony today and all the entertainment surrounding it may have attracted thousands of tourists but it has been planned for Prince Rainier's Monagueses subjects and for them alone. The people know it and while they are considerate to visitors, as hosts and hostesses would be, they are preoccupied with their own affairs and their own participation in the long celebrations that end with the religious ceremony on Thursday.

Actually the couple are married now according to law, but for the church they will not be wed "in the eyes of God" until the church rites.

I'm told there was no special reason why both civil and religious ceremonies could not have been held the same day, as they often are, but because this marriage is of such significance to Monaco, they were planned for the two days.

I watched the wedding-evening ceremonies, which included a lavish display of fireworks in the harbor, from my hotel room balcony. It was wonderful to see the lights glittering on the water and on the British, French and American battleships that are riding at anchor. Immediately below my window is the fabulous Onassis yacht and Prince Rainier's slightly smaller one. In the background was the palace, simply shining with lights.

During the fireworks display the prince and Grace stood spotlighted in a central palace window. Below them, the courtyard was packed with their subjects, tourists, camera men, newspaper men and visiting sailors.

Mid-afternoon Tuesday, a group of little French girls went to the palace to present a huge floral wreath and a dove to the princess-to-be. Grace wore her favorite color, blue, in a light billowy tulle.

The weather has been grey and cloudy, and rain still threatens. But just as Prince Rainier and Princess Grace stepped out on the balcony following the civil ceremony, the sun came out for the first time today.

The Monagueses screamed with excitement. "A good omen... a good omen," is what they said. And, somehow, as I looked at the young prince and his beautiful bride, I hope they are right.

Broadcasting Probe Will Open April 30

OTTAWA (CP)—The royal commission on broadcasting will open its public hearings April 30, chairman R. M. Fowler announced today.

Hearings will be held throughout Canada during May, June and September.

Ike's Veto Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House of Representatives today upheld President Eisenhower's veto of the catch-all farm bill. A motion to override the veto was defeated 211 to 202, far short of the two-thirds majority needed to send the bill back to the White House.

IN PARLIAMENT

Long Debate Ends As Budget Approved

(From Times News Services)

After a last-minute flurry of Opposition criticisms and suggestions, the House has approved the 1956-57 federal budget outlined March 20 by Finance Minister Harris.

The budget, which aims at ending the current fiscal year with a $113,000,000 surplus and offers only certain sales and excise tax changes worth about $12,000,000, was in effect given approval Tuesday night by a vote of 140 to 89.

The three Opposition parties and the two Independent members in the House at the time—Ross Thatcher (Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) and Raoul Poulin (Beauce)—opposed the Liberals.

The vote, ending the eight-day budget debate, left the House free to begin consideration today of legislation ratifying the trade agreement between Canada and Russia, signed here Feb. 23.

The three-year pact, under which Russia agreed to buy at least 44,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat within the treaty's span, must be ratified within 90 days of its signing.

As the budget debate closed,

members came up with several suggestions and criticisms.

Davie Fulton (PC, Kamloops) and G. H. Castleden (CCF, Yorkton) led criticism of government policy which they said is allowing American control of the Canadian economy to grow.

Mr. Fulton said he finds no quarrel with the need for outside capital investments to help develop Canadian industry and natural resources.

However, control of these sections of the economy should remain in Canadian hands, not pass to American interests.

He called on the government to take immediate specific steps to halt the trend, steps that would be within Canadian jurisdiction and proper to Canadian political integrity and independence.

"We wish to see action taken so that the development of Canada can remain under Canadian control and be carried on in the interests of Canada generally," Mr. Fulton said.

Sabotage Canadian Development

A. B. Patterson (SC, Fraser Valley) in turn criticized their disapproval of growing American investment in Canada.

This anti-American attitude, he said, might have the effect of sabotaging Canadian development. If Canadians were hesitant in investing their money and the government refused to adopt policies to ensure proper development, "then we should be prepared to welcome foreign capital into Canada."

Jean-Paul St. Laurent, son of the prime minister, took the opportunity of making his maiden speech. He was elected member for Temiscouata in a by-election last September.

He made no attempt to reply to a speech earlier this session by J. Wilfrid Dufresne (PC, Quebec West), who described the young Mr. St. Laurent as a spoiled child who won election with "childish sayings" about his influence with his father. Jean-Paul dismissed Mr. Dufresne's remarks as "garbage."

Transport Minister George Marler said Tuesday the government is considering financial aid for a west coast marine rescue service.

The British Columbia Towboat Owners' Association was in danger of being disbanded and asked Ottawa for assistance, Marler said.

Some representations made by the association last October already have been put into effect, and others have been passed on to other government departments.

Marler said his department had updated and improved the association's radio communication, but he pointed out that the defence department was responsible for co-ordinating rescue and search operations.

The government has lost interest in brain-washing experiments, Defence Minister Ralph Campney said Tuesday.

Some of the experiments were conducted at McGill University, Campney said in reply to a question by Davie Fulton (PC-Kamloops), but they were not followed up.

"The experiments demonstrated conclusively that purely by mental suggestion people can be reduced to a certain state of mind that you could get them to accept anything and speak of it as, the truth," he said.

"They become like members of the opposition," he added, amid howls of laughter. "They accepted anything and even believed it to be true."

CCF members Tuesday took their last shots, for the time being, at small loans companies in general and two companies in particular. The House then gave second reading—approval in principle—to two private bills chartering a new finance company and changing the name of another.

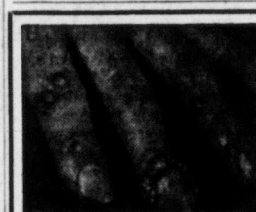

The 22-member CCF group had carried on an extended but intermittent debate on the two bills, criticizing the operations and interest rates of small loans firms.

One measure to incorporate Signature Loan and Finance Co. was given second reading on a vote of 158 to 30.

"The other bill, changing the name of Persopol Finance Co. of Canada to the Beneficial Finance Co., was given second reading on a 166-to-31 vote after the House defeated 165 to 31 a CCF motion which would have killed the measure.

REPORTERS MISTAKEN FOR RUSSIANS

Some Cheered, Some Jeered— But Most Londoners Just Stared

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—I drove through London streets today with Nikita Khrushchev and Marshal Bulganin, and shared their boos and cheers.

The crowd thought our shiny black automobile, travelling in the official convoy from Victoria station to Claridge's Hotel, carried Russian notable secret police. Instead, we were just reporters.

Our car was the seventh in the convoy. If we had been Russians, we wouldn't have known what to make of our reception. Some cheered, some waved, most just stared.

Occasionally there were boos. One small group on the sidewalk near Victoria station chanted rhythmically: "Down with communism, down with communism."

Mostly it was a triumph of British phlegm. The crowd seemed curious rather than hostile.

The angriest man we saw was Brig. Terence Clarke, a Conservative member of Parliament. He got caught in the crowd outside Claridge's.

"Hey," he cried. "I've got to get to the House of Commons. This is just an ordinary day for us."

Finally he had to make a detour to get through the crowd.

The first view the Russians had of London after getting off the train and leaving the station would have fitted any preconceived notions they may have had from reading Pravda.

As Bulganin, leading the way, came out of the station he looked up at a gloomy, five-story factory building on a street called Hudson's place. Off to the right was the skeleton structure of a new office building, a depressing sight.

It was hardly the most auspicious place to discover London's bourgeois charms.

But Bulganin and Khrushchev had no time to stand and stare. Their attention was quickly caught by Soviet officials and their wives, laden with flowers, about 20 yards to their left.

The welcoming party chanted "Zdrastvuite" which we were told means "May you be healthy." One of the women was allowed through the police lines to present a bouquet. After a few moments, we drove off.

tain countries wore black armbands and fasted in protest against the visitors.

Eden today received a spoon with a 10-foot long handle from the British League of Empire Loyalists. A league official said the group was acting on the proverb: "Who supps with the devil should use a long spoon."

No flags or bunting broke the drabness of the station but a red Soviet flag with yellow hammer and sickle was displayed outside the hotel. A Union Jack flew on either side of it.

Crowds waiting near Claridge's were handed leaflets by Latvian refugees. They said: "Be on the alert against Bulganin and Khrushchev. Treachery hides behind their smiles."

At Portsmouth, there were no cheers as the Russian cruiser carrying the Soviet leaders slid slowly to her moorings.

MONTREAL (BUP)—Union minister Milton Gregg the non-operating employees—who do not run the trains—would go along with the board's suggestions. There was no immediate reaction from the companies.

Hall said after making the committee's stand known late Tuesday, however, that it was not satisfied. He said the report was accepted "to avoid conflict and bring about stability in the industry."

Frank H. Hall, chairman of a 110-man negotiating committee acting for 17 unions, told federal labor

High Taxes Hurt Canada Top Manufacturer Charges

VANCOUVER (CP)—Present rates of both corporation and individual income taxes are unduly high for the economy generally, T. A. Rice, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, said Tuesday night in an address to the association's British Columbia division.

"In designing the taxes,"

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Commercial demand was limited and prices irregular today on the Winnipeg grain exchange.

Most export interest was in barley, where parcel lot sales to the United Kingdom were reported. Oats trade was mostly domestic. Prices for both grains held to a narrow range.

Flax and rye were irregular and generally lower.

CHICAGO

CHICAGO (AP)—Grains firmed toward the close on the board of trade today. Gains were not large and dealings slackened from the fast pace of recent sessions.

Throughout the session, new crop wheat had a firm tone, aided by continued dryness in parts of the southwest. Corn eased early on profit-taking but later made up its losses. Oats were firm all day.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market displayed a wide mixture of gains and losses today with a higher tendency in evidence in the late afternoon.

Prices covered a range of around 3 points either way, and some changes exceeded those limits.

Steels were higher as a group and railroads were ahead, while aircrafts slumped. A number of wide gainers appeared in oils, steels and railroads. Copper and chemicals had some big losers.

YELLOWKNIFE PROFIT UP

TORONTO (CP)—Net profit of Consolidated Discovery Yellowknife Mines Ltd., Canada's highest-grade gold producer, increased to $979,842, or 24.8 cents a share, in 1955 from $539,108, or 20.4 cents a share the year before, the annual report said Tuesday.

Production was a record 32,312,347 against 31,922,849.

Zellers Ltd. Earns More

MONTREAL (CP)—The annual report of Zellers Limited Tuesday showed an increase in net earnings to $1,687,591 from $1,456,555 for the previous year.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Noranda Up $2 at Toronto

TORONTO (CP)—Stock market prices moved irregularly in mid-afternoon today. There were few significant changes in the industrial list, but selected mines gained up to $2 and western oils advanced moderately.

Top gain in industrials was $4 by Canada Wire B at $108 after shareholders' approval of capital changes. Noranda, which controls Canada Wire, notched the top advance in the mining section—$2 at $64.

Algonia dropped $3.50 at $113.50 and Goodyear was off $3 at $163. International Nickel gained $1.25 but McIntyre lost $1 among the senior mines. In the medium-priced section, Consolidated Halliwell was the most active issue, trading 518,000 shares for a 20-cent gain at $3.10.

Consolidated West Pete moved up 1/4 in western oils. Triad, Merrill and Fargo improved. Husky slipped 1/4.

STRIKE THREAT LOOMS OVER GRAIN TRADE

OTTAWA (CP)—The bulk of Great Lake crews negotiating new labor contracts with ship operators want an average basic wage boost of about 45 per cent along with a company-paid health plan, federal authorities said today.

A conciliation board report by Judge Walter Little of Parry Sound, Ont., outlining recommendations on the union-management dispute that could turn into a crippling great lakes shipping strike, is expected to be received shortly by the labor department.

The Seafarers' International Union, representing the crews, is reported to be asking for a shift in the basic wage from $190 a month for deckhands to $155 an hour for a 40-hour week, boosting the average monthly pay to about $268.15—an increase of about $78.15.

Since many of the Great Lakes ships operate on a 44-hour or 45-hour week, operators also would have to pay overtime, along with health plan costs, estimated at about $32 a month for each man aboard.

Reports here are that the lake operators have rejected the union's demands, though at Fort William, a union official said there has been no breakdown in negotiations. At Winnipeg a highly-placed grain official was reported as saying Tuesday there is a "grave possibility" that a strike may take place.

It appears likely, however, that in the event the operators and unions reject the conciliation board recommendations, further federal attempts at reconciliation may be made through a new government appointee.

LONDON

LONDON (Reuters)—The budget was well received in the stock exchange today and prices went strongly ahead from the outset. Buyers for better-class industrial shares, however, found the market short.

Stores were strong with Great Universal Stores and Woolworth showing good gains. Hudson's Bay was a dull spot.

Closing prices: Babcock and Wilcox 81s 6d, Blyvoors 23s 11/4d, Bowater Paper 59s 6d, British-American Tobacco 59s 9d, British Celanese 21s 10 1/2d, Canadian Pacific 86 3/4, Hudson's Bay Co. 182s 3d (ex-dividend), off 1/2.

CANADIAN FIRM FORMS MEXICAN SUBSIDIARY

MONTREAL (CP)—Formation of a Mexican subsidiary was announced Tuesday by the Bristol Aeroplane Company of Canada Limited. The new company, primarily an engine overhaul base, will be staffed by Mexicans and a few Canadian technicians.

General manager of Bristol of Mexico is J. A. Anderson, former assistant manager of the parent company in Montreal.

STRIKE THREAT LOOMS OVER GRAIN TRADE

OTTAWA (CP)—The bulk of Great Lake crews negotiating new labor contracts with ship operators want an average basic wage boost of about 45 per cent along with a company-paid health plan, federal authorities said today.

A conciliation board report by Judge Walter Little of Parry Sound, Ont., outlining recommendations on the union-management dispute that could turn into a crippling great lakes shipping strike, is expected to be received shortly by the labor department.

STRIKE THREAT LOOMS OVER GRAIN TRADE

The Seafarers' International Union, representing the crews, is reported to be asking for a shift in the basic wage from $190 a month for deckhands to $155 an hour for a 40-hour week, boosting the average monthly pay to about $268.15—an increase of about $78.15.

Since many of the Great Lakes ships operate on a 44-hour or 45-hour week, operators also would have to pay overtime, along with health plan costs, estimated at about $32 a month for each man aboard.

Reports here are that the lake operators have rejected the union's demands, though at Fort William, a union official said there has been no breakdown in negotiations. At Winnipeg a highly-placed grain official was reported as saying Tuesday there is a "grave possibility" that a strike may take place.

It appears likely, however, that in the event the operators and unions reject the conciliation board recommendations, further federal attempts at reconciliation may be made through a new government appointee.

Crestbrook Timber Limited Launches Public Financing

VANCOUVER—Public financing of Crestbrook Timber Ltd., major lumbering industry in the East Kootenay district, is being launched today across Canada with the offering of first mortgage bonds, preferred shares totaling approximately $3 million.

Securities being marketed are: $1,000,000 in 5 per cent first mortgage bonds; $800,000 in 5 1/2 per cent preferred shares of $50 par value, and $200,000 common shares, no par value, to be marketed at $5.

Both the first mortgage bonds and preferred shares carry warrants to purchase common shares until March 15, 1962, at prices not exceeding $7.50 per share. Bondholders will receive warrants to purchase 20 common shares for each $1,000 in bonds, while holders of preferred shares will have purchase privileges of two common shares for each $50 preferred share.

Crestbrook Timber Ltd. was incorporated recently to acquire Cranbrook Sawmills Ltd. and the assets of Cranbrook Sash and Door Co. Ltd. and several important East Kootenay lumbering operations.

Profit and loss statement of these companies show a combined operating profit of $749,959 in 1955 and $656,536 average for the past five years.

On the basis of these figures, the new company anticipates ample funds to meet the bond interest of $55,000 annually and, after deducting depreciation, depletion and income taxes, to cover dividend requirements of $44,000 on the preferred shares with a substantial balance apportionable to the common shares.

97 Unhurt As Big Plane Crash Lands

Glowing Tribute Paid to Pilot

HAMILTON, Ont. (BUP) — The cool-headed flying skill of a U.S. air force pilot was credited today with saving the lives of 96 men and one woman aboard a U.S. Globemaster troop transport that made a forced belly-landing here late Tuesday.

The pilot, Capt. Jack Wofford, brought his 83-ton plane down at the Mount Hope RCAF station after two of the four engines failed on a flight from Lackbourne, Ohio, to Harmon Field, Nfld.

Canadian air force officials paid glowing tribute today to Wofford for his skilful landing. They pooh-poohed reports that there had been "hot" reaction to U.S. air force and army guards around the downed plane carrying guns.

Godfrey Scott, a reporter-photographer for the Toronto Globe and Mail, claimed American Lieut. T. Jones drew his pistol on him after he approached the Globemaster and took a picture of it.

"It is standard procedure for downed planes to be guarded, whether Canadian or American," an official said. "There will have to be an official investigation into the plane's trouble, and nothing should be disturbed."

Scott said that when he got to within 50 yards of the Globemaster Jones stopped him.

DREW PISTOL

"I walked away a short distance and took a picture," Scott said. "As I did, he advanced toward me and drew his pistol from its holster. He didn't point it at me."

Scott said he told Jones "put that away. You're not on American soil now," and Jones did so.

Canadian air force officials said the Americans were entitled, under the NATO agreement, to carry arms and to prevent unauthorized persons from investigating military aircraft that were forced down.

The 96 men and one woman, believed to be an army nurse, were en route to Newfoundland when the engine trouble developed just after the plane flew into Canada. The pilot first prepared to land at Simcoe, Ont., but finally decided to try a landing at Mount Hope.

The plane overshot the runway and smacked into soft mud at the end. It skidded for half a mile through the mud but the only damage was a broken left wing. Nobody aboard was hurt.

The 97 personnel from the plane were taken to an air force barracks. The RCAF said they would be flown to their destination as soon as possible.

Liberals In Saanich Gain Strength

Saanich Liberal Association heard a report that membership is showing "encouraging" gains, during a social meeting held at Liberal headquarters Tuesday night.

Over 50 members heard the membership report from chairman Ernie Watson. He said the membership is gradually nearing the goal set in the recently-opened provincial drive.

The meeting heard a report on the Liberal convention in Vancouver from Alex Derman. Refreshments were served under sponsorship of Mrs. J. M. McGee, assisted by her committee.

Meeting decided to hold the next regular meeting in conjunction with Esquimalt-Saanich federal Liberal Association, which holds its annual meeting May 16.

MINISTER DISCLOSES PLANS

Sommers To Sell Life Insurance

Former Social Credit lands and forests minister R. E. Somers will return to selling life insurance in the Trail area in early May.

Mr. Somers disclosed his future plans Tuesday. He said he will work out of Trail as agent for Monarch Life Assurance Co. Ltd., for which he worked part-time for 15 years before entering politics.

Mr. Somers' full-time occupation was as school teacher. His family will remain in Victoria "at least until the end of the school term."

The former minister resigned from his cabinet posts at the close of the spring legislative session, following a weeks-long attack on the government for its handling of the Sturdy-Sommers case.

Mr. Somers said in resigning that he would devote his energies to fighting the slander suit he launched against Vancouver lawyer David Sturdy.

His resignation statement also contained a flat denial he had accepted bribes during his tenure as minister, and a charge that a huge conspiracy of Liberals, cut-and-get-out loggers, and The Victoria Times was spending thousands of dollars in an attempt to discredit him personally, and to destroy forest legislation.

Winnipeg Streets Named After Famous Newsmen

WINNIPEG (CP)—A number of streets in Garden City, a new suburban housing development, have been named after early Winnipeg newspapermen.

Among the streets named are: Dafoe boulevard—After the late Dr. John W. Dafoe, editor and president of the Winnipeg Free Press.

Richardson avenue—After the late R. L. Richardson, founder of the Winnipeg Tribune.

Macklin avenue—After the late E. H. Macklin, president of the Free Press.

McCurdy street—After Wesley McCurdy, former publisher of the Tribune.

Careless Driver Pays Fine of $35

George R. Todd, 1366 Lang, was fined $35 or five days in jail and his licence was suspended when he appeared in city police court Tuesday on a careless driving charge.

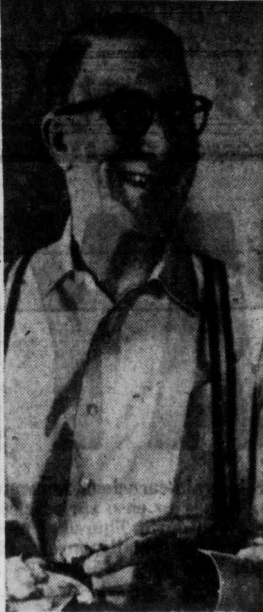

Police said Todd backed from a driveway at his home and was in collision with a car traveling west on Lang, April 1.

CORNEA GRAFT FAILS TO GIVE BOY SIGHT

MILAN, Italy (Reuters)—A cornea taken from the eye of Don Carlo Gnocchi, an Italian priest who died last month, and grafted onto the eye of a 12-year-old blind boy, Silvio Colagrande, has failed to give him back his sight.

Prof. Cesare Galeazzi, the Italian eye specialist who performed the operation seven weeks ago, said Tuesday night that the grafted cornea had lost its transparency.

He said he will try another grafting operation when the boy's health allows.

SEN. ESTES KEFAUVER

N.J. Primary Setback For Kefauver

NEWARK, N.J. (UP)—Gov. Robert B. Meyner won a near-shutout victory over Sen. Estes Kefauver in the New Jersey primary race for 36 Democratic national convention votes, returns showed today.

With over three-fourths of the state's votes counted, Kefauver was assured of one delegate with a half-vote at the Democratic national convention next August in Chicago. He had hoped to win eight to 10 votes.

In the presidential preference voting, Kefauver ran without opposition on the democratic ballot and polled 104,474 with 3,830 of the state's 4,160 election districts reported.

Adlai E. Stevenson pulled 2,850 write-in votes. President Eisenhower was uncontested on the GOP ticket.

In the state-wide race for convention delegates, Meyner's uncommitted slate defeated Kefauver by a vote of 162,166 to 68,517 with 3,147 districts reported.

Regular organization Democrats termed the outcome a setback for Kefauver, who had campaigned strenuously in what added up to a popularity contest.

50,000 Gallons Oil Threaten Water Supply

VIRIDEN, Man. (CP)—Fifty thousand gallons of crude oil swirled down a creek today toward the Assiniboine River and threatened to contaminate the water of two Manitoba cities and other smaller centres.

The oil spewed out of a break in the trans-Prairie pipeline Tuesday afternoon. The pipeline serves as a gathering system for the Viriden-Roselea oil field in southwestern Manitoba. J. G. Cowan, deputy minister of mines and natural resources, said Tuesday night that 50,000 gallons escaped before the line flow was shut off.

He said it was not known what caused the break but it was assumed that the pipe was broken by the soil shifting brought on by frost action.

MAY PASS OVER

The oil swirled into Bosshell Creek, a small stream that enters the Assiniboine a few miles northeast of Viriden, situated 200 miles west of Winnipeg.

The cities of Brandon, 60 miles east of Viriden, and Portage la Prairie get their water supply from the Assiniboine.

Mr. Cowan said it is possible the cities systems draw their supply from a low enough level to allow the oil to pass above the intakes without contaminating the supply.

He said a screen will be drawn across the top of a dam which crosses the Assiniboine at Brandon in an attempt to block—and then burn—the oil. But he held out little hope of success because the fast flow will make it difficult to contain the oil.

It was not immediately known when the oil was expected to reach Brandon.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT

In this exclusive photo, thought to be the only picture of Irish Nationalists raiding the Tate Art Gallery in London, from which a valuable painting was stolen April 12, a young man carries a bulky package down the steps of the gallery. Reginald J. Spencer, London editor of United Press Newspictures, had received a telephone call April 12 from an unknown man who said there would be an Irish demonstration outside the Tate Gallery. A photographer was assigned and a man approached him, pointed to the man in the photo and said, "Take that picture." The stranger disappeared but this photo resulted. The painting has since been returned.

FIRST U.S. IMMIGRANT

Petite Russian, 80, 'Symbol of Geneva'

BREMERTON, Wash. (AP)—Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin.

The Russian premier and Nikita Khrushchev answered promptly, she said, with a letter authorizing her to leave the Soviet Union to go to her American son.

"I received the news she could come last Christmas Day," Koster said. "I think she is the symbol of the Geneva spirit in Russia."

Mrs. Kosterava greeted her son in perfect English, which she learned to speak as a teacher of languages in the Russian city of Cherkassy, 490 miles southwest of Moscow.

When she arrived at Seattle, Mrs. Kosterava, a small woman of 81 pounds who stands only four feet eight inches high, shed tears of joy as she awaited to see immigration service officers.

Finally, unable to withhold her happiness any longer, she walked up to a bystander and said: "You are an American and I am glad to be here."

Her son said: "I have been trying to get my mother out of the Soviet Union for the last 20 years."

Mrs. Kosterava, whose sparkling eyes and smooth features belie her age, was almost overcome with happiness as she stepped from the plane into the waiting arms of her son. At the end of a long embrace she turned to the plane and said: "Goodbye my sorrows, goodbye my tears."

Last year, in a final effort to leave Russia, Mrs. Kosterava said she addressed a letter to

SIMONDS DETAILS HIS PREPAREDNESS PLAN

Every Boy in Army —In His Own Time

Compulsory military service for every Canadian between 18 and 25 years and compulsory part-time service in civil defence were urged here today by Lieut.-Gen. Guy Simonds, one of Canada's most famous soldiers of the Second World War. "Every young Canadian should have at least one year's military training," said the former chief of the Canadian General Staff, now retired, in an interview at the Empress Hotel.

"We do not need to copy the conscription methods of either Britain or the United States. We should develop our own system—and we should, at all costs, avoid the ugly word conscription which has unhappy associations in Quebec."

Lived Here

The still youngish looking soldier returned to the scenes of his boyhood—he lived in Victoria from 1912 to 1919—on a lecture tour of Canada. He addressed two Canadian Club meetings at the Empress today. He believes Canada is "woefully unprepared" either for war or for preventing war. Both manpower and industry, he says, should be organized against the danger of a thermonuclear attack.

"I do not think war is inevitable, but it is far from unlikely, and it is my conviction that we shall continue in a state of armed truce for many, many years to come."

"That, unfortunately, is the sort of world we live in, yet as a nation we are not facing up to it. There is no political leader in Canada today who will face up to the task of organizing our national manpower."

'Pussy-Footing'

"The structure of our civil defence organization is good, but there is too much pussy-footing about with volunteer services. If we were properly organized every man and woman in the country would have a card telling them what to do in a crisis."

"I would make it compulsory for every able-bodied person to take some part in civil defence work. And I would organize our industries so that they could be put on a wartime footing with as little delay as possible."

Until his appointment as chief of the General Staff, General Simonds was commandant of the Canadian Army Staff College, and prior to that, from 1946 to 1949, he was chief instructor at Britain's Imperial Defence College.

He was decorated by the governments of Canada, the United States, France, Poland, the Netherlands and Belgium for his service in the Sicilian, Northwest Europe and Scheldt campaigns.

National Survey

As a first step towards organized preparedness he recommends a national survey involving registration to determine the strength and availability of Canada's manpower.

"The organization of manpower," he said, "means allocation of the man and woman power of the nation so that we can make a really effective contribution in a crisis."

"Allocation also means the necessary training to ensure that each individual is equipped to carry out the particular role allotted to him."

"We are told that this would threaten national unity because it would be strongly resisted by French-speaking Canadians in Quebec province."

"In spite of the unhappy history of national service in that province, I do not believe the people of Quebec would resist organization if the real situation were placed before them."

Bigoted Group

"I think, too, that the reluctance on the part of French-speaking Canadians to national service is probably more the fault of what I call a bigoted group in the English-speaking population."

"This group believes that French-speaking Canadians should be molded to exactly the same form as English-speaking Canadians. If we accepted their right to be different from ourselves, I believe their resistance to national service would evaporate."

Continuing his tour of British Columbia, General Simonds leaves Victoria for Vancouver this afternoon. He will then proceed north to Prince Rupert, Prince George and Kitimat.

B.C. Gives $2,500 To Hockey Finals

Prelate Pleads For Delinquents

'Utmost Charity' Asked For Unmarried Mothers

A plea for the "utmost charity and consideration" in dealing with unmarried mothers was voiced in Victoria today by the Anglican Archbishop of British Columbia, the Most Rev. Harold E. Sexton.

He added that the illegitimacy rate in Victoria has increased 30 per cent and noted that the delinquents came from "well-placed or Christian homes as well as from 'delinquent' homes."

Delivering his charge to the 54th session of the Diocesan Synod of British Columbia (Vancouver Island), Archbishop Sexton said:

"We are told that the majority of young girls who get into trouble are of junior high school level, and seem to come from homes where there is a record of domestic instability. This is not surprising. There appear to be a considerable number of parents who neither know nor care about the whereabouts of their children at any time of the day or night."

PARENTS TO BLAME

"In cases of this kind, the parents are much more blameworthy than the children."

He pointed out that "there are always a number of unlovable and physically unattractive people whose only attitude towards the case of an unmarried mother is one of severe condemnation."

He referred to Dr. Albert Schweitzer's "pity for all living things" in a plea for compassion and understanding towards unmarried mothers.

LITTLE CONCERN

The archbishop also criticized the federal government for what he termed "little official concern" for old age pensioners.

"While the federal government seems intent on increasing the salaries of many civil servants and members of the armed forces—most of whom are already well paid, if not over-paid—there seems to be little official concern for the improved welfare of those elderly citizens who in my opinion, have prior claim for generous consideration."

Later during the synod the 200 clerical and lay delegates from parishes throughout Vancouver Island will debate a resolution calling on the federal government to boost the old age pension from $40 to $55 a month.

The archbishop in his charge also touched on racial animosities, the aged and homeless, capital punishment and cruelty to children and animals.

He praised the stand of the Anglican Church in South Africa in the apartheid dispute. He pledged church co-operation with civic groups and other religious bodies in an attempt to improve the lot of the aged and homeless. And he urged that Canada should abolish capital punishment.

BARBARISM

"Capital punishment, especially by hanging is a relic of barbarism," he declared.

The archbishop noted the large amount of "shocking cruelty" to children and animals both in Canada and in the world at large.

He suggested caning for adults apprehended of treating children cruelly and urged federal action to make the humane slaughtering of animals obligatory.

The reeve felt that a concentrated effort should be started to get more industrial and commercial construction for Saanich to take some of the tax load off home owners.

"I am sure ratepayers realize that council is faced with serious problems," he said. "We will endeavor to solve them and to keep the tax rate to a minimum."

It was his desire, he said, that ratepayers be kept informed of the activities of council so that they would understand the problems facing the municipality.

Tax Jump Indicated In Saanich

Reeve Arthur Ash today said there may be an increase in the tax rate in Saanich this year "due to circumstances beyond the control of council."

The reeve's view follows a series of committee meetings held during the past week to consider this year's estimates for public works and the civic administration.

"I don't know what the tax rate will be yet," said the reeve, "but I wish to inform ratepayers that Saanich is faced with a considerable increase in expenditures."

MAJOR CHANGE

The reeve said a major change in the management of the business affairs of the municipality "is a vital necessity."

"From the start I have made it plain that this will cost money," he said. "On the other hand it will reflect back in the coming years in savings either in actual reductions or in the obtaining of maximum value of expenditures."

The reeve added: "To be perfectly frank, Saanich has not kept its house in order with the result it is going to cost money to organize affairs on a business basis."

He said the building boom and the requests for services is posing a serious problem for Saanich council. This called for increased expenditures, he said.

COSTS, WAGES UP

In addition, he said, school costs and wages for municipal employees have gone up this year.

The reeve felt that a concentrated effort should be started to get more industrial and commercial construction for Saanich to take some of the tax load off home owners.

"I am sure ratepayers realize that council is faced with serious problems," he said. "We will endeavor to solve them and to keep the tax rate to a minimum."

It was his desire, he said, that ratepayers be kept informed of the activities of council so that they would understand the problems facing the municipality.

CHEERS FROM TUSCANY

California Tour Mogul Wants Share in Totem

An executive of the California State Automobile Association has purchased 10 shares in the world's tallest totem project, after reading about it in the Victoria Automobile Club publication.

Writing to George Warren, managing secretary of the Victoria club, C. H. A. Duke, manager of the California touring bureau, said: "On my many visits, having succumbed so completely to the charm of your lovely city, I feel it only fitting that I, too, be permitted to proudly claim partnership in your newest Island landmark."

Mr. Duke enclosed his personal cheque for $5.

The shareholders' list will be kept open until April 30. Shares may be obtained by mail, or at the main or Broad Street offices of the Times.

RADIO BOAT IN REEF GRIEF

Utility trolley-type boat of radio station CKDA got into trouble off Oak Bay golf course Tuesday running aground on Mowat reef. Falling tide left her high but she was refloated undamaged late in day and was on job for Ben Laughren Juan de Fuca swim try this morning, carrying broadcasters and newsmen covering event.

Delinquency Fight Aid Asked Here

Appointment of a juvenile probation officer for Greater Victoria was recommended to the intermunicipal committee today by city council welfare committee.

The group, chaired by Ald. Mrs. Lily Wilson, endorsed a letter received from Family and Children's Service which now does juvenile casework for the courts.

The FCS said the plan is backed by police and court authorities for prevention and follow-up work, held to be extra important due to a rise in juvenile delinquency here in the last two years.

Parks committee (chairman Ald. Robert Macmillan) referred to Capital District Improvement Commission, which the mayor says will be formed by the government either Friday or early next week, a letter calling for planning co-operation between municipalities and the commission. The letter was from V.I. chapter of the Architectural Institute of B.C. It urged fuller use by the municipalities of professional planners.

NIGHT GAMES

The parks committee heard a request from George Eade, president of Victoria United Soccer Club, asking permission for 10 night soccer games at Royal Athletic Park, May 25 to Sept. 14. Parks department head W. H. Warren felt this would infringe on baseball schedules but he was overruled by the committee.

Charge will be 15 per cent of the gate plus cost of lighting or $70 per night plus lighting, whichever is greater.

The committee heard a delegation from Highland Games Association which asked a grant to compensate for charges for park use June 28. B.C. Tri-Services sports championships will be held in conjunction. Fearing a precedent might be set the committee refused but recommended the association ask finance committee for a grant-in-aid.

A $10 fee for Junior Baseball use of Royal Athletic Park will be dropped if council approves a recommendation passed by the committee. Doug Fletcher, chairman of the sports council spoke for the under-18 players. Charges will still be made for intercity games where an admission is charged. The committee will consider waiving an outstanding debt by the league to the city for $548.

GARBAGE PLAN

Elsewhere in city hall meetings a recommendation was made Tuesday that the city consider back areas of Thetis Lake Park for a sanitary garbage fill. The plan for similar disposal in Topaz area has been unofficially abandoned due to opposition by residents there. City engineer J. C. Garnett will investigate the Thetis Lake Park area but felt it would cost more than the Topaz site and would rule out a planned savings to finance a new garbage wharf.

Public works committee completed primary cutting of estimates Tuesday afternoon with total reduction of $125,000 accomplished. Most heavily slashed were the roads and streets depreciation repair program of the engineer.

The cost-cutting supported the recent prediction of Mayor Percy Scourrah that the Victoria mill rate will remain unchanged this year.

Speeding Fine

A young driver caught racing with another car at 55 mph on Yates Street was fined in city police court today and told a three-month licence suspension would be recommended.

Barry D. Carlow, 19, 1456 Gladstone pleaded guilty to careless driving and was fined $35 or five days in jail. Magistrate Henry C. Hall said he would recommend to the motor vehicles branch that a three-month suspension be imposed.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

More adults than children attend school in Kitimat. This news was flashed to a waiting world yesterday by our Mr. Norman Cribbens, who has recently completed an expedition to that burgeoning northern community.

Mr. Cribbens takes some of the edge off the impact of his news by explaining the adults attend night school after work. But still, there is no reason why his despatch should not point the way to the shape of things to come.

It is heartening to hear about more adults than children attending school.

It will be better still when ALL adults attend school, and children don't.

It is a well known fact children do not wish to attend school.

From the time they start kicking the slates out of their cradles, children are anti-school.

Adults, on the other hand, would be deliriously happy to attend school. Why, to hear them tell it, nothing would please adults better than to attend school 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Breathes there a child who hasn't heard an adult say: "You don't know how lucky you are, having all the advantages of modern schooling. Why, when I was a boy..."

It is obvious there is a state of unbalance in life, which can only be corrected by sending the adults to school (which they say they like) and taking the children out of school (which they say they don't like).

The corollary to this would be taking the adults out of work (which they say they don't like) and putting the children into work (which they say they would like).

This way, everybody would be happy, and perhaps somebody might learn something for a change.

Only a few minor adjustments to our educational system would be necessary, such as making the desks larger (or possibly the adults smaller).

And there would be, of course, the matter of teachers. If adults are attending school, they obviously can't be teachers. This leaves the teaching profession wide open for children.

Goodness knows, we can learn a lot from the kids.

By PENNY SAVER

During the winter and fall, badminton is an indoor sport, but comes the sun, and it may move outdoors. A stretch of level land, is all you need. A lawn in the backyard is ideal. Set up the net, find your shuttlecocks and racket and have fun. For those of you who would like an extra outdoor badminton set, or who are just trying out the game, this inexpensive set I saw would suit you. In a snap-close plastic bag you'll find two rackets, a cylinder holding two shuttlecocks, and a net. There's even a rule book included for you. When you've finished playing, the set can be neatly stored in the plastic case. The complete outfit costs $3.98.

Nearly all casual or dressy neckties call for appropriate scarves this season. With your little fitted suit, you might not want to wear a blouse, but want a gay scarf to fill in at the throat. The answer to the accessory need is a long, taffeta scarf that extends to the waistline, where tie tabs fasten around the waistline to assure a neat line. Your scarf won't twist around or flip out, 'cause it's securely anchored. You'll want several to match the spring and summer colors. Striped, they're white with red, green, blue, grey, blue and grey, or grey and yellow stripes. You'll be surprised at the low price. They're $1 each.

In the men's departments, I've noticed something new. Thick woven ties to catch the casual, tweedy look, have a hidden charm. They're not so heavy as they look, they're backed with taffeta. They're called Ivy League ties, to suit the Ivy League men. Plain, flecked or striped weaves are shown in all colors, and cost $1.50.

Stretchy socks that seem to be favorites with much of Victoria's male populace have been available in solid colors, stripes, checks and a multitude of patterns, but this season there's another to add to the list. Tastefully combined colors form always liked Argyles. These are $2 a pair.

Items in today's column are available in Victoria stores, the names of which may be obtained by calling me at 2-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Inactivity at Middle Age Will Lead to Overweight

A woman is more likely to become overweight from middle age on. During the busy years of rearing her family she may have dropped the habit of sports. For this reason after her children are grown she may not think of an afternoon of golf or walking or swimming, or of an evening of dancing. She simply has lost the habit.

It seems easier to perch oneself at a bridge table afternoons afternoons than to start out learning to play golf. There is nothing more pleasant than a bridge game with friends but timidity about beginning some new sport or physical exercise may cause the woman to lead a very sedentary life from middle age on, just when she needs exercise most.

The lady in question may not only find that she is gaining weight but that it is distributed less attractively than in the past. Middle-aged women need some exercise. If they do not have time or money to indulge in golf or dancing lessons or horseback riding, the brisk afternoon walk costs nothing but a little effort.

Exercises at home also can replace the regular indulgence in sports although both are desirable. Stretching exercises are splendid. So are many other exercises. These do not have to be strenuous but should match the condition and capability of the individual and will add to energy, improve health and make the figure lovelier.

The diet should consist of less food calorie-wise but even more of the foods essential for health. Simple foods, prepared with a minimum of vitamin and mineral plus exercise, will give both slows up as we grow older and an your figure a lift.

The woman who centres her whole attention on health is not wise yet extreme stoicism at middle age is foolish. At this time physical weaknesses show up and at this time especially, she should have regular physical examinations. She should also go to her doctor the minute she has any unusual symptoms.

Try this exercise. Lie on the floor on your back and place your heels on the seat of a chair. Arms rest on the floor at your sides. Keep your legs stiff as you lift your hips from the floor until your body makes a straight line from your shoulders to your heels. Hold for a few moments. Lower hips to the floor and continue.

The ceremony will take place in St. Matthias' Church. (Photos by Van Dyck and Meyer).

B. C. BRACEWELL SAYS

In Centralization of Power Is Loss of Responsibility

The dangers in too much centralization of power in the provincial governments with resulting loss of local responsibility was pointed out by B. C. Bracewell, retired deputy minister of municipal affairs, at a joint meeting of the civic affairs group of the University Women's Club of Victoria and the civic interest group of Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mr. Bracewell, whose subject was "Some Aspects of Municipal Government," also warned that there was a tendency for non-elected boards and committees to exert undue pressure on elected representatives, thus lessening the prestige of the municipal council.

He gave a comprehensive view of municipal government under the headings: Historical, physical, local autonomy, incorporation, supervision, powers and finance. He explained the relationship between the provincial department of municipal affairs and the individual municipal councils and he stressed the need for co-operation between efficient elected and employed civic officials to ensure good civic management.

The speaker illustrated his talk with interesting anecdotes from his experience in municipal affairs. A discussion period followed. Mr. Bracewell was introduced by Miss M. Crummy and thanked by Miss E. Brett.

The annual linen shower sponsored by the ladies' committee of the B.C. Protestant Orphanage will be held on Thursday, May 3, in the home on Cook Street. The president, Mrs. Walter Holder, and the past president, Mrs. Walter Luney, will receive guests. Tea conveners are Mrs. J. Collins.

18th Century Wedding Veil Worn by Bride, Grace Adams

Of interest to musical circles in Victoria is a wedding which took place in Metropolitan United Church on Saturday evening, when Miss Grace Adeline Adams, daughter of Mrs. Alfred H. Adams, 2141 Beach Drive, and the late Mr. Adams, exchanged vows with Edward William Hanning, son of Mrs. J. E. Hanning, Grosvenor Apartments, Hillside Avenue, and the late Lieut.-Col. Hanning, MC, formerly of Calgary.

Dr. F. E. H. James officiated at the ceremony in an all-white setting of stocks arranged in white baskets, with tall candelabra. Charles Palmer, church organist, played selections before the ceremony; and Pierre Timp, soloist, sang "Psalm of Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride was given in marriage by a family friend, G. Stanley Eden. She was gown in an ivory satin dress fashioned with embroidered panel of seed pearls from neckline to hem and with seed pearl design on the net yoke. The long sleeves came to points over the hands. The regal skirt of her gown extended into a long train. From a wreath of orange blossoms cascaded a filmy heirloom veil of lace on train which had been worn by her great-great-grandmother in 1795. Complementing her wedding gown she wore pearl drop earrings and a double strand of seed pearls, and the groom's gift of a gold engraved bracelet. Her bridal bouquet was an all-white cascade of roses, carnations, stephanotis and lily of the valley.

Matron of honor, Mrs. T. R. Barbour, sister of the bride, wore a sunlight yellow nylon chiffon-over-taffeta dress with swathed diamante bodice and coatee, a mauve tulle corset with matching gloves, and bouquet of mauve stocks and yellow jonquils. Three bridesmaids, Miss Joan Hanning, sister of the groom, Miss Lillian Conway and Miss Orsa-Marie Douglas, were gown in identical in powder blue nylon chiffon-over-taffeta dresses with off-shoulder necklines. They wore matching coronets of blue seed pearls with blue accessories, and carried pink and white colonial bouquets. They wore pearl jewelry and the bride's gifts, silver engraved bracelets.

Best man was Ross Sturgeon, while ushers were Terence R. Barbour, Lloyd Main, Harold Bryant and Douglas Robinson. George W. Robinson proposed the toast to the bride at the reception which followed at the Oak Bay Beach Hotel. Spring flowers decorated the lounge and marked the bride's table, where a three-tier wedding cake was flanked by ivory candles in silver holders.

Leaving for an up-island honeymoon trip, the bride wore a lilac-pink, worsted suit, with matching hat, a creme-beige coat with matching accessories.

Mr. and Mrs. Hanning will make their home at 3327 Cook Street when they return.

Bringing Up Baby.

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Dan Barker (MOTHER OF 5)

Even the most contented babies get a bit out of sorts from time to time. And even the most patient mothers sometimes get impatient trying to determine just what it is baby wants. But the wise mother makes an effort to hide her irritation . . . puts her friendliest face forward. Attitudes are easily transmitted, and more often than not, this "applied psychology" succeeds in bringing both mother and baby around to a happier frame of mind.

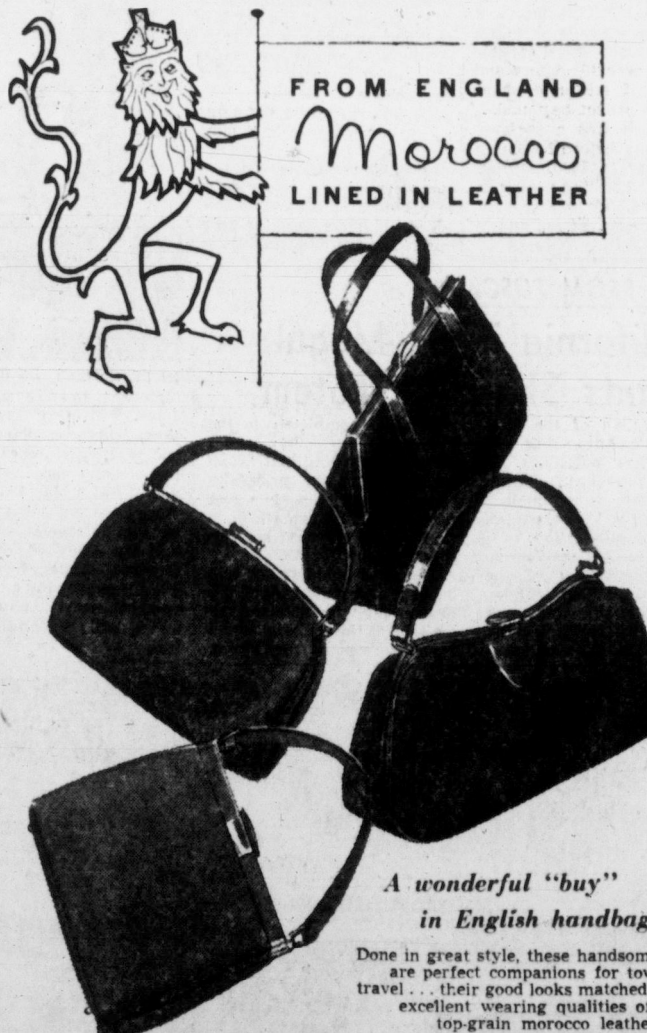

Good eating habits start with you. Introducing a variety of foods early is not only nutritionally desirable, but teaches baby the delights of many tastes, different textures . . . helps prevent "picky" eating in later years.

Variety galore is in store for your little one with Gerber Strained Foods—all specially prepared for the likes of babies. There are 37 Fruits, Vegetables, Meats, Dinners, Soups and Desserts—with mild, naturally good flavors, eye-appealing colors and the heavenly smooth texture that feels pleasant on baby's tongue. Easy as can be to vary baby's menus.

Fun fare. A "cost-nothing" toy that's grand for baby's play pen. Fill a couple of small, plastic vegetable bags with strips of brightly-colored cellophane. Secure tops with string, and tie between bars. Swell for punching, squeezing or just gazing at.

Two taste surprises for your pride and joy: Gerber Strained Garden Vegetables and Gerber Strained Sweet Potatoes are two unusually pleasant taste treats that are remarkable for their high iron and Vitamin A content. Both are pureed to a nice-on-the-tongue texture that offer important vegetable goodness in a milder more palatable form. Gerber-Ogilvie Baby Foods Limited, Niagara Falls, Canada.

THERE'LL BE DISPUTES

Chetwynd Has Bets On 40 Stetsons, $6

Railways Minister Ralph Chetwynd hopes to be the proud possessor of 40 Stetson hats and $6 by supertime on June 11.

The hats and the $6 are wagers the railways minister made with friends on the completion date of the Pacific Great Eastern Railway's southern extension.

Months ago, Mr. Chetwynd said the first train would travel the southern extension between North Vancouver and its present terminus at Squamish, on June 11, leaving from North Vancouver at 4:15 p.m.

His friends thought he was far too optimistic.

But Mr. Chetwynd felt secure enough in his forecast to wager 40 Stetsons (at $20 per) and the $6 that the first train would roll over newly-laid rails around Howe Sound on June 11.

The wagers may find some cause for dispute.

The train Mr. Chetwynd will ride will be a work train. It will haul a load of gravel ballast, and Mr. Chetwynd will be forced to ride in the engine cab, wearing a tin hat for protection. Official opening of the $10,000,000 southern extension, with all pomp and ceremony, won't take place until some time between July 15 and July 20.

"But the train I'll ride will be the first train to travel from one end to the other," said Mr. Chetwynd, who is also a member of the PGE's construction committee.

What will he do with 40 hats? "Well, I think I'll give one to Art Laing to talk through," said Mr. Chetwynd, who explained that Mr. Laing, leader of the

Brothel Operations Described in Court

TORONTO (CP)—A 64-year-old former miner from Timmins, Ont., Tuesday testified that Steve Feron provided the money to pay a fine resulting from a bawdy-house conviction against the miner's wife.

He testified during the fifth day of the trial of Feron, Linus Coghlin and Charles and William Ingwer, who face a total of 127 charges of keeping a common bawdy house. The crown seeks to prove they operated 81 brothels in the downtown Jarvis street district.

Fred (Pop) Davidson said he arrived in Toronto in 1944 and for five years was a guard at Malton airport. He said Charles Ingwer asked him in 1949 to operate a brothel rent-free with a commission of 15 per cent on 11 rooms to rent.

When his wife was arrested, he said, he went to Feron. Feron telephoned "all the magistrates he could think of" but Mrs. Davidson stayed in a jail overnight.

GAVE HIM MONEY
Davidson said: "She came up on trial and was fined $50. I paid the fine but Mr. Feron gave me the money."

He said he was employed variously as a house manager, a

City's Lease Killed But Garage Stays

Home Oil garage at Fisgard and Douglas will be allowed to continue in operation temporarily despite cessation of a lease from the city for its site. Finance committee was told Monday that buyer Edward Mallek who assumes ownership May 23 will sublet the garage until such time as a proposed new store building is ready for construction.

The property, recently transferred to Mr. Mallek for about $75,000, includes a depth of 50 feet of the lot behind the garage now used for parking by city vehicles and employees' cars.

NEW AREA NEEDED

The committee felt some new parking area will be required for the city vehicles but indicated the employees who park there will have to find other accommodation themselves.

The property adjoins an area used by city firemen for drill purposes. The committee will investigate for a new parking area in order that the remainder of the open space won't become too cramped by cars to permit fire drills.

General government estimates were cut by the committee by $5,570 then added to by $21,000, and ended up with a total of $41,700 increase over last year due to increased salaries and superannuation costs. More cutting is possible by council later.

Mayor Percy Scurren described as wasteful the outlay to patch up old city buildings. Repairs were authorized for city hall and market building roofs, but an estimated expenditure of $1,200 to paint the city hall was turned down.

"Paint is the only thing that's holding it together," said comptroller Dennis A. Young. Discussed was possibility of buying a microfilm camera and projector to reduce the volume of old records stored in the hall and now classed as a fire hazard.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books? Then ask Andy! Andy, who is a pixie, not a person, will answer two questions daily submitted by child readers of Canada and the U.S. Children who submit the questions are selected to answer will receive as prizes for the main question, either a 16-volume set of "The Children's Hour" or a 20-volume set of "The American People's Encyclopedia." Prizes for the secondary question will be an "American People's Encyclopedia Year Book" or a year's subscription to "Treasure Trails" plus "Andy's Everyday Encyclopedia."

Address your questions to "Ask Andy" Victoria Daily Times, Victoria.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of The American People's Encyclopedia to Bill Eisenlord, aged 13, of Tucson, Ariz., for his question:

What Are the Everglades?

The Everglades are over in the dense green foliage of the southeast corner of the United States. There a big finger separates the Atlantic Ocean from the Gulf of Mexico. It is a peninsula of low-lying land and the sea has trespassed upon it many times. There are still some 30,000 lakes resting in hollows down to the old sea bed. In some areas the sea still merges with the land to form marshes. The Everglades is one of these marshy areas in, of course, the state of Florida.

There was a time when the Everglades were much bigger. Then it was discovered that the marshy land could be drained. A number of canals were cut from the sea to Lake Okechobee. They drained off the water and left tracts of new land high and dry.

In 1947 it was decided that part of the original Everglades should be preserved in its original state. An area of 2,000 square miles was set aside as a national park. The Everglades National Park is second in size only to Yellowstone National Park.

The area is far south in tropical regions. Part of it is swamp land covered only with sturdy sawgrass. Parts are overgrown with dense foliage of great beauty. There is tropical timber and on the fertile islands between the bayous oaks, palms and pines thrive together. But the most common tree of the Everglades is the beautiful cypress.

The cypress is a relative of the old and stately sequoia. It is an evergreen of fine, delicate foliage. It grows knee-deep in the waters of the swamps and the bayous. Often its tall branches are draped in misty Spanish moss—a frothy relative of the pineapple.

Tropical flowers thrive in the warm climate. Thomas Edison spent many of his later years searching for orchids in the tall tropical trees of the Everglades. Some 25 different kinds of orchids thrive in this tropical wonderland. Some plants are hundreds of years old, bearing thousands of blossoms. They add their patches of vivid color to the landscape.

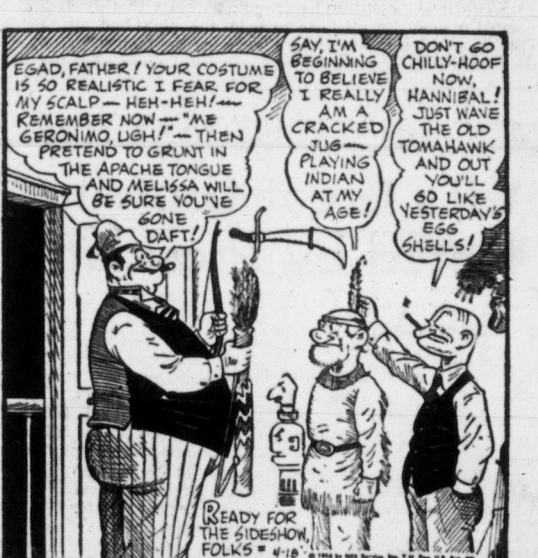

Andy sends a year's subscription to Treasure Trails to Quentin Steinberg, age 10, of Seattle, Wash., for his question: What is the life cycle of the housefly? If the weather is warm and the garbage plentiful a housefly may become full grown in less than two weeks. Mrs. Housefly lays from 500 to 2,000 eggs at a time. She places them in damp manure or garbage piles. The eggs hatch into small white maggots in a few days. For about five days these repulsive fellows stuff themselves with food. Then they go into the pupa state and rest for another five days. Next they hatch into full-grown flies. Half of the brood of eggs will be females, all ready to start another generation of pesky flies.

If she isn't swatted, sprayed or eaten by a cat, bird or frog, the fly can live through the whole summer. Nature puts a stop to her amazing multiplication with the cold days of fall. Cool weather delays each step in the life cycle of the fly. Sometimes a batch of eggs is unable to hatch for months. A warm spell in the middle of winter will bring them forth. A few flies will become full grown and lay new batches of eggs. This is how the housefly manages to survive the winter.

Grace 'Numb'
After RitesEx-Bricklayer's Daughter
Now 'Her Serene Highness'

By ELIZABETH TOOMEY

MONACO (UP)—Grace Kelly murmured "oui" with tears in her eyes today and became the wife and princess of a monarch so shy he gave her his kingdom without a kiss.

In the ancient crimson throne room of a castle on the cliffs above the Mediterranean, she sat beside Prince Rainier III and gravely took her solemn vows of marriage under the laws of his state and tradition of his dynasty.

She blinked her shining eyes and clasped her hands while Judge Marcel Portantier said in French: "Mademoiselle Grace Patricia Kelly, do you take as your husband His Serene Highness, Mr. Prince Rainier III, here present."

Her chiseled chin tipped up and she murmured "oui." The judge turned then to Rainier whose fingers fidgeted tensely in his lap.

"Oui," the prince replied in a low but steady voice.

At that moment (2 a.m. Victoria time) the bricklayer's daughter from Philadelphia who became first lady of Hollywood ascended to old world royalty with tilted rank and realm. "I pronounce Your Serene Highnesses united by the bonds of marriage," said the judge in the first usage of Grace Kelly's royal title.

The newlyweds stole a shy

glance at each other from the gilded chairs where they sat beside each other before the scarlet-canopied throne.

But Rainier did not seal it with a kiss. This was a solemn state occasion, a civil ceremony, and he chose to keep a regal atmosphere.

Tomorrow's ceremony also may be kissless. "It's seldom done and often not in Catholic ceremonies," Grace explained tremulously after today's formalities were completed.

"I doubt that we'll do it tomorrow either." She still was having trouble swallowing back the tears. "I'm kind of numb," she said.

138 TITLES

When she learned she had 138 titles, she gasped. "Oh, no!" she said, scanning a list of names offered her. "I've never seen them all in one place before."

She lifted her first glass of champagne after the marriage with United Press correspond-

BULLETINS

3 Escape Jail

REGINA (CP)—The RCMP reported today that three men had escaped from Regina jail.

They are identified as Larry Hart, 17; Julius Smith, 19, and James Ingram, 20. They were serving terms ranging from a year to 18 months.

An RCMP spokesman said it was believed the trio had been on a work party at the time of the escape, but other details were not immediately available.

Plan Ice Blast

REGINA (CP)—Engineers prepared today to use dynamite to blast ice jams from the record high floodwaters of Wascana creek in Regina.

By noon the creek was six inches above the Sunday level which led to evacuation of 20 homes. Temperatures in the 50s were causing the waters to rise steadily and ice flows threatened three city bridges.

New Strike Vote

SEATTLE (AP)—The Deep Sea Fishermen's Union will take a new strike vote Friday and Saturday among its 1,000 halibut fishermen members in Puget Sound ports.

Clarence Nordahl, secretary-treasurer, reported today the decision was reached at a special meeting Tuesday night.

U.S. 'Regrets'

Finds Father Dead

VANCOUVER (UP)—A 15-year-old school boy found his father dead in a carbon-monoxide-filled garage in Vancouver early today.

John Cameron found his father, John Albert Cameron, 56, slumped in a seated position against the wall of the garage near his car at 6 a.m. The ignition of the car was turned on but the motor had run down.

Big Ben Quits Strait Try
After 4 Hours in Water

By AB KENT

Big Ben Laughren's first try to swim to Port Angeles ended at 10:17 this morning when he pulled himself from shimmering, dead-calm water 2 1/2 miles south of Discovery Island.

It was the season's first swim attempt on the Strait and was halted because an expected ebb tide failed to materialize.

The swimming cook was in the water four hours, 25 minutes from the time he shoved off Gonzales Point at 5:52 a.m. and struggled most of the distance in tideless, 43-degree water.

A conference between Laughren, trainer Ove Witt and navigator Bill Teller was to decide this afternoon whether a second try would be launched "possibly Sunday or Monday."

Teller had counted on a strong ebb tide to carry Laughren away from Gonzales Point, around the south tip of Trial Island and down the Strait of Juan de Fuca toward Angeles Point.

It never materialized.

Rather than tire the swimmer unnecessarily by making the attempt into a long practice swim, his managers decided to forego the marathon.

There was no possible chance of getting across the 18.3-mile body of water today, according to Teller's calculations.

"Ben needs a couple of days' rest anyway," said Witt, adding, Continued on Page 30

250 Teen-Agers Defy
Principal, Teachers

NANAIMO—Close to 250 Nanaimo High School students left their classrooms in a protest action today and refused to return until promised a hearing by the District 68 School Board.

They complained of lack of co-operation by the school staff in school activities such as sports and band operation.

Led by Brian Kayne, spokesman, they left their classrooms at 10:30 a.m. Ordered by J. B. Litch, principal, to return to their classes, they refused until three trustees came to the school and promised a hearing at a school board meeting to night at 7:30.

Mr. Litch told the Times the students leading the demonstration do not represent the majority of the student body. (The school has 600 students.)

BEHIND IN WORK
"They said they would like to see changes made in the conduct of extra-curricular activities, but instead of going through normal channels they staged a demonstration," he said.

"Some of these students are behind scholastically, and others had been urged recently to improve their work," he said. "They have asked for an investigation of extra-curricular activities, and I would welcome the fullest check possible."

Mr. Litch has been at the school for 24 years, most of them as principal.

For 30 minutes the students stood in the school grounds in defiance of orders to return to classes. They did not move when Mr. Litch told them they would accomplish their objective faster by returning to classes.

School board chairman Jack Rayer, and trustees Mrs. W. E. Ricker and Matthew Martin, called at the school grounds in person. Mr. Rayer said the board of trustees would give a group of from three to five students a hearing at the regular meeting of the board this evening.

In addition to other complaints, the students said some had been asked to leave school, and others had been "restricted" in their work.

BOO PRINCIPAL

They disagreed when Mr. Litch said "my office door is always open," and they booed when he said "we always have been interested in extra-curricular activities."

Students said that only recently a party of 20 of them came to Victoria to see provincial authorities regarding their complaints about the school.

Spokesman Brian Kayne said that after they had left Nanaimo someone "at the school" had telephoned Victoria to say they were coming, and that as a result they were able to see no one.

Kayne said the principal had been "trying to get me out of the school."

"I've gone to his office several times to protest lack of co-operation, and was not listened to," he said. "What it amounted to was him putting me in a chair and calling me names."

Witnesses said about 100 students left the school in a body, and others came in smaller groups as word of the demonstration spread. Over the grounds was a banner reading: "Students of Nanaimo High Protest Lack of Co-Operation."

Cheers, Boos Greet
Russians in LondonSecurity Guards Arrest Four
As Krushchev, Bulganin Arrive

LONDON (Reuters)—Soviet Premier Bulganin and Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev arrived by train in London today to mixed cheers and boos from a crowd under close police surveillance.

Despite some taunting banners and scores of anti-Communist pamphlets handed out to the crowd, the attitude of most spectators was good-natured curiosity.

Four persons were arrested by London police carrying out super-security arrangements protecting the Soviet leaders.

IMPORTANT TALKS
After Prime Minister Eden greeted the visitors at Victoria station, Bulganin delivered a statement calling for better East-West relations and "wider reciprocal economic ties" with Britain.

The Russian leaders landed this morning from the cruiser Ordzhonikidze at the south coast naval base of Portsmouth for a 10-day visit.

During the wait at the station, an explosion sent police running down an alley nearby. It was a firecracker.

On the way to the hotel, some spectators waved papers and flags. Two students stood on the sidewalk with a banner declaring: "We Want Grace Kelly."

There were one or two scuffles among the crowds along the route but no serious incidents. British police have imposed every possible security measure to protect the Soviet leaders while they are here.

In Coventry today, many of the city's exiles from Iron Cur-

KING COLE ATTACKERS
GIVEN SIX MONTHS' JAIL

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Judge Ralph Parker today convicted three white citizens' council members of attacking Negro singer Nat King Cole and ordered them jailed for maximum terms of 180 days for assault.

Parker sentenced a fourth white man, Jesse Mabry, 43, associate editor of a citizens' council publication, to 180 days for conspiring to commit a breach of the peace and disorderly conduct.

At the same time, Parker commended the conduct of Cole "at the scene of the difficulty and since then."

"He has displayed an understanding of our customs and traditions," Parker said. He noted Cole is a Montgomery, Ala., native and added that the entertainer "conducted himself in a way to earn respect of his white friends."

VICTORIAN AT 'THE WEDDING'

Weeping, Cheering
On Monaco Streets

By NORMA MACDONALD
MONACO—The scene in this story-book principality of Monaco is one of indescribable beauty. The streets are filled with cheering, happy people. It is the biggest moment in their lives—past, present and future—and they are making the most of it. Their beloved prince has taken into himself a wife, a little stately below my window is the fabulous Onassis yacht and Prince Rainier's slightly smaller one. In the background with the palace, simply shining with lights.

During the fireworks display the prince and Grace stood spotlighted in a central palace window. Below them, the courtyard was packed with their subjects, tourists, camera men, newspaper men and visiting sailors.

Mid-afternoon Tuesday, a group of little French girls went to the palace to present a huge floral wreath and a dove to the princess-to-be. Grace wore her favorite color, blue, in a light billowy tulle.

The weather has been grey and cloudy, and rain still threatens. But just as Prince Rainier and Princess Grace stepped out on the balcony following the civil ceremony, the sun came out for the first time today.

The Monaguesque screamed with excitement. "A good omen... a good omen," is what they said. And, somehow, as I looked at the young prince and his beautiful bride, I hope they are right.

IN PARLIAMENT

Long Debate Ends As Budget Approved

(From Times News Services)

After a last-minute flurry of Opposition criticisms and suggestions, the House has approved the 1956-57 federal budget outlined March 20 by Finance Minister Harris.

The budget, which aims at ending the current fiscal year with a $13,000,000 surplus and offers only certain sales and excise tax changes worth about $12,000,000, was in effect given approval Tuesday night by a vote of 140 to 69.

The three Opposition parties and the two Independent members in the House at the time—Ross Thatcher (Moose Jaw-Lake Centre) and Raoul Poulin (Beauce)—opposed the Liberals.

The vote, ending the eight-day budget debate, left the House free to begin consideration today of legislation ratifying the trade agreement between Canada and Russia, signed here Feb. 29.

The three-year pact, under which Russia agreed to buy at least 44,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat within the treaty's span, must be ratified within 90 days of its signing.

As the budget debate closed,

Sabotage Canadian Development

A. B. Patterson (S.C. Fraser Valley) in turn criticized their disapproval of growing American investment in Canada.

This anti-American attitude, he said, might have the effect of sabotaging Canadian development. If Canadians were hesitant in investing their money and the government refused to adopt policies to ensure proper development, "then we should be prepared to welcome foreign capital into Canada."

Jean-Paul St. Laurent, son of the prime minister, took the opportunity of making his maiden speech. He was elected member for Temiscouata in a by-election last September.

He made no attempt to reply to a speech earlier this session by J. Wilfrid Dufresne (P.C. Quebec West), who described the young Mr. St. Laurent as a spoiled child who won election with "childish sayings" about his influence with his father. Jean-Paul dismissed Mr. Dufresne's remarks as "garbage."

Transport Minister George Marler said Tuesday the government is considering financial aid for a west coast marine rescue service.

The British Columbia Tow-boat Owners' Association was in danger of being disbanded and asked Ottawa for assistance, Marler said.

Some representations made by the association last October already have been put into effect, and others have been passed on to other government departments.

Marler said his department had updated and improved the association's radio communication, but he pointed out that the defence department was responsible for co-ordinating rescue and search operations.

The government has lost interest in brain-washing experiments, Defence Minister Ralph Campney said Tuesday.

Some of the experiments were conducted at McGill University, Campney said in reply to a question by Davie Fulton (P.C. Kamloops), but they were not followed up.

"The experiments demonstrated conclusively that purely by mental suggestion people can be reduced to a certain state of mind that you could get them to accept anything and

REPORTERS MISTAKEN FOR RUSSIANS

Some Cheered, Some Jeered— But Most Londoners Just Stared

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON (CP)—I drove through London streets today with Nikita Khrushchev and Marshal Bulganin, and shared their boos and cheers.

The crowd thought our shiny black automobile, travelling in the official convoy from Victoria station to Claridge's Hotel, carried Russian notable secret police.

Instead, we were just reporters. Our car was the seventh in the convoy. If we had been Russians, we wouldn't have known what to make of our reception. Some cheered, some waved, most just stared.

Occasionally there were boos. One small group on the sidewalk near Victoria station chanted rhythmically: "Down with communism, down with communism."

Mostly it was a triumph of British phlegm. The crowd seemed curious rather than hostile.

The angriest man we saw was Brig. Terence Clarke, a Conservative member of Parliament. He got caught in the crowd outside Claridge's.

"Hey," he cried. "I've got to get to the House of Commons. This is just an ordinary day for us."

Finally he had to make a detour to get through the crowd.

The first view the Russians had of London after getting off the train and leaving the station would have fitted any preconceived notions they may have had from reading Pravda.

As Bulganin, leading the way, came out of the station he looked up at a gloomy, five-story factory building on a street called Hudson's place. Off to the right was the skeleton structure of a new office building, a depressing sight.

It was hardly the most auspicious place to discover London's bourgeois charms.

But Bulganin and Khrushchev had no time to stand and stare. Their attention was quickly caught by Soviet officials and their wives, laden with flowers, about 20 yards to their left.

The welcoming party chanted "Zdrastvuite" which we were told means "May you be healthy."

One of the women was allowed through the police lines to present a bouquet. After a few moments, we drove off.

Eden today received a spoon with a 10-foot long handle from the British League of Empire Loyalists. A league official said the group was acting on the proverb: "Who supps with the devil should use a long spoon."

No flags or bunting broke the drabness of the station but a red Soviet flag with yellow hammer and sickle was displayed outside the hotel. A Union Jack flew on either side of it.

Crowds waiting near Claridge's were handed leaflets by Latvian refugees. They said: "Be on the alert against Bulganin and Khrushchev. Treachery hides behind their smiles."

At Portsmouth, there were no cheers as the Russian cruiser carrying the Soviet leaders slid slowly to her moorings.

SAN FRANCISCO REMEMBERS 'QUAKE

452 Died 50 Years Ago Today City Burned 3 Days, 2 Nights

SAN FRANCISCO (UP)—A five-day festival of progress began today at 5:12 a.m.—exactly half a century after the start of the worst disaster ever to strike an American city.

It was at that minute on April 18, 1906, that a great earthquake shook the city of San Francisco. Even before the tremors subsided, tongues of flame began finishing the destruction that the quake had begun.

The fire raged for three days and two nights, and when it was over the heart of the Queen City of the west was in ruins.

Today, 50 years afterward, San Francisco is celebrating its rebirth. Survivors of the disaster gathered at 5:12 a.m. at the Market Street landmark, Lotta's Fountain, to hear an invocation and lay a wreath in memory of the 452 persons who lost their lives.

BIG PARADE
A round of luncheons and banquets were scheduled for the next four days and the celebration will be climaxed Sunday by a huge parade.

Even to a world familiar with mass destruction—the bombing raids of the Second World War—the extent of the San Francisco disaster of 1906 is impressive. The total loss was estimated at nearly $500,000,000. The quake and fire wiped out 508 blocks and destroyed 28,000 buildings. Close to 200,000 persons were left homeless.

The earthquake came from the San Andreas fault, a 270-mile crack in the earth's structure running along the coast of California and passing the

Said Ben, glistening and dripping with grease and water in the strong sunlight aboard Teller's schooner Black Dog:

"I'll be ready to go when they decide the next good tide."

Laughren weighed 274 pounds before entering the water. He has trained up to six hours a day regularly since the new year began, and was in excellent condition when he climbed aboard the Black Dog.

The tide he needed should have taken him within a few miles of Ediz Hook. The flood tide was figured to take him in from there.

Any progress he made was due to his own 28-34 strokes a minute and a slight tide spurt on the fringe of a back-eddy encountered about 8 a.m.

Teller employed a unique system for spotting tidal fluctuations. Fifteen-year-old Ron Page, Fisherman's Wharf, dropped bright yellow plastic gill net floats ahead of the Black Dog in line with the course, and spaced about 200 yards apart.

Navigational "takes" were judged by their drift. Floats were reset every half hour.

Swim spectator Bert Thomas, last year's south-north victor over the Strait, arrived in an outboard runabout at 8:40 on a day's fishing outing with his wife, Marion, from Port Angeles.

He said he would make his next try to swim from Seattle to Tacoma, his home, May 11, then come back to Victoria for an attempt to swim to Port Angeles.

Action Started To Regain Jehovah Boy

TORONTO (BUP)—A lawyer for the Jehovah's Witnesses religious sect said today he had filed an application for a writ of habeas corpus asking for the release of seven-year-old Paul Leatherdale from custody of the St. Thomas Children's Aid Society.

Glen How, legal expert with the Watch Tower Tract and Bible Society, said the case would be heard in a Toronto court today.

The case stems from the accidental shooting last Tuesday of young Paul, son of a Fingal district farmer who is a Jehovah's Witness.

The father, Alvin Leatherdale, refused to allow doctors in St. Thomas to give his son a blood transfusion, although doctors said he needed one to survive.

The boy was shot in the stomach by his nine-year-old brother, Ray, when they were playing with an automatic pistol they found in their farm home.

The father objected to the transfusion on religious grounds.

However, a St. Thomas magistrate issued a court order making the boy a ward of the Children's Aid Society. That cleared the way for blood transfusions, given last Wednesday night.

The child has been slowly recovering but his condition was reported still serious.

would take the place of Irish Sweepstake lotteries, and could apply "with equal force" in Canada.

He said such a scheme in operation in this country "would assist in holding down any inflationary trends in our economy."

F. E. Winslow, investment dealer, said: "It is a good thing for England, with its inflation troubles, but I will reserve judgment on the merits of its application in Canada."

G. F. Dunn, president of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, also thought the British plan "a good idea."

He said it would serve as a legal outlet "for those people who are going to gamble and buy sweepstake tickets, no matter what the law says."

"I am satisfied that gambling will be carried on regardless of the law," said Mr. Dunn, "and it seems common sense to gratify the public desire to gamble, and at the same time, cure Britain's serious inflation problems."

STREETS SUNK

Filmsy frame buildings collapsed, streets sunk five feet in some places and cable car tracks were torn from their beds and twisted like snakes.

Most ominous of all, however, were the flickering flames that began to curl out of the rubble.

Since water mains had been fractured by the shock, firemen had to dynamite buildings and start backfires in their efforts to halt the flames. Martial law was declared. Refugees fled westward to Golden Gate Park and swarmed in all types of boats across the bay to Oakland.

Weary firemen finally lined up at Van Ness Avenue for a last stand. Backfires built along the east side of that wide thoroughfare proved the turning point in the battle. The fire stopped at Van Ness Avenue.

Everest Thrills Top Antarctic—Hillary

VANCOUVER (CP)—The vast Antarctic, newest project of Sir Edmund Hillary, is not as exciting as the Himalayas, the conqueror of Mount Everest said Tuesday.

In Vancouver briefly on a roundabout trip from the Southern Polar wastes to his New Zealand home, Sir Edmund is planning the first continental crossing of the Antarctic.

"We didn't do much this last trip, but we finished what we set out to do," he said. "We established our base camp at Vahsel Bay."

In New Zealand Sir Edmund, knighted for his 1953 conquest of Mount Everest, will select men for the Antarctic assault.

The base camp, Shackleton, was named after Sir Ernest Shackleton, who made an expedition to the South Pole in 1908.

On his return from the trip into the Antarctic Sir Edmund was trapped for a month aboard the Canadian sealer Theron when it became ice-locked.

THREE YEARS
The main trip across the ice cap will take about three years, he said, mostly in mapping and exploration. A British expedition, led by Dr. Vivian Fuchs,

SPILL ON IT, SPLASH ON IT, PUNISH IT
— JUST AN EASY ONCE-OVER RESTORES THE LUSTRE, WITHOUT RE-WAXING!

JOHNSON'S STRIDE takes it like paste wax. Now from the Johnson's Wax Laboratories comes Stride—an entirely new kind of liquid self-polishing wax that actually protects like paste wax. It contains the hardest, brightest, longest-lasting waxes known! Just spread Stride on—it dries to the same kind of rich, mellow lustre paste wax gives. And from then on, spills wipe away without a trace, even if left for hours. A little buffing erases scuff marks when they begin to show. Your usual damp mopping actually brightens the lustre. You wax less often—that's why Stride is the most economical floor wax you can use! There never was a self-polishing wax like Stride before. Try it! See the difference!

Soviets Enlarge Submarine Fleet

BONN (AP)—The Soviet Union is increasing its fleet of 400 submarines by about 85 new underwater craft a year, U.S. Admiral Jerauld Wright said today.

The supreme Allied commander, Atlantic, told a press conference: "There is no reason to believe that they (the Russian submarines) are not first-class ships. They are all fully manned. None is in mothballs."

There are more than 1,000 islands in Lake Nipigon in the Thunder Bay area of northwestern Ontario.
